Delivers JFK's Freedom Pledge To Parliament

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners took Lyndon B. Johnson to their hearts Saturday in a tumultuous, emotional welcome to the U.S. vice president as a symbol of America's pledge that Berlin will remain free.

Johnson in turn told the cheering Berliners that they are linked solidly to the free world and to all people "who live in freedom and are prepared to fight for it." He predicted the Communists would fail to keep Germany divided.

As Johnson spoke, a crack 1,500-man battle group of the U.S. 8th Infantry Division headed for the border of Communist East Germany. It was ordered out of its base near Mannheim to reinforce the 5,000-man U. S. Berlin garrison. It will arrive Sunday.

BRITISH TO AID

Britain ordered in a trainload of wheeled equipment. A British garrison spokesman said this "very welcome" consignment — 18 troop carriers and 16 scout cars—was on the way. No more British troops are expected for the time being, he added.

In a speech to an appluading West Berlin city Parliament, Johnson declared the Communists are "trying to interpose barbed wire, bayonets and tanks against the force of history" in Berlin.

He gave the Parliament President Kennedy's personal pledge that the freedom of Berlin and access to the city would be maintained.

U.S. Slates Two Major Space Shots

Both Are Basic Steps For Moon Landing Attempt

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — In a pair of major launchings next week, the United States plans to try to send an unmanned Project Mercury capsule into orbit for the first time and to hurl aloft a space platform from which a payload will be fired deep into space.

Both shots are basic steps in a broad program aimed at placing an American astronaut on the moon in this decade.

START OF DRIVE

The attempt to hoist the two-ton Mercury capsule into orbit and have it return automatically to earth after a single circuit of the globe is the start of a drive to place an American in orbit within a few months.

The capsule will carry a small gray box called a crewman simulator, which will "breathe, sweat and talk" much like a human passenger.

If the shot is successful, a chimpanzee and then a man will be lofted into orbits taking them three times around the world — hopefully before the end of the year.

The Soviet Union already has orbited two men, Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov, and the United States is hurrying to catch up.

An Atlas - Agena rocket will zoom skyward in an effort to place the second stage in a so-called "parking orbit." When the Agena reaches a desired position on its course, it will refire and

U.S. Judge 'Bottles Up' Cuban Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge late Saturday continued until Monday a hearing on whether the Bahia de Nipe can be returned to Cuba or will be held for settlement of debts against the ship's owners.

Judge Walter E. Hoffman's action thus kept up a legal tug of war almost as complicated as the actions by which the master and 10 crewmen overpowered 23 other crew members of the sugar-laden vessel and brought it here Thursday to seek political asylum.

HEAR ARGUMENTS

Specifically, the judge heard arguments on a show cause order in which he called on the Coast Guard to explain why it should keep the U.S. marshal from seizing the ship for settlement of debts by several claimants.

Even as the hearing was under way, the State Department in Washington said it had received a formal request from the Castro government of Cuba for return of the 3,800-ton freighter. The State Department said Cuba claimed government ownership of the vessel.

Hoffman Saturday refused to read three telegrams presented in evidence by Asst. U.S Atty. Roger Williams purportedly containing correspondence between the United States and Cuba touching on the question of "sovereign immunity." The messages were exchanged through the Swiss Embassy.

"I don't believe the Department of Justice wants a federal judge to try a case by telephone calls and telegrams," the judge told U.S. Atty. Vernon Spratley.

Hoffman's refusal followed objections by nine attorneys representing six claimants. The attorneys sought to have the Bahia de Nipe attached Friday by the U.S. marshal, but the Coast Guard prohibited the action.

The judge said the only question before him at this time is whether or not the coast guard has the right to prevent a law enforcement officer from serving a proper process. He pointed out there appeared to be a conflict between

U.N. May Ask French Pullout

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Diplomats predicted Saturday that the U.N. General Assembly would ask France next week to pull its forces out of Bizerte City and to negotiate with Tunisia on withdrawing them from Bizerte base, the last French post in the North African country.

They speculated that more than 50 U.N. members would vote for an Asian-African resolution in those terms and that enough others would abstain to give it a winning majority of two-thirds of those voting in the 99-nation assembly.

U.S. Seizes $300,000 In Counterfeit

Printing Plates Found In Raid At Suspect's Home

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Nearly $300,000 in counterfeit $20 bills was seized by federal agents Saturday as they arrested a former newspaperman in Washington and then raided his home near this southside Virginia city.

Morris Leon (Pete) Chaney, 29, was charged with possession of nearly $30,000 worth of the money when he was arrested in Washington. About $250,000 more of the counterfeit money, plus the plates for printing it, were seized in the raid on Chaney's home.

SEEK WARRANT

Late Saturday, officers were seeking a search warrant to inspect the Piedmont Printing Co., the printing firm which Chaney, a former Virginia newspaperman, had operated in nearby Chatham since early this year.

Officers said a chain of evidence first forged with the arrest of another Danville area man at a West Virginia race track led to both Chaney in Washington and the money at his home near here.

Fred Leander Waddell, 37, was arrested Friday on charges of passing counterfeit $20 bills at the Shenandoah Downs Race Track near Charles Town, W. Va.

In his possession, a spokesman said, was a key to a Washington hotel room. Chaney's arrest in Washington came shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday.

In the basement of Chaney's home the raiders found two glass jars in which the bogus bills had been jammed so tightly they could hardly be removed. State Trooper R. M. McCrickard, who participated in the raid, said the $250,000 estimated appeared conservative.

Also found were four printing plates—two for each side of the counterfeit bills—and a half-gal-

U.S. Reports Fast Upturn In Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recovery from last winter's business recession has been faster than in any of the previous three postwar economic slumps, the Commerce Department reported Saturday.

One result has been a brisk rebound in corporate profits. Reversing a year-long decline, profits rose sharply in the spring, the department said. It gave no estimate for the second quarter. Officials guessed privately that before - tax profits reached a yearly rate of $44 billion, up a smart 10 per cent from the $40 billion rate of the first quarter.

Further gains in profits are expected for the balance of this year. This prospect figures heavily in the treasury's forecast of $90 billion-plus tax revenues in fiscal 1963. That would be far and away the highest tax inflow ever —a whopping $10 billion or so above this year.

Rising defense spending is a major reason for the business expansion. Economists are hopeful the upswing will reduce unemployment, which has persisted at close to 7 per cent of the labor force despite gains in industrial production since February.

Sales and output of new cars were "the most important single factor" in the snappy spring upturn, the department said. Output of passenger cars leaped from 1,196,000 in the March quarter to 1,553,000 in the following three months. Sales have been brisk and dealers' inventories are relatively low.

Car dealers stocked up in the spring to carry themselves through the summer model

STATE LEGISLATOR

Bastrop Elects Wilson As Judge

BASTROP (Special) — State Rep. Woodrow Wilson unofficially won the Bastrop city judge's bench yesterday to fill the vacancy created when Judge Mack Barham was elected to the Fourth District Court seat.

The unofficial count last night showed Wilson with 1,427 votes to his opponent, Asst. Dist. Atty. Joe Rolfe White's 835. All 13 city precincts had reported.

White, who serves as assistant district attorney under Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter of Monroe, conceded the election shortly after 9 p.m.

Lassiter was defeated by Barham for election to the vacancy in the district court after Judge David I. Garrett's death.

NO COURT

There had been no municipal court in Bastrop since the other election.

Wilson last night complimented White on a "clean, hard-fought race" and said, "I am looking forward to serving the city of Bastrop as judge."

Wilson will be sworn in as judge in 10 days, according to reports last night, but there was no indication when an election will be called to fill the vacancy in the legislature caused by Wilson's election.

A special election will be called by the governor. This is necessary when there is a year or more remaining on the term of the lawmaker vacating. Wilson had two years remaining on his present term.

Wilson carried every precinct in the city except number nine which White won by a 22-vote margin.

Ward 4, pct. 1 — White, 116; Wilson, 138; pct. 2 — White, 49; Wilson 139; pct. 3 — White, 153; Wilson, 207; pct. 4 — White 42; Wilson, 59; pct. 5 — White 70; Wilson, 119; pct. 6 — White 15; Wilson, 59; pct. 7 — White 20; Wilson, 84; pct. 8 — White, 37; Wilson, 84;

Pct. 9 — White, 109; Wilson, 87; pct. 10 — White, 116; Wilson, 193; pct. 11 — White, 24; Wilson, 101; pct. 12 — White, 48; Wilson, 118; pct. 13 — White, 31; Wilson, 39.

Local Pair Injured In Winn Crash

WINNFIELD (Special) — Three persons, including two women from West Monroe, were injured near here Saturday night in a three - car collision, state police reported.

Injured were Mrs. Rose M. Oglesby, 47, Rt. 1, West Monroe, driver of one of the cars; Mrs. H. A. Lane, 52, West Monroe, a passenger in the automobile, and Daniel W. Stranger, Rt. 2, Jonesboro, driver of the second car. Freddie Wayne Stewart of Jonesboro, driver of the third car, escaped injury.

Police said Mrs. Oglesby suffered a fractured right ankle, Mrs. Lane received a possible broken leg and facial lacerations, while Stranger suffered bruises and shock.

According to officers, the Stranger automobile attempted to pass the Stewart automobile on Highway 84, one mile east of here, and went out of control. It turned sidewise in the highway and collided with the car driven by Mrs. Oglesby and then crashed into the Stewart vehicle.

The two West Monroe women were given emergency treatment here, then transferred to Monroe.

Senator Soaper Says

A complaint is registered that nobody is in charge of our moon trip project. Still, after all, you can't confuse the competition unless you confuse yourself a little at the same time.

Citizens must realize that the President's job is a difficult one. You don't just jot down, "Solve the Berlin problem" on your Things To Do Today pad.

Although he has never tried the sport, Congressman Sludgepump figures that all those years of standing with one foot firmly on each side of every issue should make him a natural for water skiing.

O.K., but we'll bet that, at this date in 1927, Babe Ruth had eaten more hot dogs than Mantle and Maris together.

U.S. Battle Group Rolls For Berlin

BRAUNSHWEIG, Germany (UPI)—A crack 1,500 man U.S. battle group assigned to reinforce the West Berlin garrison was ordered to move out of overnight bivouac here at 5:15 a.m. Sunday (12:15 a.m. edt) to cross the Communist East German border.

The American infantrymen were in high spirits despite only a few hours rest and cold, driving rain that beat down on their encampment.

They were scheduled to reach the border check point of Helmstedt, about 20 miles away, around 6:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. edt) and then start rolling across the Autobahn for the 110-mile trip across East German territory into West Berlin.

The last vehicle from the 1st Battlegroup, 18th Infantry base at Mannheim arrived at the semi-abandoned Braunschweig airport at 1 a.m. (8 p.m. edt Saturday). The men had been on the move for 21 hours.

Col. Glover S. Johns Jr., commander of the battlegroup, said "The men's spirits are wonderful. They look forward to seeing Berlin."

The 49-year old Johns, who is from Austin, Tex., said he is "not anticipating any trouble at the border at all."

"There are no indications of trouble," he added. "We told the Soviets Friday afternoon that we are coming."

John said the Russians "can look into every vehicle to their hearts content."

Reds Reject Protests On Berlin Acts

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union rejected Saturday Western protests against East Germany's closing of Berlin's east - west border. It charged the flow of German refugees from the east arose from Western "deception, bribery and blackmail."

The Soviet note belittled U. S., British and French accusations that their occupation rights had been violated. It pictured West Berlin as an espionage den and blamed the West for East Germany's internal trouble.

IDENTICAL NOTES

The United States, Britain and France protested Thursday in identical notes against the "flagrant and particularly serious violation" of their legal position in Berlin. They demanded a prompt halt to "these illegal measures."

The Soviet note replying to the three powers contended that such claims could be lodged "only with an extreme sense of humor". The note indicated that the border closing—which it termed "defensive measures"—would end with the conclusion of a German peace treaty. Unless the Allies agree on a peace treaty, Premier Khrushchev has threatened to sign a separate treaty with East Germany.

Conceding "certain temporary inconveniences for the city's population," the Soviets placed the blame on West Germany and the United States, Britain and France.

Smiths Claim Lead In U.S. Senate Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's two Smiths noted with pride Saturday that more persons named Smith have served in the chamber than persons of any other name.

This claim was registered in a joint statement by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R.-Maine, and Benjamin A. Smith, D-Mass. They are not related.

"Twenty-one Smiths from 17 states have served in the Senate since the founding of our Republic," the present Smiths said.

"This is more by far than any other name. In second place is the name Johnson, with 15. Williams and Brown are tied for third place with 12 each," they added.

Study Cited By Tugwell On Deficit

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell says a study by the Public Affairs Research Council showed he was substantially correct in a dispute over the amount of Louisiana's 1960 financial deficit.

Tugwell earlier had put the deficit figure at $92 million at the close of the last fiscal year.

Both figures referred to the deficit in the general fund.

Tugwell said Friday the private research organization, PAR, in an Aug. 10 bulletin, said the general fund deficit was $29 million at the close of the last fiscal year, June 30.

Tugwell said, "The State Budget Office reported that state agencies had on hand certain fees and unencumbered funds due the treasury which would reduce the treasury deficit by approximately $3,500,000.

"PAR agrees that such funds, if and when received, might be applied to the prior fiscal year. We do not concur. We believe that revenues should be credited to the year in which the revenues are received.

"At any rate," Tugwell said, "the state treasurer and the PAR council are in agreement that the deficit on June 30, 1961, was approximately $30,000,000 slightly more or less, depending on the method used in accounting for agency funds at hand at the close of the fiscal year."

AT POND NEAR HOME

Youth Keeps Busy Saving Swimmers

FOREST, Miss., (UPI) — David Warren, 16, says he wants to learn more about life saving after spending a "hectic" summer saving three youngsters from drowning, he said.

He pulled a 15-year-old boy from the water after he developed a cramp, rescued an 18-year-old girl who had swallowed too much water and went under and revived an 8-year-old girl whose body had turned "black" after she stopped breathing.

"I'm going to learn more about life saving," the well-built youth said. "It's been sort of a hectic summer."

Warren said in the first case, the boy had not "gone under. I just jumped in and grabbed him from the back. I had him out of the water in a couple of seconds," he said.

In the second case, Warren said the girl "went under and I was watching her. I dove in after her and at first I had to slap her to make her turn loose of me.

"I grabbed her from under the arms and around her neck and pulled her to the surface," he said.

The final incident, which happened a week ago, was the most dramatic.

Patricia Hanley, 8, had been under water "for some time" when Warren's brother, Kenneth, 19, noticed her. "Ken pulled her to shore and we could see she had stopped breathing. Her body had turned black."

"Another man attempted to give her artificial respiration," Warren said, "but it wasn't doing any good. It was then I remem-

Few Showers Expected Today

He also said partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures are in the offing through tonight with the high ranging between 85 and 92 degrees.

Yesterday's top reading, according to Federal Aviation at Selman Field, was 90 degrees with the overnight low stopping at 67.

There was no rainfall Saturday.

WOMAN CONFESSES

Winning Of Award Is Only Imaginary

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "It was all a hoax—nobody is to blame but me," Inez Miller said tearfully.

"I don't know. I don't know why I did it."

For a few days Miss Miller, 36, an office worker, had basked in the admiration of her fellow workers as the imaginary winner of an imaginary $20,000 award.

She had told friends she had won the Victor Hugo award of the French Academy of Arts for helping orphans and aspiring artists.

When the "award" was first announced Thursday, Miss Miller told this story:

For 10 years she had been helping orphans and young artists to study art in Mexico City and Paris. This philanthropy was financed by sales of her paintings, which she said had been on display in museums throughout the nation.

Why did she continue working as a receptionist for so many years if she was so well off? Miss Miller had an answer.

All her earnings from paintings went to help others, she said, and she used her slim earnings as a receptionist for the Pasadena City Recreation Department to support herself.

The Los Angeles Times published Saturday her admission that it was all a hoax.

Inez Miller's fanciful world started crumbling, the Times said after a fellow worker checked employment records and learned that she had been in Pasadena, not Paris, in 1955 as she had said.

A search in France failed to turn up a trace of the 'French Academy of Arts." No one seemed to have heard of the "Victor Hugo Award," either.

Reds Reject Protests On Berlin Acts

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union rejected Saturday Western protests against East Germany's closing of Berlin's east - west border. It charged the flow of German refugees from the east arose from Western "deception, bribery and blackmail."

The Soviet note belittled U. S., British and French accusations that their occupation rights had been violated. It pictured West Berlin as an espionage den and blamed the West for East Germany's internal trouble.

IDENTICAL NOTES

The United States, Britain and France protested Thursday in identical notes against the "flagrant and particularly serious violation" of their legal position in Berlin. They demanded a prompt halt to "these illegal measures."

The Soviet note replying to the three powers contended that such claims could be lodged "only with an extreme sense of humor". The note indicated that the border closing—which it termed "defensive measures"—would end with the conclusion of a German peace treaty. Unless the Allies agree on a peace treaty, Premier Khrushchev has threatened to sign a separate treaty with East Germany.

Conceding "certain temporary inconveniences for the city's population," the Soviets placed the blame on West Germany and the United States, Britain and France.

Smiths Claim Lead In U.S. Senate Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's two Smiths noted with pride Saturday that more persons named Smith have served in the chamber than persons of any other name.

This claim was registered in a joint statement by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R.-Maine, and Benjamin A. Smith, D-Mass. They are not related.

"Twenty-one Smiths from 17 states have served in the Senate since the founding of our Republic," the present Smiths said.

"This is more by far than any other name. In second place is the name Johnson, with 15. Williams and Brown are tied for third place with 12 each," they added.

Study Cited By Tugwell On Deficit

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell says a study by the Public Affairs Research Council showed he was substantially correct in a dispute over the amount of Louisiana's 1960 financial deficit.

Tugwell earlier had put the deficit figure at $62 million at the close of the last fiscal year.

Both figures referred to the deficit in the general fund.

Tugwell said Friday the private research organization, PAR, in an Aug. 10 bulletin, said the general fund deficit was $29 million at the close of the last fiscal year, June 30.

Tugwell said, "The State Budget Office reported that state agencies had on hand certain fees and unencumbered funds due the treasury which would reduce the treasury deficit by approximately. $3,500,000.

"PAR agrees that such funds, if and when received, might be applied to the prior fiscal year. We do not concur. We believe that revenues should be credited to the year in which the revenues are received.

"At any rate," Tugwell said, "the state treasurer and the PAR council are in agreement that the deficit on June 30, 1961, was approximately $30,000,000 slightly more or less, depending on the method used in accounting for agency funds at hand at the close of the fiscal year."

U.S. Judge 'Bottles Up' Cuban Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge late Saturday continued until Monday a hearing on whether the Bahia de Nipe can be returned to Cuba or will be held for settlement of debts against the ship's owners.

Judge Walter E. Hoffman's action thus kept up a legal tug of war almost as complicated as the actions by which the master and 10 crewmen overpowered 23 other crew members of the sugar-laden vessel and brought it here Thursday to seek political asylum.

HEAR ARGUMENTS

Specifically, the judge heard arguments on a show cause order in which he called on the Coast Guard to explain why it should keep the U.S. marshal from seizing the ship for settlement of debts by several claimants.

Even as the hearing was under way, the State Department in Washington said it had received a formal request from the Castro government of Cuba for return of the 3,800-ton freighter. The State Department said Cuba claimed government ownership of the vessel.

Hoffman Saturday refused to read three telegrams presented in evidence by Asst. U.S Atty. Roger Williams purportedly containing correspondence between the United States and Cuba touching on the question of "sovereign immunity." The messages were exchanged through the Swiss Embassy.

"I don't believe the Department of Justice wants a federal judge to try a case by telephone calls and telegrams," the judge told U.S. Atty. Vernon Spratley.

Hoffman's refusal followed objections by nine attorneys representing six claimants. The attorneys sought to have the Bahia de Nipe attached Friday by the U.S. marshal, but the Coast Guard prohibited the action.

The judge said the only question before him at this time is whether or not the coast guard has the right to prevent a law enforcement officer from serving a proper process. He pointed out there appeared to be a conflict between

U.N. May Ask French Pullout

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Diplomats predicted Saturday that the U.N. General Assembly would ask France next week to pull its forces out of Bizerte City and to negotiate with Tunisia on withdrawing them from Bizerte base, the last French post in the North African country.

They speculated that more than 50 U.N. members would vote for an Asian-African resolution in those terms and that enough others would abstain to give it a winning majority of two-thirds of those voting in the 99-nation assembly.

AT POND NEAR HOME

Youth Keeps Busy Saving Swimmers

FOREST, Miss., (UPI) — David Warren, 16, says he wants to learn more about life saving after spending a "hectic" summer saving three youngsters from drowning, he said.

He pulled a 15-year-old boy from the water after he developed a cramp, rescued an 18-year-old girl who had swallowed too much water and went under and revived an 8-year-old girl whose body had turned "black" after she stopped breathing.

"I'm going to learn more about life saving," the well-built youth said. "It's been sort of a hectic summer."

Warren said in the first case, the boy had not "gone under. I just jumped in and grabbed him from the back. I had him out of the water in a couple of seconds," he said.

In the second case, Warren said the girl "went under and I was watching her. I dove in after her and at first I had to slap her to make her turn loose of me.

"I grabbed her from under the arms and around her neck and pulled her to the surface," he said.

The final incident, which happened a week ago, was the most dramatic.

Patricia Hanley, 8, had been under water "for some time" when Warren's brother, Kenneth, 19, noticed her. "Ken pulled her to shore and we could see she had stopped breathing. Her body had turned black."

"Another man attempted to give her artificial respiration," Warren said, "but it wasn't doing any good. It was then I remem-

Local Pair Injured In Winn Crash

WINNFIELD (Special) — Three persons, including two women from West Monroe, were injured near here Saturday night in a three - car collision, state police reported.

Injured were Mrs. Rose M. Oglesby, 47, Rt. 1, West Monroe, driver of one of the cars; Mrs. H. A. Lane, 52, West Monroe, a passenger in the automobile, and Daniel W. Stranger, Rt. 2, Jonesboro, driver of the second car. Freddie Wayne Stewart of Jonesboro, driver of the third car, escaped injury.

Police said Mrs. Oglesby suffered a fractured right ankle, Mrs. Lane received a possible broken leg and facial lacerations, while Stranger suffered bruises and shock.

According to officers, the Stranger automobile attempted to pass the Stewart automobile on Highway 84, one mile east of here, and went out of control. It turned sidewise in the highway and collided with the car driven by Mrs. Oglesby and then crashed into the Stewart vehicle.

The two West Monroe women were given emergency treatment here, then transferred to Monroe.

Senator Soarer Says

A complaint is registered that nobody is in charge of our moon trip project. Still, after all, you can't confuse the competition unless you confuse yourself a little at the same time.

Citizens must realize that the President's job is a difficult one. You don't just jot down, "Solve the Berlin problem" on your Things To Do Today pad.

Although he has never tried the sport, Congressman Sludgepump figures that all those years of standing with one foot firmly on each side of every issue should make him a natural for water skiing.

O.K., but we'll bet that, at this date in 1927, Babe Ruth had eaten more hot dogs than Mantle and Maris together.

Few Showers Expected Today

He also said partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures are in the offing through tonight with the high ranging between 85 and 92 degrees.

Yesterday's top reading, according to Federal Aviation at Selman Field, was 90 degrees with the overnight low stopping at 67.

There was no rainfall Saturday.

WOMAN CONFESSES

Winning Of Award Is Only Imaginary

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "It was all a hoax—nobody is to blame but me," Inez Miller said tearfully.

"I don't know. I don't know why I did it."

For a few days Miss Miller, 36, an office worker, had basked in the admiration of her fellow workers as the imaginary winner of an imaginary $20,000 award.

She had told friends she had won the Victor Hugo award of the French Academy of Arts for helping orphans and aspiring artists.

When the "award" was first announced Thursday, Miss Miller told this story:

For 10 years she had been helping orphans and young artists to study art in Mexico City and Paris. This philanthropy was financed by sales of her paintings, which she said had been on display in museums throughout the nation.

Why did she continue working as a receptionist for so many years if she was so well off? Miss Miller had an answer.

All her earnings from paintings went to help others, she said, and she used her slim earnings as a receptionist for the Pasadena City Recreation Department to support herself.

The Los Angeles Times published Saturday her admission that it was all a hoax.

Inez Miller's fanciful world started crumbling, the Times said after a fellow worker checked employment records and learned that she had been in Pasadena, not Paris, in 1955 as she had said.

A search in France failed to turn up a trace of the 'French Academy of Arts." No one seemed to have heard of the "Victor Hugo Award," either.

Unions Bolting Hoffa Welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO under President George Meany is quietly extending a warm welcome to defecting units of James R. Hoffa's Teamsters union.

But Meany at the same time is as determined as ever to spurn bids for the ousted Teamsters organization to be brought back into the federation so long as Hoffa remains union president.

Sources close to Meany confirmed Saturday that the AFL-CIO played an encouraging role—with Meany's consent—in the decision of four Cincinnati, Ohio, teamsters locals to break away from Hoffa's union.

The welcome mat is out, these sources said, for these locals comprising about 4,000 members to join individual AFL-CIO unions. Some already are talking with the AFL-CIO brewery workers.

The AFL-CIO's regional man in Cincinnati, William L. Kircher, was reliably reported to have lent encouragement and worked along with James Luken, head of Cincinnati area Teamsters and a longtime foe of Hoffa.

The midweek revolt of the Cincinnati Teamsters has been countered by Hoffa by placing the locals under trusteeship. However, the locals' members have voted overwhelmingly to leave for good.

Nor is Cincinnati the only spot that Hoffa has met with sizable defections since his overwhelming election in early July to a new five-year term as Teamsters president.

Over 5,000 Chicago taxi drivers have bolted the Teamsters in a government-held election to form their own independent union. Cab drivers in St. Louis are attempting to bolt.

And Hoffa, busy for weeks trying to negotiate a new West Coast truck drivers' contract, has met a determined revolt from drivers in the San Francisco Bay area who want to do their own negotiating.

Meany hasn't had much to say about Hoffa for months. This is in the face of bids from Hoffa and some of the AFL-CIO's own unions to end the expulsion meted out to the Teamsters in late 1957 on charges of corruption.

But in a speech at a brewery workers union banquet in Baltimore Thursday night, Meany opened up on Hoffa. He said Teamsters' boasts of big membership gains are a lot of hogwash—that actually their membership had grown more under deposed Teamsters boss Dave Beck than under Hoffa.

Referring to Hoffa as "little Jimmy," Meany said talk about Hoffa successes is like Communist propaganda—"the idea is that if you say something often enough, no matter what the facts are, people will believe it."

Meany said he was confident the United States never would submit to the domination of any dictator "any more than the AFL-CIO would ever submit to the domination of the underworld in the name of labor unity."

At the moment the AFL-CIO has no intention of establishing a rival Teamsters union, even though Hoffa has threatened he may try to cop some AFL-CIO union members. Long-haul truck drivers, it is felt, would stand to lose their jobs if they tried to pull out of the Teamsters.

Second Murder Trial Of Woman Goes To Jury

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The murder trial of Mrs. Mildred Rawson, accused of shooting her semi-invalid husband, went to the jury Saturday after the state asked the death penalty.

Mrs. Rawson's first trial ended in a mistrial in February when the jury couldn't agree on a decision.

The state charged that 31-year-old Grady Rawson Jr. was almost paralyzed when he was shot at home after an argument with his wife.

Mrs. Rawson said her husband beat, cursed and threatened to kill her. She said she killed him in self defense after they raced for the death weapon.

changeover from liquidation to accumulation, the department said.

The inventory turnaround helped boost the nation's total of goods and services to a record annual rate of $516.1 billion in April-May-June, up $15.3 billion from the previous three months. This was a stronger recovery than in any of the previous three post-war recessions. Ending nine months of downturn, it lifted the economy to a level above the previous peak, reached in the spring of 1959. The $516.1 billion figure was $1.1 billion higher than the estimate released a month ago — not a significant change.

The convoy was expected to move at around 25 miles per hour when it resumes its journey. But Johns said he was unable to estimate the arrival time in Berlin of advance vehicles because there were too many factors to be considered.

Despite the rain and the prospect of only a maximum of three hours sleep, the GI's were enthusiastic about their assignment.

"Let's go!" said Pfc. Larry Gamo, 18, of Aurelia, Iowa.

Sgt. Jimmie Edwards, 26, of Columbia, S.C., said, "I'm ready. I'd soon as go today as tomorrow."

Reports from Helmstedt said the border check point was quiet during the night. A few civilian trucks were lined up on the West German side. There was little activity on the Communist side.

Western border police said they did not think the Soviets would make any trouble over letting the convoy through.

"What can they do?" one border guard said. "They have no real reason for stopping the convoy.

Sports Racial Mix Ordinance Ruled Invalid

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—U.S. District Judge H. H. Grooms Friday ruled unconstitutional a Birmingham city ordinance prohibiting Negroes and white persons from taking part in sports contests together.

But he refused to rule immediately on a Negro plea that segregation in city recreation facilities be declared unconstitutional. He ordered that question set for trial.

The ordinance overturned by Grooms prohibits Negroes and white persons from taking part in a number of specifically listed forms of competition — among them baseball, football, golf and checkers.

"I worked on her for about 8 or 9 minutes," he said, "and then she started coughing and crying. She was breathing about every 20 seconds at first and I kept helping her along. Then she began breathing on her own."

In each case Warren said he wasn't "scared" and never thought about drowning myself. "It shocked me to think I wasn't scared," he said. "I didn't think about anything except trying to help them."

But on each occasion "my knees got kind of weak" when it was over. "After the shock of it," he said, "I realized what had happened. It sort of got on my nerves."

Warren considers himself a "fair swimmer," but he says he is going to learn more about life saving. "I keep remembering that film I saw in school," he said. "I think it ought to be a law for everyone to see that film."

The plates apparently had been designed, McCrickard said, so that serial numbers and seals could be interchanged.

Waddell, arraigned in Martinsburg, W.Va., Saturday, was held in lieu of $5,000 bond for grand jury action on a charge of passing counterfeit money.

Chaney has no police record here or in Chatham. But the sheriff's office in Chatham said several complaints had been filed against Chaney in recent months alleging bad checks and nonpayment of debts. All of the complaints were withdrawn upon settlement prior to trial, the sheriff's office said.

Waddell's police record showed three arrests here for drunkenness. A spokesman said the FBI files showed he was arrested in Washington in 1946 on a number of charges, including forgery, issuing worthless checks and six larceny counts.

At Chaney's home when McCrickard, Treasury agent Norwood Green and a justice of the peace arrived for the raid were Chaney's wife, Carin Lowen, formerly of Sweden; their two pre school-age daughters, and his mother. The officers said they all appeared stunned.

He was employed two different times on the Danville Commercial Appeal, a weekly newspaper here, and was a former managing editor.

He also was employed at times on newspapers in Fayetteville and Sanford, N.C., and Salem, Va.

School Enrollment Gain Is Predicted

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)— State Superintendent of Education J. M. Tubb says there will be about 4,400 more pupils enrolled in Mississippi public schools this fall than in the last term.

Tubb said Friday he expected about 577,500 pupils this September. He said of the total, about 293,600 will attend white schools and 283,000 will attend Negro schools.

Ranger I, the most complex space package this nation's scientists have devised, will test techniques for launching interplanetary vehicles. Another Ranger is scheduled to land on the moon early next year.

Pointing up the urgency placed on the manned - orbit program, NASA announced Friday that it plans no further suborbital flights like those of Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil L. Grissom. An announcement said all information possible had been gained from the two up-and-down tests.

Next week's test will be a critical one for the Atlas, which has failed on three of four previous launches with the capsule, including the only previous attempt to orbit the spacecraft.

If the rocket performs properly, it will be flung into orbit at about 17,400 miles an hour and will land an hour and 50 minutes later in the Atlantic Ocean 300 miles east of Bermuda. A timing mechanism will fire a set of reverse rockets to slow the craft and bring it down from orbit. The retro-rockets will ignite as the capsule is flying over a tracking station at Guayamas, Mexico, and the descent will be gradual.

The crewman simulator box will (1) remove oxygen and add carbon dioxide and water vapor to the recirculating oxygen system, in effect duplicating respiratory functions of a man; (2) simulate body heat with electrical heating elements; and (3) carry two tape recorders to play back pre-recorded messages.

"Here a law enforcemnt officer goes out with the paper that begins 'The President of the United States command. . .' and he is stopped by the Coast Guard, who are acting under instructions from the Department of State," Judge Hoffman declared.

The government based a large part of its case on a section of the federal code giving permission to the Coast Guard captain of a port to "prevent any person, article or thing from entering a ship" when such an act is deemed necessary to "secure the rights and obligations of the United States or to prevent threats or disturbances to international relations."

Both sides have indicated they will appeal whatever decision Judge Hoffman hands down.

Chief Of Legion Gives Views On Crisis In Berlin

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The American Legions national commander says the West 'should match every step' taken by the Communist bloc in Germany.

'If they shut the border," William Burke told The Associated Press Friday night, 'we should stop the travel of East Germans.

'If they start with the access routes, we should block the Dardanelles. I think they'd back off."

Earlier, in a speech before the Nevada state legion convention he said American troops in West Berlin have a suicidal mission, holding the city for a few days in case of attack.

"They're prepared to do only their job," he said. 'They ask only we do ours.

"I know we have the hardware to fulfill our foreign policy commitments. I believe we have (Soviet Premierz Khrushchev over a barrel. He can't commit satellite troops to the defense of Berlin because they cant be trusted.

Book Defending General Walker Is Published

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Kent Courtney, national chairman of the Conservative Society of America, Saturday announced publication of a book defending Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

Courtney said his book, "The Case of Gen. Edwin A. Walker," shows 'that the muzzling of American military leaders had its origin in a Communist directive issued in Moscow in December of 1960."

The Army admonished Walker in 1960 for making derogatory public statements" about prominent Americans while he commanded a division in Germany. A pending assignment to command the 8th Army was canceled.

Courtney, who publishes the conservative political action newspaper 'The Independent American" said 1,000 copies of his 114-page paperback book had been mailed to Congressmen, and to conservative leaders and editors throughout the country.

The book was co-authored by his wife, Phoebe.

ing by plane in overcast, drizzly weather on a presidential mission to boost German morale in the face of Communist restrictions on travel of East Germans to West Berlin.

Perhaps a million of West Berlin's 2¼-million people turned out to greet the handshaking, baby-kissing Texan. Hundreds of thousands showed up for a handkerchief welcome that stretched for miles through the streets and ended in a roaring salute in the jammed City Hall Square.

A crowd that police estimated at more than 120,000 listened over loudspeakers outside the City Hall to the words of the vice president.

Johnson referred to the troop-guarded barbed wire, concrete walls and planking that the Communists have installed since last Sunday to stem flow of East German refugees.

"Lift your eyes from these barriers," he urged, "and ask yourselves: Who can really believe that history will deny Germany and Berlin their natural unity? Who can really believe that the German people will choose Communism after what they have seen on German soil?"

Johnson flew to Berlin after a stopover at Bonn, in which he conferred with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. West Germans there showered him with flowers and waved flags on his drive in from the airport.

He directed a warning in Bonn to East German Communists and Soviet leaders alike that "humanity's retribution will be swift and emphatic" for a crime against peace.

"I am very satisfied," the chancellor said after his talk with Johnson. "I am flying to Berlin myself in the course of next week."

Here the vice president was warmly welcomed by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, an advocate of active reprisals who is running against Adenauer in West Germany's general election Sept. 17.

"It's a big day for Berlin," Brandt said.

At City Hall Johnson quoted a line from the American Declaration of Independence in which the colonists pledged to one another "our lives, our fortune and our sacred honor." He said Americans have made the same pledge to Berliners.

The vice president congratulated West Germans on their economic progress since World War II and on their building of "a vital, democratic life." He said there has been a tragic failure in Communist East Germany.

"In the short run," he said, "the barbed wire is there and it will not go away by a wave of the hand."

Johnson called on the West Berliners to have faith in themselves and their allies, and confidence and poise. He said these were "qualities with which you have associated the name of your city—from one end of the world to the other—since 1945."

"This island does not stand alone. You are a vital part of the whole community of free men. Your lives are linked not merely to those in Hamburg, Bonn and Frankfurt. They are also linked with those who live in every town of Western Europe, Canada and the United States, and with those on every continent who live in freedom and are prepared to fight for it," he said.

Johnson said that by closing the border the Communists have shown that they "have not been able to create a life in which men and women can commit their talents, their faith and the future of their children."

There was never anything in Berlin quite like Johnson's motorcar procession as it wound its way through the picturesque streets of a city that accepted him as the symbol of the West's warranty that communism will not be permitted to swallow its citizenry.

Men, women and children cried greetings and waved their handkerchiefs, some smiling and some openly weeping. A half-mile from the airport Johnson halted his car, flung open the door and stepped, hands outstretched, into the crowd.

Berliners surged about him and police were hard put to keep him from being swept off his feet. Grinning broadly, Johnson shook hundreds of hands, stopped to kiss babies and even petted a dog as he made his way on foot for about five blocks.

The crowd in front of the City Hall carried banners reading "Open the door", "We trust Kennedy," "More courage for freedom" and "There is only one Germany."

Grant Received To Develop New Mumps Vaccine

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago research group has received a $107,000 grant to develop a live-type mumps virus vaccine.

Dr. Friedrich Deinhardt, who helped develop the present killed-type mumps vaccine, has been named principal investigator on the research project.

"We hope to develop an attenuated or weakened live virus vaccine which could be administered as an oral or nasal spray," he said Saturday. "This vaccine would provide the same protection as a person possesses after having had mumps."

Deinhardt is chairman of Presbyterian - St. Luke's Hospital's Department of Microbiology, which received the grant from the National Institutes of Health.

changeover from liquidation to accumulation, the department said.

The inventory turnaround helped boost the nation's total of goods and services to a record annual rate of $516.1 billion in April-May-June, up $15.3 billion from the previous three months. This was a stronger recovery than in any of the previous three post-war recessions. Ending nine months of downturn, it lifted the economy to a level above the previous peak, reached in the spring of 1959. The $516.1 billion figure was $1.1 billion higher than the estimate released a month ago — not a significant change.

The convoy was expected to move at around 25 miles per hour when it resumes its journey. But Johns said he was unable to estimate the arrival time in Berlin of advance vehicles because there were too many factors to be considered.

Despite the rain and the prospect of only a maximum of three hours sleep, the GI's were enthusiastic about their assignment.

"Let's go!" said Pfc. Larry Gamo, 18, of Aurelia, Iowa.

Sgt. Jimmie Edwards, 26, of Columbia, S.C., said, "I'm ready. I'd soon as go today as tomorrow."

Reports from Helmstedt said the border check point was quiet during the night. A few civilian trucks were lined up on the West German side. There was little activity on the Communist side.

Western border police said they did not think the Soviets would make any trouble over letting the convoy through.

"What can they do?" one border guard said. "They have no real reason for stopping the convoy.

Sports Racial Mix Ordinance Ruled Invalid

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—U.S. District Judge H. H. Grooms Friday ruled unconstitutional a Birmingham city ordinance prohibiting Negroes and white persons from taking part in sports contests together.

But he refused to rule immediately on a Negro plea that segregation in city recreation facilities be declared unconstitutional. He ordered that question set for trial.

The ordinance overturned by Grooms prohibits Negroes and white persons from taking part in a number of specifically listed forms of competition — among them baseball, football, golf and checkers.

"I worked on her for about 8 or 9 minutes," he said, "and then she started coughing and crying. She was breathing about every 20 seconds at first and I kept helping her along. Then she began breathing on her own."

In each case Warren said he wasn't "scared" and never thought about drowning myself. "It shocked me to think I wasn't scared," he said. "I didn't think about anything except trying to help them."

But on each occasion "my knees got kind of weak" when it was over. "After the shock of it," he said, "I realized what had happened. It sort of got on my nerves."

Warren considers himself a "fair swimmer," but he says he is going to learn more about life saving. "I keep remembering that film I saw in school," he said. "I think it ought to be a law for everyone to see that film."

lon jar containing photographic negatives. The agents said it appeared that the counterfeiting operation bypassed the need for engraving by using the photo offset printing method.

The plates apparently had been designed, McCrickard said, so that serial numbers and seals could be interchanged.

Waddell, arraigned in Martinsburg, W.Va., Saturday, was held in lieu of $5,000 bond for grand jury action on a charge of passing counterfeit money.

Chaney has no police record here or in Chatham. But the sheriff's office in Chatham said several complaints had been filed against Chaney in recent months alleging bad checks and nonpayment of debts. All of the complaints were withdrawn upon settlement prior to trial, the sheriff's office said.

Waddell's police record showed three arrests here for drunkenness. A spokesman said the FBI files showed he was arrested in Washington in 1946 on a number of charges, including forgery, issuing worthless checks and six larceny counts.

At Chaney's home when McCrickard, Treasury agent Norwood Green and a justice of the peace arrived for the raid were Chaney's wife, Carin Lowen, formerly of Sweden; their two pre school-age daughters, and his mother. The officers said they all appeared stunned.

Chaney had worked part-time on the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot while attending the Norfolk division of the College of William and Mary.

He was employed two different times on the Danville Commercial Appeal, a weekly newspaper here, and was a former managing editor.

He also was employed at times on newspapers in Fayetteville and Sanford, N.C., and Salem, Va.

Ranger I, the most complex space package this nation's scientists have devised, will test techniques for launching interplanetary vehicles. Another Ranger is scheduled to land on the moon early next year.

Pointing up the urgency placed on the manned - orbit program, NASA announced Friday that it plans no further suborbital flights like those of Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil L. Grissom. An announcement said all information possible had been gained from the two up-and-down tests.

Next week's test will be a critical one for the Atlas, which has failed on three of four previous launches with the capsule, including the only previous attempt to orbit the spacecraft.

If the rocket performs properly, it will be flung into orbit at about 17,400 miles an hour and will land an hour and 50 minutes later in the Atlantic Ocean 300 miles east of Bermuda. A timing mechanism will fire a set of reverse rockets to slow the craft and bring it down from orbit. The retro-rockets will ignite as the capsule is flying over a tracking station at Guayamas, Mexico, and the descent will be gradual.

The crewman simulator box will (1) remove oxygen and add carbon dioxide and water vapor to the recirculating oxygen system, in effect duplicating respiratory functions of a man; (2) simulate body heat with electrical heating elements; and (3) carry two tape recorders to play back pre-recorded messages.

"Here a law enforcemnt officer goes out with the paper that begins 'The President of the United States command. . .' and he is stopped by the Coast Guard, who are acting under instructions from the Department of State," Judge Hoffman declared.

The government based a large part of its case on a section of the federal code giving permission to the Coast Guard captain of a port to "prevent any person, article or thing from entering a ship" when such an act is deemed necessary to "secure the rights and obligations of the United States or to prevent threats or disturbances to international relations."

Both sides have indicated they will appeal whatever decision Judge Hoffman hands down.

Chief Of Legion Gives Views On Crisis In Berlin

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The American Legions national commander says the West 'should match every step' taken by the Communist bloc in Germany.

'If they shut the border," William Burke told The Associated Press Friday night, 'we should stop the travel of East Germans.

'If they start with the access routes, we should block the Dardanelles. I think they'd back off."

Earlier, in a speech before the Nevada state legion convention he said American troops in West Berlin have a suicidal mission, holding the city for a few days in case of attack.

"They're prepared to do only their job," he said. 'They ask only we do ours.

"I know we have the hardware to fulfill our foreign policy commitments. I believe we have (Soviet Premierz Khrushchev over a barrel. He can't commit satellite troops to the defense of Berlin because they cant be trusted.

Book Defending General Walker Is Published

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Kent Courtney, national chairman of the Conservative Society of America, Saturday announced publication of a book defending Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

Courtney said his book, "The Case of Gen. Edwin A. Walker," shows 'that the muzzling of American military leaders had its origin in a Communist directive issued in Moscow in December of 1960."

The Army admonished Walker in 1960 for making derogatory public statements" about prominent Americans while he commanded a division in Germany. A pending assignment to command the 8th Army was canceled.

Courtney, who publishes the conservative political action newspaper 'The Independent American" said 1,000 copies of his 114-page paperback book had been mailed to Congressmen, and to conservative leaders and editors throughout the country.

The book was co-authored by his wife, Phoebe.

ing by plane in overcast, drizzly weather on a presidential mission to boost German morale in the face of Communist restrictions on travel of East Germans to West Berlin.

Perhaps a million of West Berlin's 2¼-million people turned out to greet the handshaking, baby-kissing Texan. Hundreds of thousands showed up for a handkerchief welcome that stretched for miles through the streets and ended in a roaring salute in the jammed City Hall Square.

A crowd that police estimated at more than 120,000 listened over loudspeakers outside the City Hall to the words of the vice president.

Johnson referred to the troop-guarded barbed wire, concrete walls and planking that the Communists have installed since last Sunday to stem flow of East German refugees.

"Lift your eyes from these barriers," he urged, "and ask yourselves: Who can really believe that history will deny Germany and Berlin their natural unity? Who can really believe that the German people will choose Communism after what they have seen on German soil?"

Johnson flew to Berlin after a stopover at Bonn, in which he conferred with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. West Germans there showered him with flowers and waved flags on his drive in from the airport.

He directed a warning in Bonn to East German Communists and Soviet leaders alike that "humanity's retribution will be swift and emphatic" for a crime against peace.

"I am very satisfied," the chancellor said after his talk with Johnson. "I am flying to Berlin myself in the course of next week."

Here the vice president was warmly welcomed by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, an advocate of active reprisals who is running against Adenauer in West Germany's general election Sept. 17.

"It's a big day for Berlin," Brandt said.

At City Hall Johnson quoted a line from the American Declaration of Independence in which the colonists pledged to one another "our lives, our fortune and our sacred honor." He said Americans have made the same pledge to Berliners.

The vice president congratulated West Germans on their economic progress since World War II and on their building of "a vital, democratic life." He said there has been a tragic failure in Communist East Germany.

"In the short run," he said, "the barbed wire is there and it will not go away by a wave of the hand."

Johnson called on the West Berliners to have faith in themselves and their allies, and confidence and poise. He said these were "qualities with which you have associated the name of your city —from one end of the world to the other—since 1945."

"This island does not stand alone. You are a vital part of the whole community of free men. Your lives are linked not merely to those in Hamburg, Bonn and Frankfurt. They are also linked with those who live in every town of Western Europe, Canada and the United States, and with those on every continent who live in freedom and are prepared to fight for it," he said.

Johnson said that by closing the border the Communists have shown that they "have not been able to create a life in which men and women can commit their talents, their faith and the future of their children."

There was never anything in Berlin quite like Johnson's motorcar procession as it wound its way through the picturesque streets of a city that accepted him as the symbol of the West's warranty that communism will not be permitted to swallow its citizenry.

Men, women and children cried greetings and waved their handkerchiefs, some smiling and some openly weeping. A half-mile from the airport Johnson halted his car, flung open the door and stepped, hands outstretched, into the crowd.

Berliners surged about him and police were hard put to keep him from being swept off his feet. Grinning broadly, Johnson shook hundreds of hands, stopped to kiss babies and even petted a dog as he made his way on foot for about five blocks.

The crowd in front of the City Hall carried banners reading "Open the door", "We trust Kennedy," "More courage for freedom" and "There is only one Germany."

Grant Received To Develop New Mumps Vaccine

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago research group has received a $107,000 grant to develop a live-type mumps virus vaccine.

Dr. Friedrich Deinhardt, who helped develop the present killed-type mumps vaccine, has been named principal investigator on the research project.

"We hope to develop an attenuated or weakened live virus vaccine which could be administered as an oral or nasal spray," he said Saturday. "This vaccine would provide the same protection as a person possesses after having had mumps."

Deinhardt is chairman of Presbyterian - St. Luke's Hospital's Department of Microbiology, which received the grant from the National Institutes of Health.

U.S. JUDGE TO RULE

'Freedom Riders' Decision Awaited

JACKSON, Miss. (UP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox will decide next week whether to send back to state courts a suit filed by five "Freedom Riders" convicted on breach of peace charges.

Cox heard arguments Saturday on whether the county or federal court should decide the rider cases. It was brought to federal court on a petition by Rider attorney William Kunstler of New York.

Attorney Tom Watkins representing Hinds County, said a case cannot be removed to the federal court if it "merely alleges improper action of state officers under a valid statute, and does not allege denial of equal protection of law by the terms of a specific state statute."

The petitioners, Watkins said, "cannot come to this court and say a policeman improperly enforced a legal statute.

"If the alleged wrongs are committed by officers or individuals, the remdy is the prosecution of the case to the highest court of the state and then to the Supreme Court of the United Swtes."

Kunstler said that removal to federal court is justified when a state statute prevents the petitioners from enforcing a civil right in a state court.

He said the Freedom Riders, arrested in interstate transportation terminals after refusing policemen's orders to move on, had a legal right to use any of the facilities.

"There is no legal defense against the broad and vague statute designed to take the place of segregation statutes," he said. The federal court is the proper place for these cases because they can't be resolved in state courts."

Stripped of imaginary problems, Kunster said, "these cases present a very simple situation. The applicable law is extremely clear.

"Beyond doubt, Mississippi cannot make it a crime for a Negro interstate passenger or a Caucasian accompanying a Negro traveling companion to enter airport or bus depot waiting or lunch rooms reserved by custom for whites.

"But this is exacity what Mississippi has done in those cases. It is a segregation law—pure and simple."

These five petitioners, Kunstler said, "cannot enforce their rights in state courts because they are faced by this breach of the peace conduct."

He said the law, which calls for a conviction if the person's presence might occasion a breach of peace, delegates legislative power to the police.

In rebuttal, Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson said the removal to federal court was "a blatant attempt to nullify action in state courts by coming in he back door.

"It's the business of the state of Mississippi which statute it acts under to enforce its laws. The petitioner's contention is frivalous."

On question by Judge Cox, Kunstler said the Freedom Riders, sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality, used a non-violent approach and had no idea to provoke a breach of the peace.

Patterson said the freedom Riders decided, "We don't like your laws and we're going to break them. We dare you to stop us."

He added: "They were nonviolent provided nobody got in their way. They came here to provoke trouble and to create friction, confusion and riots."

Appeal trials for 190 Freedom Riders will begin Tuesday for 190 Freedom Riders convicted on the same breach of peace charges. Kunstler said if Judge Cox upholds his petition, all of these cases will be transferred to federal court.

A request for a permanent injunction asking federal court orders to stop police from arresting Riders will be heard Sept. 25 before a 3-judge panel.

Jet Bomber Crash Kills Two Airmen

HASTY, Colo. (AP) — A B47 medium jet bomber crashed and burned in a wheat field early Saturday, killing two of its four crewmen.

The dead were Lt. Raymond E. Gaub, 28, of Menna, S. D., the aircraft commander, Airman 1.C. Richard Jones, 22, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., a maintenance man.

The survivors who parachuted to safety are Lt. Larry R. Eastlund, 23, Denver, navigator; and Lt. Arturo Aviles Jr., 27, Los Angeles, the pilot. Their injuries were reported minor.

The plane was on a training flight from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Tucson, Ariz. Air Force officials said the crash came at 12:15 a.m., just after completion of a high-altitude simulated bomb release.

Eastlund said one of the jet engines burst into flames, the bomber began losing altitude and the commander gave the order for the crew to use the ejectors.

"I ejected at about 25,000 feet," Eastlund said, "and came down in a pasture. It was pitch black." He said he wandered for about an hour before coming to a road road where he was picked up by four high school students.

"I'm sure glad to be alive," Eastlund said, "but those other poor guys. Gaub ordered us out and never got out himself."

Aviles made his way to a farmhouse and he was driven to a hospital in the nearby town of Lamar.

Gaub is survived by his wife, Carolyn, and two sons. Jones leaves his wife, Margaret, a son and a daughter.

MURDER TRIAL ENDS

Cooley Is Found Guilty By Jury

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)— Spade Cooley, 50, former band leader known as "the king of western swing," was convicted by a jury Saturday of murdering his wife, Ella Mae, by beating and stomping her last April 3.

The jury had deliberated 21 hours.

He had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The jury meets again Tuesday to determine whether Cooley was sane at the time of the slaying.

If Cooley is adjudged sane, then the jury must decide whether his penalty will be life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber.

Cooley's daughter, Melody, 14, testified she saw him drag her mother's partly nude form from a shower by the hair, slam her head against the floor, stomp on her and burn her with cigarettes.

Cooley testified he struck his wife after she told him she planned to join a free love cult. He said she told him of initiation rites and "I must have hurt her terribly. I had a hazy recollection it was an animal, not Ella Mae."

When she described the cult, he said, "Rockets went off in my brain. My head literally was on fire."

Donell Clyde was born in the storm cellar of a shack near Pack Saddle Creek, Okla. He got his nick name of Spade Cooley many years later in a poker game when he held five spade flushes in a row.

In 1934 he arrived at the gate of Republic Pictures with a fiddle and six cents. He begged cowboy star Roy Rogers for a job and became Roger's stand-in.

Along with movie work, he got booking as a fiddler and built up his own band. He became rich and famous on radio. He wrote songs. The biggest hit was "Shame, Shame on You."

Group Continues Protest Vigil

KINZUA, Pa. (AP)—A group composed mainly of Quakers started Saturday the second week of vigil protesting the construction of the Kinzua Dam on land formerly owned by the Seneca Seneca Indians.

The group calls itself the "Treaty of 1794 Committee." It is opposed to the government's acquisition of thousands of acres of Seneca land for the Allegheny River reservoir and dam.

The Treaty of 1794 was an agreement between the U. S. government and the Indians, which assured the Indians they could have the land forever.

Working in two-hour shifts, the group stands silently along Route 59 adjacent to the dam, which is under construction.

Jet Bomber Crash Kills Two Airmen

HASTY, Colo. (AP) — A B47 medium jet bomber crashed and burned in a wheat field early Saturday, killing two of its four crewmen.

The dead were Lt. Raymond E. Gaub, 28, of Menna, S. D., the aircraft commander, Airman 1.C. Richard Jones, 22, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., a maintenance man.

The survivors who parachuted to safety are Lt. Larry R. Eastlund, 23, Denver, navigator; and Lt. Arturo Aviles Jr., 27, Los Angeles, the pilot. Their injuries were reported minor.

The plane was on a training flight from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Tucson, Ariz. Air Force officials said the crash came at 12:15 a.m., just after completion of a high-altitude simulated bomb release.

Eastlund said one of the jet engines burst into flames, the bomber began losing altitude and the commander gave the order for the crew to use the ejectors.

"I ejected at about 25,000 feet," Eastlund said, "and came down in a pasture. It was pitch black." He said he wandered for about an hour before coming to a road road where he was picked up by four high school students.

"I'm sure glad to be alive," Eastlund said, "but those other poor guys. Gaub ordered us out and never got out himself."

Aviles made his way to a farmhouse and he was driven to a hospital in the nearby town of Lamar.

Gaub is survived by his wife, Carolyn, and two sons. Jones leaves his wife, Margaret, a son and a daughter.

MURDER TRIAL ENDS

Cooley Is Found Guilty By Jury

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Spade Cooley, 50, former band leader known as "the king of western swing," was convicted by a jury Saturday of murdering his wife, Ella Mae, by beating and stomping her last April 3.

The jury had deliberated 21 hours.

He had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The jury meets again Tuesday to determine whether Cooley was sane at the time of the slaying.

If Cooley is adjudged sane, then the jury must decide whether his penalty will be life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber.

Cooley's daughter, Melody, 14, testified she saw him drag her mother's partly nude form from a shower by the hair, slam her head against the floor, stomp on her and burn her with cigarettes.

Cooley testified he struck his wife after she told him she planned to join a free love cult. He said she told him of initiation rites and "I must have hurt her terribly. I had a hazy recollection it was an animal, not Ella Mae."

When she described the cult, he said, "Rockets went off in my brain. My head literally was on fire."

Donell Clyde was born in the storm cellar of a shack near Pack Saddle Creek, Okla. He got his nick name of Spade Cooley many years later in a poker game when he held five spade flushes in a row.

In 1934 he arrived at the gate of Republic Pictures with a fiddle and six cents. He begged cowboy star Roy Rogers for a job and became Roger's stand-in.

Along with movie work, he got booking as a fiddler and built up his own band. He became rich and famous on radio. He wrote songs. The biggest hit was "Shame, Shame on You."

Group Continues Protest Vigil

KINZUA, Pa. (AP)—A group composed mainly of Quakers started Saturday the second week of vigil protesting the construction of the Kinzua Dam on land formerly owned by the Seneca Seneca Indians.

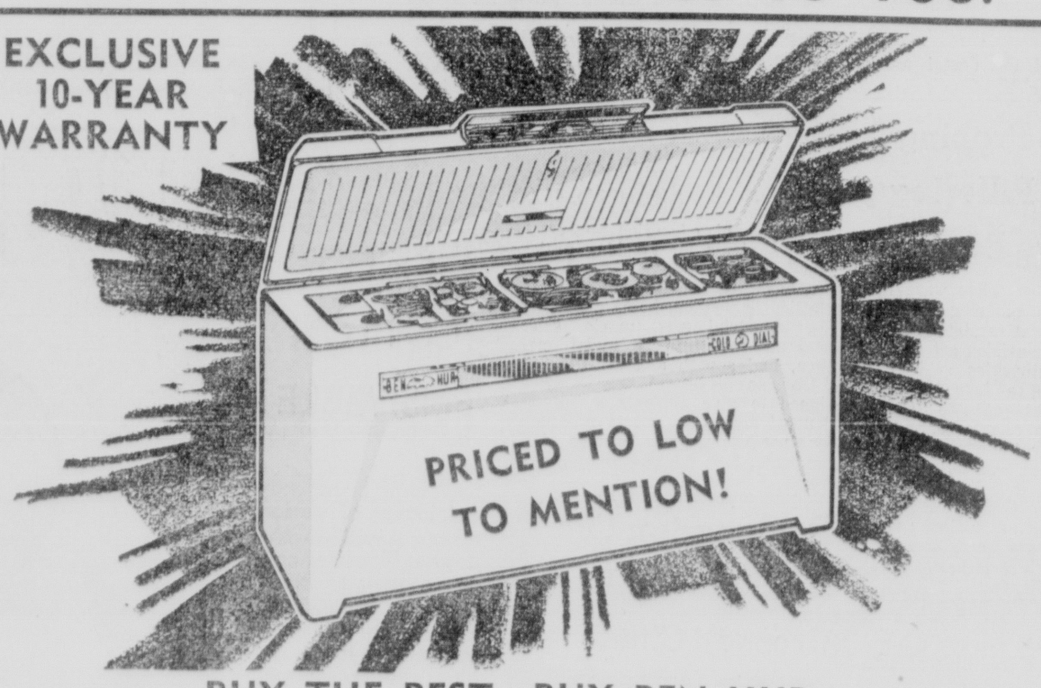

The group calls itself the "Treaty of 1794 Committee." It is opposed to the government's acquisition of thousands of acres of Seneca land for the Allegheny River reservoir and dam.

The Treaty of 1794 was an agreement between the U. S. government and the Indians, which assured the Indians they could have the land forever.

Working in two-hour shifts, the group stands silently along Route 59 adjacent to the dam, which is under construction.

Crippling Auto Strike Possible

DETROIT (AP)—Will there be an autc strke this year?

The United Auto Workers union says it hopes not. The automakers say they hope not. Both agree there still is time for settlement in the 12 days that remain before current three - year contracts expire Aug. 31.

Neither one has locked the door on possible no-contract operations or limited extension of current pacts.

Meanwhile, however, local unions and plants of General Motors Corp., the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. are voting 90 per cent in favor of striking, if necessary, to win union demands.

Local leaders insist they have been promised the right to strike if they don't get what they want at individual plants as well as nationally. Plant - level contracts supplement national agreements that include the money package. GM alone says it is confronted by 16,000 demands at the local level.

The magazine Steel has predicted there will be no strike. But Stanley Brams of Detroit said in the weekend issue of his newsletter, Labor Trends, that a combination of circumstances indicates a walkout is in the making.

American Motors Corp., fourth largest automaker, has been promised an answer by the union Tuesday on what has been the only money package yet placed on a bargaining table—a surprise profit-sharing proposal that also carries a seven-cent hourly pay increase annually over the next three years.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in Detroit weeks ago a strike in the auto industry would be "intolerable" and an 'economic disaster."

The union expects and the auto companies have indicated indirectly one or maybe all of the Big Three will put a money package before the union after the companies have seen the treatment accorded AMCs offer.

Brams said in his newsletter, primarily aimed at industry subscribers. that the UAW has what he termed "a large credit balance" in Washington because of UAW President Walter P. Reuther's early political support of President Kennedy. Brams said Reuther surely "will try to take advantage of this."

Reuther told a weekend news conference, We do believe we are getting close" to an offer from the Big Three but added. "We have gotten no response whatsoever, nothing realistic or with a meaningful approach (to the union's broadscale demands)."

The UAW says as demands are aimed at making present jobs more secure and creating new job opportunities for laid-off union members. Company spokesmen have insisted that jobs cannot be created at the bargaining table, that these actually are made in the salesroom and point out this has not been a boom year in auto sales.

61 GET PRISON TERMS

HAVANA (AP)—Prison terms ranging from six months to seven years were handed 61 persons convicted of counterrevolutionary activity at Santiago de Cuba Saturday. Twelve others were acquitted.

MR. AND MRS. Henry Clay Vaughan celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently at their home in Forest. They have been residents of West Carroll parish for 48 years. They are parents of seven living children.

Rights Group Plans North, South Drives

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A member of the Civil Rights Commission said Saturday the commission intends to work on serious racial problems in the North as well as the South.

Spottswood Robinson, former dean of the Howard University Law School and recently named to the commission, said the rights group "would expect to deal with all problems of the nation in quite equal degree."

The Senate, meanwhile, prepared to tackle the civil rights issue on Monday.

Democratic and Republican leaders forewarned members Friday that they would seek to extend the life of the commission, due to expire in November, for another two years.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., told the Senate he and Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., would seek to attach the provision to an appropriations bill up for action Monday.

This would require a two-thirds vote to suspend Senate rules, clearing the way for rights legislation to be grafted on to a money bill. Similar tactics were used in 1959 to extend the commission.

The maneuver was expected to kick off a round of impassioned debate. But it appeared unlikely that southern Democrats would resort to a filibuster to block it. They did not do so two years ago.

New York Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating announced they would take the same route in seeking to attach broader rights provisions. But they faced the same two-thirds vote requirement on each of their proposals.

Robinson said a two-year extension "is obviously necessary if the commission is to get (its) work done."

School Board In N.Y. May Be Replaced

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will ask a special session of the state Legislature Monday to give Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City power to appoint a blue-ribbon school board to take charge of the city's giant education system.

The Republican governor and the Democratic mayor agree the present, nine-member board is unable to cope with mushrooming problems of the school system.

The present board has been beset in recent months by disclosures of graft and corruption in building programs, health and safety hazards in existing schools and criticism that it is politically dominated.

There have been no allegations or charges of impropriety against any individual board member.

The New York City school system has one million pupils, 40,000 teachers, 800 schools and an annual budget of $650 million.

Rockefeller called the special session on the recommendation of the state education commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

Allen said the New York City system was in "a time of crisis" and immediate action was needed to provide new leadership before the school year opened.

Originally, the Rockefeller administration had planned to oust the present board immediately and turn control of the system over to a state-appointed interim group.

This decision was reversed, however, in the face of criticism of prolonged state control.

The governor now will ask the Legislature to approve a bill under which Wagner would name members of the new school board by Sept. 20, drawing them from a panel prepared by educators and other community leaders.

While Wagner protested the original plan for an interim board, he had sought to oust the present board in favor of a new group.

The school issue has become cal battle in which Wagner is the center of a hard-fought politi-seeking re-election as mayor.

This ultra-modern electronic egg sorting, washing and grading machine is just one of hundreds of ways Louisiana farmers are putting electricity to work to cut down on zooming production costs, to increase volume...AND TO GIVE HOUSEWIVES A BREAK AT THE MARKET.

Until recently, scenes like this were most uncommon in rural Louisiana as LESS than ONE in 50 farms and rural homes had electricity. Rural folks had to organize member-owned, non-profit Electric Co-ops to get this essential service for decent living and progress.

Today, these private Co-op enterprises offer 99% area coverage in Louisiana...a national record of immeasurable benefit to both Town and Country.

To enjoy continued progress, wholesale power rates must be stabilized at reasonable levels. The Co-ops must be allowed to continue their enlightened area development programs without constant harrassment from those who belatedly see visions of profit on the rural scene.

★ Your rural neighbors need your understanding and help to assure reasonable wholesale power rates and to insure the territorial integrity of their Electric Co-ops systems... WITH JUST AND WISE LEGISLATION, if necessary.

He's Making A Good Living--Helping Consumers

. . . THANKS TO THE VISION OF HIS ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE

This ultra-modern electronic egg sorting, washing and grading machine is just one of hundreds of ways Louisiana farmers are putting electricity to work to cut down on zooming production costs, to increase volume...AND TO GIVE HOUSEWIVES A BREAK AT THE MARKET.

Until recently, scenes like this were most uncommon in rural Louisiana as LESS than ONE in 50 farms and rural homes had electricity. Rural folks had to organize member-owned, non-profit Electric Co-ops to get this essential service for decent living and progress.

Today, these private Co-op enterprises offer 99% area coverage in Louisiana...a national record of immeasurable benefit to both Town and Country.

To enjoy continued progress, wholesale power rates must be stabilized at reasonable levels. The Co-ops must be allowed to continue their enlightened area development programs without constant harrassment from those who belatedly see visions of profit on the rural scene.

★ Your rural neighbors need your understanding and help to assure reasonable wholesale power rates and to insure the territorial integrity of their Electric Co-ops systems... WITH JUST AND WISE LEGISLATION, if necessary.

Only non-profit electric co-ops can serve ALL rural people at rates ALL can afford. Think what this means to the continued progress of Town and Country!

JFK Appeal Sounded On Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appealed anew for his embattled foreign aid proposals Saturday and said they were vital to his Latin American "alliance for progress" program.

He linked the foreign aid legislation with the hemisphere program in a statement prepared for a welcoming ceremony for Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon on his arrival from Punta de Este, Uruguay.

It was there that the alliance for progress program got underway.

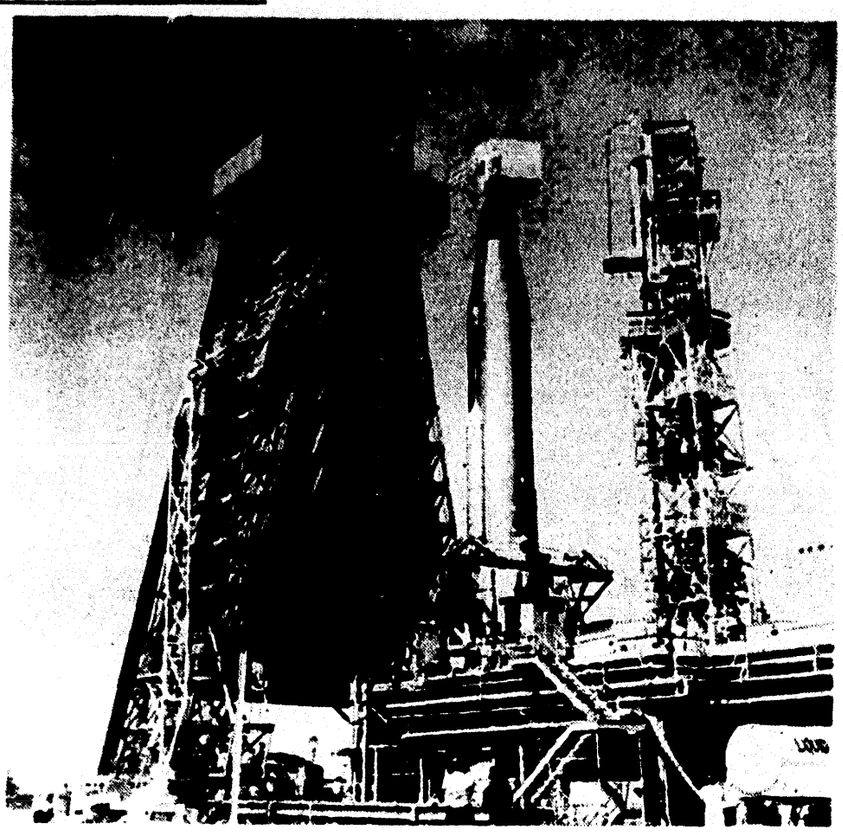

Dillon, who headed the U. S. delegation, flew back to the United States with other members of his party.

Kennedy told the delegates at a special ceremony in the White House rose garden that they had played "a leading role in one of the historic meetings of the hemisphere."

By their action, he said, they had made clear "the dignity, the good sense and the generous purpose of the United States and its full commitment to the alliance for progress."

Kennedy said that while the conference was under way, the administration was working here for foreign aid legislation to support the U. S. efforts in setting up the Latin American program.

"We are still working," he said. Obviously he was mindful of the fact that the administration still must fight to win the long-term borrowing authority which was killed in the House version of the bill but approved by the Senate.

SPEEDS TRANSLATIONS

Machine Conquers Language Barrier

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Kennedy and others who must watch Russian policy moves closely soon may find among their morning newspapers an English translation of that day's Pravda.

The official Russian newspaper will not be the only Soviet publication they will be able to read in English.

Scientific journals, intelligence publications and other Russian documents of interest to U.S. policy markers also will be available within days, if not hours, after they are published.

The importance of rapid translation is demonstrated by the fact that had U.S. scientists been able to read a leading Russian aviation publication when it was published early in 1957, they would not only have known several months in advance that Russia was preparing to launch Sputnik I, the first man-made earth satellite, but they would have known the radio frequencies on which it would broadcast.

Present methods of translation are as obsolete as the horse and buggy, and about as fast.

The House Space and Aeronautics Committee has estimated that there are only 1,000 professional Russian translators in the United States and that 80 per cent of them are 60 years of age or older. Even the best of them can translate only about 400 words per hour.

Consequently, only nine - one-hundreds of 1 per cent of Soviet publications and literature are translated into English. To adequately meet U. S. intelligence needs, present government and private translation services need to be increased 50-fold.

Yet, heretofore, high speed computers have been highly unsatisfactory, for word meanings often are modified by other words in the sentence.

More important, sentence meanings often are changed by the position of words. For example, the sentence, "The dog bit the man" has an entirely different meaning if it reads, "The man bit the dog."

Yet this is what often happens when machines translate because indications of meaning often go untranslated.

The new system overcomes this. It not only translates the words of a Russian (or any other language text, it puts them in the right order and tense.

And even in its present primitige stage of development, it does it at the astounding rate of 60,000 words per minute. The developer of the system, Ariadne Luk-Janow, president of Machine Translation Ltd. of Washington, hopes to increase his rate to 150,000 words per hour within a year and eventually go to one million words per hour, using the most modern computers.

The system works on the principle that translation is a process of transferring one set of data into another. As applied to language, it is a fourfold transfer process;

—Transfer of the function of words.

—Transfer of the form of words.

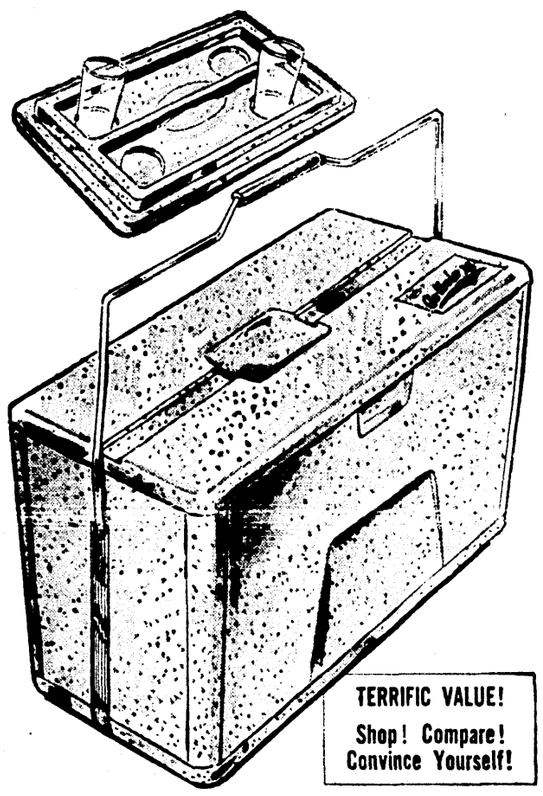

—Transfer of the meaning of words.

—Transfer of the distribution of words.

Solar Pump To Help Fill Water Needs

NEW YORK (AP)—The creation of a small metal box that turns the sun's heat into electricity to run irrigation systems for sun - rich, water - poor tropical areas was announced Saturday.

The sun pump, still under development, should be ready by the end of the year. It is designed to pump water from a depth of 20 feet to irrigate four acres of land requiring only 24 inches of water a year.

Or it could supply enough well water for the personal needs of 1,200 people—enough for five gallons of water per person per day.

The sun pump was developed by Westinghouse Electric Corp. with the cooperation of the University of Wisconsin's Solar Energy Laboratory.

The metal box is held by rods at the focus of an 8-foot solar reflector, which looks on a large scale like a flash reflector for a camera. The sun's heat, focused on the black box, is converted to electricity, which runs the pump.

Westinghouse officials say the unit would need little maintenance and would have to operate only 10 hours a day, 250 days out of the year to reach its goals. It would, of course, not operate in cloudy weather.

"Some 60 countries, mostly within the tropic-zone region of the world, have sunshine at least 75 per cent of the time," said Dr. S. W. Herwald, vice president for research for Westinghouse.

"Within this area live some two-thirds of the world's people, about 80 per cent of whom reside in rural areas and villages without central sources of electric power," he pointed out.

No estimate of the cost was available.

Two Suspects Held In Robbery

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Authorities here were holding two Minneapolis, Minn., Negroes Saturday in connection with the $400 armed robbery of a grocery Friday.

Harry Grigsley, 17, and Albert F. Wells, 18, were arrested at a bus station here shortly after the holdup.

Officers said two Negroes, one carrying a small caliber pistol, forced the store's cash register open and fled with the money.

Negro Youth Allegedly Raids Aunt's House

Monroe police said sometime Friday night he entered his relative's house by tearing off a screen and breaking a pane.

Then he ransacked the house, ripping out drawers, tearing off sheets and generally turning the house into shambles, police said.

After that he allegedly tried to burn the place down.

He did that by setting papers afire on a divan, officers said.

His aunt, a resident of South 17th Street, reported the house burglary.

Big Jim Folsom Eyes Alabama Governor Race

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (UPI) — Former Alabama Gov. James E. Folsom "Big Jim" said he will try to get his old job back next year "if the signs are right" during a brief visit here.

"If things feel good I will be going again," Folsom said of his plans to "feel things out" between now and Labor Day.

Big Jim's busy week was highlighted Thursday when he became a grandfather. His oldest daughter Rachel, now Mrs. Bob Litchenstein, gave birth to a daughter in New York.

Folsom served as governor of Alabama twice—1947-1951 and 1954-58. Gov. John Patterson succeeded him.

Last Wednesday, Folsom said at Limestone he wasn't running for governor but "I ain't gonna back down" if the people run him.

Folsom also referred to the road he had to travel to reach the annual barbecue at Limestone. He told about 200 persons "we like to have rattled our teeth out. Elect me and Milt (former Sen. Milton Grisham Jr.) and put Herman (Nelson, former highway director) back down there to fix it."

JFK Appeal Sounded On Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appealed anew for his embattled foreign aid proposals Saturday and said they were vital to his Latin American "alliance for progress" program.

He linked the foreign aid legislation with the hemisphere program in a statement prepared for a welcoming ceremony for Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon on his arrival from Punta de Este, Uruguay.

It was there that the alliance for progress program got underway.

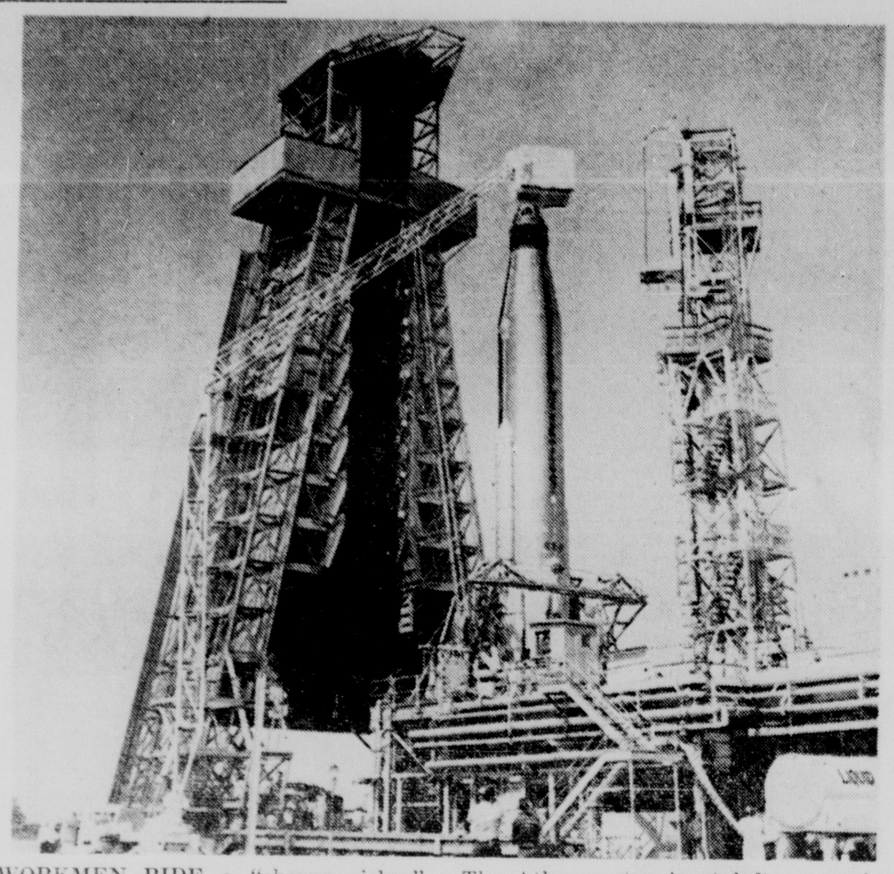

Dillon, who headed the U. S. delegation, flew back to the United States with other members of his party.

Kennedy told the delegates at a special ceremony in the White House rose garden that they had played "a leading role in one of the historic meetings of the hemisphere."

By their action, he said, they had made clear "the dignity, the good sense and the generous purpose of the United States and its full commitment to the alliance for progress.'

Kennedy said that while the conference was under way, the administration was working here for foreign aid legislation to support the U. S. efforts in setting up the Latin American program.

"We are still working," he said. Obviously he was mindful of the fact that the administration still must fight to win the long-term borrowing authority which was killed in the House version of the bill but approved by the Senate.

SPEEDS TRANSLATIONS

Machine Conquers Language Barrier

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Kennedy and others who must watch Russian policy moves closely soon may find among their morning newspapers an English translation of that day's Pravda.

The official Russian newspaper will not be the only Soviet publication they will be able to read in English.

Scientific journals, intelligence publications and other Russian documents of interest to U.S. policy markers also will be available within days, if not hours, after they are published.

The importance of rapid translation is demonstrated by the fact that had U.S. scientists been able to read a leading Russian aviation publication when it was published early in 1957, they would not only have known several months in advance that Russia was preparing to launch Sputnik I, the first man-made earth satellite, but they would have known the radio frequencies on which it would broadcast.

Present methods of translation are as obsolete as the horse and buggy, and about as fast.

The House Space and Aeronautics Committee has estimated that there are only 1,000 professional Russian translators in the United States and that 80 per cent of them are 60 years of age or older. Even the best of them can translate only about 400 words per hour.

Consequently, only nine - one-hundreds of 1 per cent of Soviet publications and literature are translated into English. To adequately meet U. S. intelligence needs, present government and private translation services need to be increased 50-fold.

Yet, heretofore, high speed computers have been highly unsatisfactory, for word meanings often are modified by other words in the sentence.

More important, sentence meanings often are changed by the position of words. For example, the sentence, "The dog bit the man" has an entirely different meaning if it reads, "The man bit the dog."

Yet this is what often happens when machines translate because indications of meaning often go untranslated.

The new system overcomes this. It not only translates the words of a Russian (or any other language text, it puts them in the right order and tense.

And even in its present primitige stage of development, it does it at the astounding rate of 60,000 words per minute. The developer of the system, Ariadne Luk-Janow, president of Machine Translation Ltd. of Washington, hopes to increase his rate to 150,000 words per hour within a year and eventually go to one million words per hour, using the most modern computers.

The system works on the principle that translation is a process of transferring one set of data into another. As applied to language, it is a fourfold transfer process;

—Transfer of the function of words.

—Transfer of the form of words.

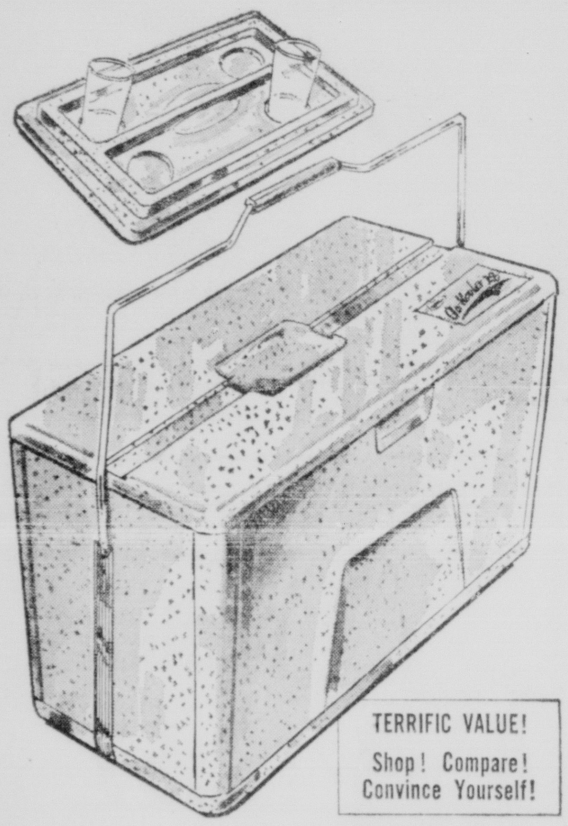

—Transfer of the meaning of words.

U.S. Is Declared To Be Strongest Military Nation

(Editors' note: Executive Editor Jack Gates the past week attended a Foreign Policy Conference Briefing by the State Department during which various aspects of the world situation were discussed. The following is a report on the meeting. No government official appearing on the program could be identified by name.)

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor

WASHINGTON — Regardless of what you may have heard or think, the United States today is the most powerful military nation in the world and in history. There is no doubt about this whatsoever.

The information for this statement came from a military official whose post is so high that no one possibly could have greater knowledge as to this nation's military strength.

It was made at a foreign policy briefing the past week. His name can not be mentioned.

"If the Soviet Union," he said, "launched a complete surprise nuclear attack with everything that it possesses, it could not keep us and our proven allies from striking back with a sufficient enough force to virtually wipe the Soviets off the map economically and militarily. We could damage it so severely that it could never rise again. But we, the United States, would be able to recover sufficiently to again become a world power."

He went on to say that Khrushchev knows this as well as we and for that reason "I cannot believe that Mr. Khrushchev will start a war—although I admit he is following a dangerous course at the present time and anything could touch off a conflict in the Berlin area."

After making that statement, this ranking official went on to detail the strength of the West and particularly the United States worldwide, but emphasizing the allied strength in Europe.

Worldside, we have 200 divisions of about 1½ million men. We have 25,000 aircraft, half of which are jets. We have 1,700 long-range bombers. We have 45 operational intercontinental ballistic missiles, all zeroed in on Russian targets, plus innumerable short range missiles in NATO nations and bases within other allies, all of which can reach major Russian targets. We have 50 Polaris missiles and will have 80 by fall. We could increase our strength by 80 per cent in two months.

Back of this, although it is not generally known publicly, the U. S. Seventh Army in Europe is the most powerful striking force ever put together in world history. It is fully equipped, trained and alerted. It could move immediately in case of an outbreak in Berlin. It would be the first outfit to act to keep travel channels open between free West Berlin and West Germany. It is backed up by a dozen fully manned military bases within 150 to 250 miles of Berlin—many nuclear equipped.

Against this, the Russians have a large land army, some units being equipped possibly with operational nuclear weapons — although this is not known for sure. The Russians have no Polaris missiles; they have only 500 long-ranged manned bombers and 10,000 operational aircraft; they have 37 Intercontinental Missiles.

"Our military capabilities in most respects are superior to the Soviets in many areas of the world," an official said. "There are a few areas at present time, where the Soviets are stronger, but this situation could be corrected quickly. Then, too, the Soviets would have a rear area problem. It is extremely doubtful that they could fight a war and hold some of the captive nations in check. We believe they feel that they would have a real problem in this category. We will not have that problem."

It was pointed out that the "beefing" up of our defenses around the world would point up to Khrushchev the folly "of the course he is following."

From this particular point of view, it would appear that President Kennedy could negotiate on any question from strength and not weakness. The puzzle here in some quarters then has been the policy of tough words, but "timid" action, such as in the case of Laos, and Cuba, to name a few.

Some point out that these timid actions could give Khrushchev the wrong impression and lead him astray.

One thing seems to stand out —that the United States would not allow itself to be forced out of free West Berlin. In fact, it was represented emphatically by a high authority that this nation would be at war the minute that the Russians or the East Germans close so much as one air, highway, rail or barge route of the access channels between West Germany and West Berlin.

"Our policy at the present time is to convince Mr. Khrushchev of this one fact," one authority said. "We don't know how successful we have been or will be. We are hoping that he will not make the fatal mistake."

Another official pointed out that the United States was in West Berlin by agreement that could not be legally broken.

"Our access routes to West Berlin and to have the situation remain as it is, is of vital interest to us," he said. "If these vital interests are stomped on, then the situation becomes very serious, indeed. But it will be up to the other side whether war starts."

What brought on the current Berlin crisis isn't exactly clear, even to our government. Some of the old-line career diplomats see the sealing off of the Eastern sector of Germany from West Berlin as a measure of desperation by Khrushchev. They also see in it a less chance than before of a shooting war and the beginning of a protracted stalemate.

Actually, in the sealing off maneuver, Khrushchev went even further than Josef Stalin ever thought of doing.

It could be, they said, that the glittering picture of West Berlin had to be covered from the East Germans. The East Germans have long enjoyed many practical advantages over most of the other peoples inside the iron curtain. They have received extra-large Soviet credits and unusually skilled manpower. As a result, the chief Communist head in East Germany, odious Walter Ulbricht really ought to have made this particular Red nation a fairly bearable place, at least as far as Communist nations go. But Ulbricht failed so conspicuously that the gate had to be shut at last — by Khrushchev, who actually gambled that war wouldn't break out over the act.

It is obviously an admission to the rest of the world that Communism is a failure. In West Germany and West Berlin, there was free enterprise and democracy. In the East, Communism and slavery. The comparisons of the two sectors alone show which system is the best.

This is the angle, it was pointed out, that the United States should take. But what has hurt, is the fact that we haven't taken advantage of it thus far—and even now it may be too late.

Other items of interest to come out of the briefing:

1. We have four ways to build up our strength: a stepup in the draft, enlistments, extend the tour of duty and by calling up reserve units. Reserve units have been alerted, but unless the situation becomes extremely critical, very few will be called up before fall. They will be alerted in order to give the men time to "put their affairs in order" before the actual call-out.

2. The Navy will now keep under commission many units it had planned to put in mothballs.

3. Khrushchev has now made commitments that puts him further "out than ever before."

4. Some observers are comparing this period to the period just before the outbreak of World War II, including the fact that Khrushchev is talking about "the grandeur of Russia," just as Hitler did about Germany.

5. If the United States holds firm in West Berlin, Khrushchev to get out of the corner, may start a crisis somewhere else — probably where we least expect it.

6. Laos actually hasn't been written off. U.S. still trying for a reasonable settlement. What happens if we don't get it, no one knows.

7. Our decision is still open on whether to admit Outer Mongolia to the United Nations because of the effect it might have on some of the new nations.

8. U.S. will never vote to admit Red China to United Nations, but odds are against it using a veto to block that nation's admission.

9. The first line of defense of West Berlin is considered to be the spirit and morale of its people.

10. Khrushchev has many weaknesses — but is trying to give the impression he is "leading from strength."

11. President Kennedy was pictured as believing two revolutions going on in the world today: a—the breaking up of the old colonial empires, and, b—great change in nature of war and weapons of war. He is convinced the weapons of war will become much worse than anything we have seen or dreamed of. He is pictured as believing that within 10 or 15 years, several nations will have weapons that could destroy the world — and these, combined with "unstable" governments doesn't make the future appear too bright. He was also pictured as believing after his meeting with Khrushchev that if a hot war doesn't break out, the cold war will be with us a long time. In fact, he wasn't of the opinion that his own children would ever live under real peace.

12. Chances are good that the Red Chinese will start a crisis in the Far East — probably in South Vitnam, which is the Reds' Number one target in Asia.

13. All divisions overseas will be brought up to full strength. Troops will be airlifted to Europe to speed up the operation.

GETS NATIONAL AWARD

Richland County Agent Honored

Richland Parish County Agent Basil Doles yesterday was named to receive the 1961 Distinguished Service Award of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The announcement, naming him and two other state agents for the honor, came on the second day of the two-day convention in New Orleans of the Louisiana County Agents Association.

The award, "in recognition of outstanding work over a period of time on behalf of agriculture and better living on the farm," will be presented later this year at the annual convention of the National Association.

BASIL DOLES

Other recipients of the honor announced by R. U. Johnson, DeSoto Parish county agent, president of the state group, are Charles W. Miller, New Iberia, associate county agent for Iberia Parish, and Claude G. Songy Jr., Donaldsonville, agent in Ascension Parish.

'LEADERSHIP'

In a citation supporting the group's selection of Doles for the award, H. C. Sanders, director of Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service, Baton Rouge, said he has "given leadership to programs designed to preserve the economic importance of agriculture in his parish, has assisted the farmers of his area to reorganize their business in line with the technological changes of the times, and has served the people of his parish in a manner to merit the award for which he has been nominated."

Dole, who resides at Rayville, is a native of Jones and a graduate of Bonita High School, received his bachelor of science degree from Louisiana State University in 1939.

He joined the LSU Agricultural Extension Service as assistant county agent in Vernon Parish in Feb., 1940, and was named parish agent in Sept., 1941. In Feb., 1946, after almost four years of military service he returned to Extension Service as county agent in Richland Parish, his present post.

Doles, a member of the Board of Directors of the State County Agents Association, was chairman of the Cotton Task Force in Louisiana which laid the foundation for the 13-point cotton program.

He has been manager of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show at Delhi for 12 years. Under his leadership the Richland Parish Cattlemen's Association held Louisiana's first feeder calf sale. He also assisted in the organization of the Richalnd Parish Sheep Growers Association, one purpose of which was to improve marketing of wool and lambs. The association has sponsored five sales.

Under Doles' direction Richland became one of the first parishes in the state to organize and use a Parish Advisory Council in developing programs to meet local farm needs.

Prisoners Riot, Start Fire In Montreal Jail

MONTREAL (UPI)—Nearly 200 prisoners awaiting trial staged a one-hour riot and started a fire in the watchtower of Bordeaux jail Saturday. They were driven back to their cells by tear gas and guards armed with clubs.

Only one man was injured—a guard who was hospitalized after being overcome by tear gas.

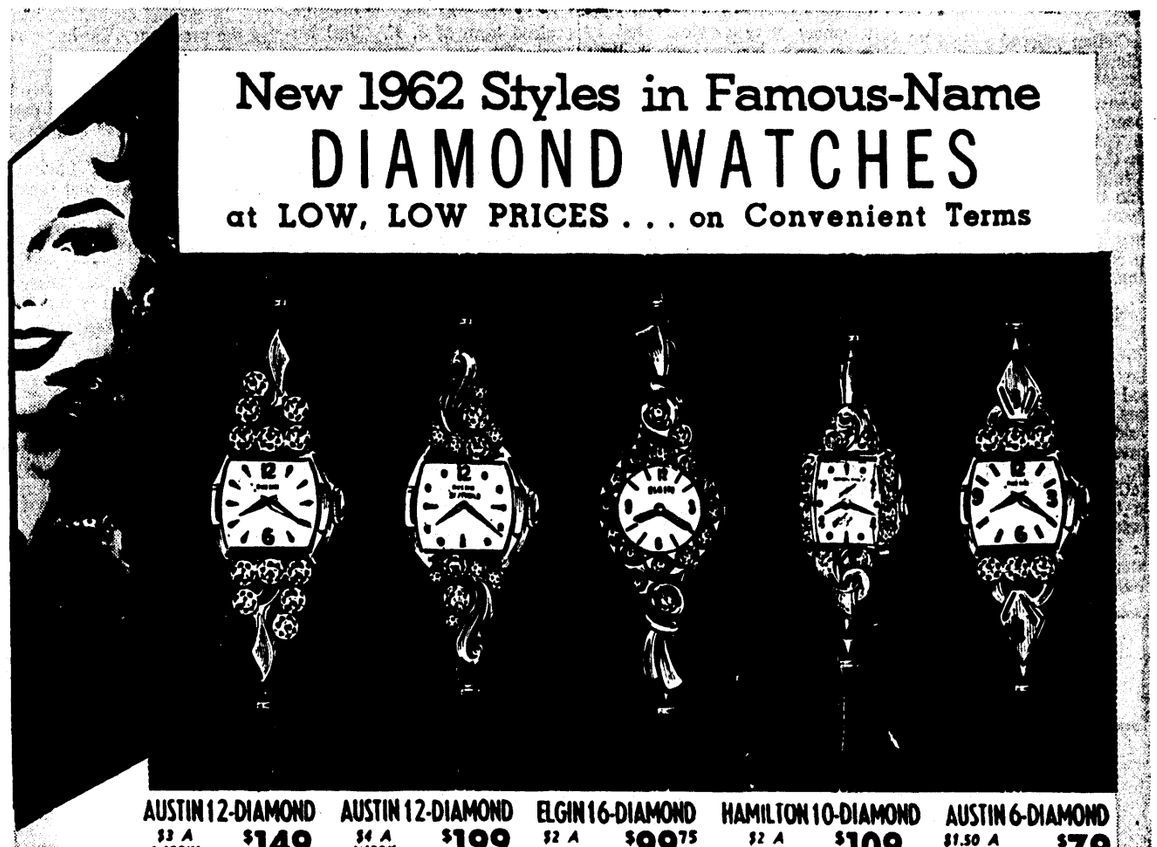

The rioters, 190 men who were housed in a special wing of the prison in north Montreal, started a clamor and defied guards as they were being marched back to their cells after a mid-morning recreation period, according to Prison Governor Charles E. Guernay.

A small group reached the ground floor of the main watchtower and set it aflame. Others set fire to mattresses in a basement workshop.

WASHINGTON — Regardless of what you may have heard or think, the United States today is the most powerful military nation in the world and in history. There is no doubt about this whatsoever.

The information for this statement came from a military official whose post is so high that no one possibly could have greater knowledge as to this nation's military strength.

It was made at a foreign policy briefing the past week. His name can not be mentioned.

"If the Soviet Union," he said, "launched a complete surprise nuclear attack with everything that it possesses, it could not keep us and our proven allies from striking back with a sufficient enough force to virtually wipe the Soviets off the map economically and militarily. We could damage it so severely that it could never rise again. But we, the United States, would be able to recover sufficiently to again become a world power."

He went on to say that Khrushchev knows this as well as we and for that reason "I cannot believe that Mr. Khrushchev will start a war—although I admit he is following a dangerous course at the present time and anything could touch off a conflict in the Berlin area."

After making that statement, this ranking official went on to detail the strength of the West and particularly the United States worldwide, but emphasizing the allied strength in Europe.

Worldside, we have 200 divisions of about 1½ million men. We have 25,000 aircraft, half of which are jets. We have 1,700 long-range bombers. We have 45 operational intercontinental ballistic missiles, all zeroed in on Russian targets, plus innumerable short range missiles in NATO nations and bases within other allies, all of which can reach major Russian targets. We have 50 Polaris missiles and will have 80 by fall. We could increase our strength by 80 per cent in two months.

Back of this, although it is not generally known publicly, the U. S. Seventh Army in Europe is the most powerful striking force ever put together in world history. It is fully equipped, trained and alerted. It could move immediately in case of an outbreak in Berlin. It would be the first outfit to act to keep travel channels open between free West Berlin and West Germany. It is backed up by a dozen fully manned military bases within 150 to 250 miles of Berlin—many nuclear equipped.

Against this, the Russians have a large land army, some units being equipped possibly with operational nuclear weapons — although this is not known for sure. The Russians have no Polaris missiles; they have only 500 long-ranged manned bombers and 10,000 operational aircraft; they have 37 Intercontinental Missiles.

"Our military capabilities in most respects are superior to the Soviets in many areas of the world," an official said. "There are a few areas at present time, where the Soviets are stronger, but this situation could be corrected quickly. Then, too, the Soviets would have a rear area problem. It is extremely doubtful that they could fight a war and hold some of the captive nations in check. We believe they feel that they would have a real problem in this category. We will not have that problem."

It was pointed out that the "beefing" up of our defenses around the world would point up to Khrushchev the folly "of the course he is following."

From this particular point of view, it would appear that President Kennedy could negotiate on any question from strength and not weakness. The puzzle here in some quarters then has been the policy of tough words, but "timid" action, such as in the case of Laos, and Cuba, to name a few.

Some point out that these timid actions could give Khrushchev the wrong impression and lead him astray.

One thing seems to stand out —that the United States would not allow itself to be forced out of free West Berlin. In fact, it was represented emphatically by a high authority that this nation would be at war the minute that the Russians or the East Germans close so much as one air, highway, rail or barge route of the access channels between West Germany and West Berlin.

"Our policy at the present time is to convince Mr. Khrushchev of this one fact," one authority said. "We don't know how successful we have been or will be. We are hoping that he will not make the fatal mistake."

Another official pointed out that the United States was in West Berlin by agreement that could not be legally broken.

"Our access routes to West Berlin and to have the situation remain as it is, is of vital interest to us," he said. "If these vital interests are stomped on, then the situation becomes very serious, indeed. But it will be up to the other side whether war starts."

What brought on the current Berlin crisis isn't exactly clear, even to our government. Some of the old-line career diplomats see the sealing off of the Eastern sector of Germany from West Berlin as a measure of desperation by Khrushchev. They also see in it a less chance than before of a shooting war and the beginning of a protracted stalemate.

Actually, in the sealing off maneuver, Khrushchev went even further than Josef Stalin ever thought of doing.

It could be, they said, that the glittering picture of West Berlin had to be covered from the East Germans. The East Germans have long enjoyed many practical advantages over most of the other peoples inside the iron curtain. They have received extra-large Soviet credits and unusually skilled manpower. As a result, the chief Communist head in East Germany, odious Walter Ulbricht really ought to have made this particular Red nation a fairly bearable place, at least as far as Communist nations go. But Ulbricht failed so conspiciously that the gate had to be shut at last — by Khrushchev, who actually gambled that war wouldn't break out over the act.

It is obviously an admission to the rest of the world that Communism is a failure. In West Germany and West Berlin, there was free enterprise and democracy. In the East, Communism and slavery. The comparisons of the two sectors alone show which system is the best.

This is the angle, it was pointed out, that the United States should take. But what has hurt, is the fact that we haven't taken advantage of it thus far—and even now it may be too late.

Other items of interest to come out of the briefing:

1. We have four ways to build up our strength: a stepup in the draft, enlistments, extend the tour of duty and by calling up reserve units. Reserve units have been alerted, but unless the situation becomes extremely critical, very few will be called up before fall. They will be alerted in order to give the men time to "put their affairs in order" before the actual call-out.

2. The Navy will now keep under commission many units it had planned to put in mothballs.

3. Khrushchev has now made commitments that puts him further "out than ever before."

4. Some observers are comparing this period to the period just before the outbreak of World War II, including the fact that Khrushchev is talking about "the grandeur of Russia," just as Hitler did about Germany.

5. If the United States holds firm in West Berlin, Khrushchev to get out of the corner, may start a crisis somewhere else — probably where we least expect it.

6. Laos actually hasn't been written off. U.S. still trying for a reasonable settlement. What happens if we don't get it, no one knows.

7. Our decision is still open on whether to admit Outer Mongolia to the United Nations because of the effect it might have on some of the new nations.

8. U.S. will never vote to admit Red China to United Nations, but odds are against it using a veto to block that nation's admission.

9. The first line of defense of West Berlin is considered to be the spirit and morale of its people.

10. Khrushchev has many weaknesses — but is trying to give the impression he is "leading from strength."

11. President Kennedy was pictured as believing two revolutions going on in the world today: a—the breaking up of the old colonial empires, and, b—great change in nature of war and weapons of war. He is convinced the weapons of war will become much worse than anything we have seen or dreamed of. He is pictured as believing that within 10 or 15 years, several nations will have weapons that could destroy the world — and these, combined with "unstable" governments doesn't make the future appear too bright. He was also pictured as believing after his meeting with Khrushchev that if a hot war doesn't break out, the cold war will be with us a long time. In fact, he wasn't of the opinion that his own children would ever live under real peace.

12. Chances are good that the Red Chinese will start a crisis in the Far East — probably in South Vitnam, which is the Reds' Number one target in Asia.

13. All divisions overseas will be brought up to full strength. Troops will be airlifted to Europe to speed up the operation.

GETS NATIONAL AWARD

Richland County Agent Honored

Richland Parish County Agent Basil Doles yesterday was named to receive the 1961 Distinguished Service Award of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The announcement, naming him and two other state agents for the honor, came on the second day of the two-day convention in New Orleans of the Louisiana County Agents Association.

The award, "in recognition of outstanding work over a period of time on behalf of agriculture and better living on the farm," will be presented later this year at the annual convention of the National Association.

BASIL DOLES

Other recipients of the honor announced by R. U. Johnson, DeSoto Parish county agent, president of the state group, are Charles W. Miller, New Iberia, associate county agent for Iberia Parish, and Claude G. Songy Jr., Donaldsonville, agent in Ascension Parish.

'LEADERSHIP'

In a citation supporting the group's selection of Doles for the award, H. C. Sanders, director of Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service, Baton Rouge, said he has "given leadership to programs designed to preserve the economic importance of agriculture in his parish, has assisted the farmers of his area to reorganize their business in line with the technological changes of the times, and has served the people of his parish in a manner to merit the award for which he has been nominated."

Dole, who resides at Rayville, is a native of Jones and a graduate of Bonita High School, received his bachelor of science degree from Louisiana State University in 1939.

He joined the LSU Agricultural Extension Service as assistant county agent in Vernon Parish in Feb., 1940, and was named parish agent in Sept., 1941. In Feb., 1946, after almost four years of military service he returned to Extension Service as county agent in Richland Parish, his present post.

Doles, a member of the Board of Directors of the State County Agents Association, was chairman of the Cotton Task Force in Louisiana which laid the foundation for the 13-point cotton program.

He has been manager of the Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show at Delhi for 12 years. Under his leadership the Richland Parish Cattlemen's Association held Louisiana's first feeder calf sale. He also assisted in the organization of the Richalnd Parish Sheep Growers Association, one purpose of which was to improve marketing of wool and lambs. The association has sponsored five sales.

Under Doles' direction Richland became one of the first parishes in the state to organize and use a Parish Advisory Council in developing programs to meet local farm needs.

Prisoners Riot, Start Fire In Montreal Jail

MONTREAL (UPI)—Nearly 200 prisoners awaiting trial staged a one-hour riot and started a fire in the watchtower of Bordeaux jail Saturday. They were driven back to their cells by tear gas and guards armed with clubs.

Only one man was injured—a guard who was hospitalized after being overcome by tear gas.

The rioters, 190 men who were housed in a special wing of the prison in north Montreal, started a clamor and defied guards as they were being marched back to their cells after a mid-morning recreation period, according to Prison Governor Charles E. Guernay.

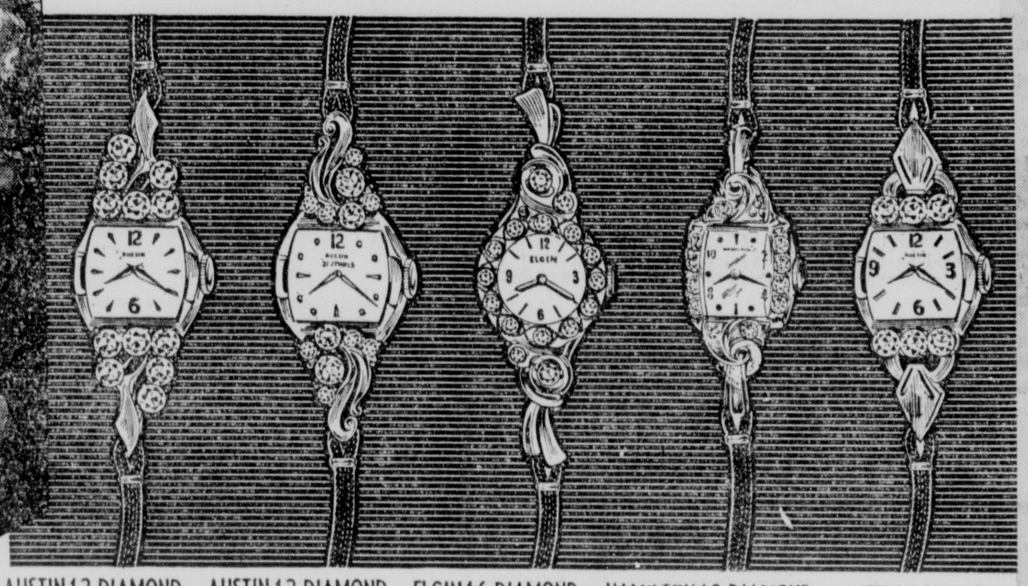

A small group reached the ground floor of the main watchtower and set it aflame. Others set fire to mattresses in a basement workshop.

ILLEGAL GAMBLING PROBE

Solons To Bare Crooked Devices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets probers said Saturday they hoped to show in hearings next week how illegal gambling places use crooked devices to make sure their patrons can't "beat the house."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said he has chosen a flourishing traffic in crooked gambling paraphernalia as the starting point for his Senate investigations subcommittee's hearings on the growth of organized crime.

The hearings are to start Tuesday, and will run periodically into 1962 to explore gambling, narcotics and white slavery rackets, he said.

He said that as the inquiry spreads out, the testimony might raise some questions about what law enforcement officials have been doing about the problem in some areas, and whether new federal laws are needed to help them do their job.

McClellan ordered a tight lid on details about the inquiry until the testimony unfolds.

Witnesses have been subpoenaed from cities scattered from coast to coast, but only when the witnesses or their lawyers told it themselves would McClellan confirm the names of any of them.

They have been summoned from New York and New Jersey, Boston, Philadelphia, Miami, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Louisville, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Los Angeles, and Little Rock, Ark.

The best known name disclosed so far as among the witnesses is that of Owen Madden, the old New York Prohibition era mobster who now lives in Little Rock. He disclosed this himself.

McClellan said he doubted that even the new package of anti-racketeering laws requested by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, a former counsel to the subcommittee, would be sufficient to meet the challenge of the underworld.

Gambling is the mainstay source of income for the mobs, and the senator said there were gaps in the laws to deal with it. He cited the traffic in crooked gaming devices—cards, dice, roulette wheels and other items.

"This equipment, the subcommittee has been informed, is being used to mulct the pulic of large amounts of money," McClellan said. "Nevertheless, there is nothing in present federal law to prohibit its distribution in interstate commerce."

He plans, through questioning makers and distributors of crooked devices and experts in detecting them, to explore the story of the manufacture, sale, distribution and use of such equipment. He declined to mention any names in advance.

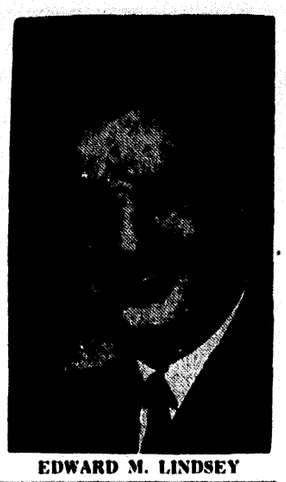

Before winding up this phase of the hearings, he said, the subcommittee will look into the interstate telephone wire services used by horse race bookmakers in their trade. The telephone is an essential tool for getting race results, keeping track of betting odds and other operations.

"Under present federal law, the transmission of this information is legal, even though it supports a tremendously profitable interstate gambling operation that is illegal in 49 states," McClellan said.

A third phase of the week or so of hearings will be the interstate distribution of results and other information to bookmakers concerning football, baseball, basketball and other sports. "Here again is an activity not now prohibited by federal law," McClellan said.

Clerk Vote In La Salle Is Scheduled

JENA (Special) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis has called a special election Nov. 14 in LaSalle Parish to elect a clerk of court for the unexpired term of J. E. (Jim) Nugent, who died recently.

The LaSalle parish Democratic committee has established Oct. 14 as the date for the first primary election. The second primary, if necessary, will be held on Saturday, Nov. 4.

Registration of voters in the parish, which stands at a little over 40 per cent since the polls were wiped clean last December, will end Wednesday, Sept. 13, 30 days before the first primary.

To date, two candidates have filed for the office. J. D. (Joe) Nugent of Jena, son of the former Clerk, was appointed acting Clerk by district Judge Clyde C. Russell and has announced for the race.

Also entered is Charles Huffman, who ran for the office in the first and second primary held in December 1959 and January 1960. Huffman lost the election in the second primary.

MASSAGES HEART

Man Revived Five Times By Machine

WASHINGTON (AP) — A machine helped return a man from the "dead" five times in the space of two hours, physicians at Georgetown University hospital said today.

It did so by massaging his stopped heart, so that it was set going again. The man, identified as Lester F. Garrison, 67, of Vienna, Va., is now progressing fairly well, though he has not yet left the hospital.

Hospital authorities gave this account:

Garrison was brought in suffering from a dilated aorta, which means a swelling of the great trunk artery that carries blood from the heart.

An operation was performed to relieve this condition but a week later, on Aug. 6, he suffered a coronary attack and his heart stopped beating.

Unless the heart could have been started again in four to six minutes, the patient would have been dead.

Physicians immediately resorted to external manual massage. Then the machine was brought into play. It is designed to deliver a predetermined stroke on the sternum (breastbone).

Its inventor, William J. Mullikin of Washington, explained: "It has the advantage of being able to set the length of the stroke that is desired, and also to control the amount of pressure that is needed to attain an efficient blood pressure. These operations can be changed while the equipment is in operation."

Garrison's heart stopped beating five times in two hours, and each time was started again.

Restarting a heart is not unusual. It has been done 20 or more times in a single patient by manual massage. But physicians said that unless the person doing the hand massaging was experienced, it was hard to exert the right amount of pressure with each stroke. The machine can be preset to do this.

Guards Retake Convict Escapee

Warden Victor Walker of Louisiana state penitentiary identified the escaped inmate as Johnny Scott, 20, Negro, serving three years for attempted simple burglary in Orleans Parish.

Walker said Scott was working with a crew clearing brush beneath telephone lines between Angola and Bains when he ran into the woods during a lunch break.

Bloodhounds led guards to the escaped convict in a heavily wooded area.

Monroe Morning World

Summer Song Mutes Distant Thunder

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It was Sunday and it was summer.

Somewhere in the land that stretched quietly and benignly from the Atlantic into the Pacific, from the delta of the Mississippi to the bend of the Yukon, the siren of an ambulance shrieked a shocking intrusion on a motionless city street, the hand of a thief reached into a window, a woman gave birth, a man died, a jet fighter took off in an unseemly roar, and a man who was President of the United States worried about Berlin.

But these were the dissonances heard, if at all, only in the hazy, humid distance, like the cry of a saxophone fighting the serenity of the main theme with tortured counterpoint. For this was a summer Sunday afternoon in America, the slow largo movement in the week's symphony.

SOON ASLEEP

In Los Angeles, a man in shorts and tee-shirt turned off the power mower and collapsed into a hammock. He was soon asleep.

In Odessa, Mo., the two main streets were deserted except for a young hawk in a red sports car circling, circling, circling, looking for someone to do nothing with.

At the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht Club, a slim young housewife in chic shorts and shirt, sat cross-legged on the lawn, idly sipping a gin and tonic, one eye on her children climbing the brass cannon near the flag pole.

Across an ocean and a continent to the shores of yet another ocean, fog and chill covered the playground of the rich at Bar Harbor, Maine. And the rich huddled before their fireplaces playing bridge or doing double acrostics in the studies of their spacious "cottages" or in the period-piece lobbies of the great old hotels.

In a tiny city park wedged in among the tall apartment houses of Cleveland, Ohio, a secretary in brief top and shorts moved languidly from the sunlight on her lawn chair to the sunlight on her blanket in the grass. And from high in an open window drifted an announcer's voice, with no real concern, "Hawkins gets his signal, checks the runner on first and . . ."

SUNSHINE OR MIST

In sunshine or mist, for most of the country it was a day of exquisite ennui. The rhythm of the week had been slowed down to a deep and stretchy languor; the factories were still; the farm tractors had been rolled under the shed and only the wind moved through the fields; nothing moved along the long silent rows of desks in the big city offices and all the crucial calendar reminders about the crucial Monday meetings seemed disembodied in time, like the fragment of a note found in a prehistoric tomb, with no one there to feel their urgency. It was a day, like most summer Sunday afternoons, when the normal rhythm of life and death and ambition and fear and hope and need and greed had slowed down; when capital and labor had slowed down, Republican and Democrat had slowed down, enmity had slowed down, the march to Armageddon or outer space had slowed down and, with most of the orators silent and most of the mimeograph machines of the separate governments resting, even the cold war seemed to have slowed down.

It was Sunday, the seventh day, the day of rest, and somehow just not the day to make a killing or find a cure for cancer or put a man on the moon or sign a treaty or make news in a hundred other ways news is ordinarily made or to plan deliberately a drastic act of violence or sudden peace or good or evil, which would seem to violate not only the laws of God and man and the 40-hour week but also would do serious violence to the music of the spheres.

WONDERED

What, we wondered, was the full flavor of a summer Sunday afternoon in America in 1961? How do you catch it? And, from ocean to ocean, from picnic grove outside of Atlanta to campsite deep in the shade of the Douglas firs outside of Portland, from the rocky headlands of Maine to the tangle-branched hau trees of Honolulu, more than two score Associated Press reporters and photographers fanned out on a given Sunday (July 9). And these were the sights and these were the sounds they recorded . . .

There were probably others but we happened to hear only one patriotic speech that day. It came on the poor man's Riviera, in the caterwauling of Coney Island, the yelping children and the pinched girl, the beat of Negro and Puerto Rican bongo drums, the snores of a fat man under a Sunday newspaper, the roar of the adolescent on the prowl, the shrieks from the parachute jump and the roller coaster.

In Flatbush accents as pungent as a hot knish or a basket of fried cuchifritos or a garlic-anchovy pizza, a tall, gray-haired garment worker stood up in the sand and, facing the general direction of Cuba, said to a friend:

ORATION

"So, so, what is it over there? A worker in Russia is a worker, he looks like a worker, he won't never be nothing else. Here you don't recognize he's a worker or a boss. Let them como here and see how we live. What if you're lazy sometime? It happens, no? So you take a week off and come lay on the beach. Who is to tell you no? If you don't like your boss you can spit in his eye. I'm a free person. What is better than to be free? I tell you every day I want to kiss the ground here."

A short distance away, four formidable women in big floppy hats played cards on a tiny table pressed against veiny knees, and one said, "nu, deal awready. I made it a rummy."

In Odessa, Mo., population 2,034, the afternoon began in the midday sun as the churches emptied — the women preening in their bright silk and organdy dresses and perky hats, the farmers stiff in their Sunday suits and ties, the children temporary in their scrubbed look.

Only the Twin Trophy Cafe and a few filling stations were open. Joe Wert's drug store, the two other pharmacies, the Odessa market, the garages and the feed store were closed. Commerce in this prototype of a western movie set was pretty well shuttered.

In the hour of the midday meal after church, time paused almost completely. Nobody moved along the maple and elm - lined streets, nobody but the boy in the sports car roaming restlessly.

SLOW STIRRING

Then, a slow stirring.

City Marshal Nat Martin went fishing for bullheads at the reservoir. "I can't see the bobber in the water for my stomach," he kidded. "I've caught everything from a beer can to a stump." Who was minding law and order? "Nothing much happens in Odessa on Sunday," he said.

Other fishermen showed up. Their wives sat under a nearby tree and visited. Sunday supper would be simple, a re-run of Sunday dinner — fried chicken, hot cinnamon rolls, sliced tomatoes, green beans. "It doesn't pay to cook much on Sundays," said Mrs. Clyde Copenhaver, wife of the butcher at the Odessa locker plant.

In the community building, where the women had brought heaps of hot dogs, barbecue beef, potato salad and soda pop, 55 members of the Hobbs family gathered for a reunion. The patriarch of the feast, Grandpa Newberry Hobbs, aged 74, told a visitor, "I've got six boys and each one has a sister."

"Tweive children in all?"

"Nope. Seven."

Grandpa's joke quickly made the rounds.

Most of the town's young people were swimming at nearby Lake Venita or gathered at the ice cream plant. In other towns, they gather at a coke joint or bowling alley or gin mill. In Odessa, it's still the ice cream plant.

STAYED HOME

Many other people stayed home watching the Kansas City Athletics on television.

But on the corner of Second and Orchard, the baseball was live, not second - hand. Mrs. Laverne Wood, in a blue house dress, was at bat in a game that had her three red - headed sons on the opposing team and other kids on her side. She belted a line drive and one son, the pitcher, caught flat - footed between loyalties, yelled, "Go, Mom, go." Her team led 39 to 24 but no one knew what inning it was.

The only untoward event of the day was Otto Begemann's heart attack. He had to be taken to a hospital. But on July 9, 1961, Odessa's population remained 2,034. Nobody was born. Nobody died.

Just west of Pittsburgh, Pa., a young couple carefully studied the model house of a development called "Hankey Farms." The man tapped the walls, the floors, the ceilings. His pregnant wife examined the sink, the stove, the closets. Their 17-month-old daughter pulled out a kitchen cabinet door and banged her head and cried.

Nobody knows how many children across the land cried that day from bumps, sand in their eyes, hot dogs in their stomachs or whacks on their bottoms. Nobody knows how many people were snarled in traffic and overheated their motors and their tempers. Or how many hit a golf ball or a tennis ball or a wife or fished or threw horseshoes or a tantrum or made bookcases or flower beds or love. Other things are recordable.

TRAIL'S END

In Fort Madison, Iowa, a man named Craig R. Shaeffer, board chairman of the pen company, turned a shot gun on himself in a sitting room of his mansion, and ill health was blamed. In the bleachers a double-header in Wrigley Field, Chicago, a seminar developed among some hot, barechested fans about whatever happened to all the good Irish boxers, but nobody got mad, nobody got socked.

Out on Block Island in the Atlantic, the 28-piece band of the Palestine Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of Cranston, R. I., gave a concert in a chilling mist. They wore red fezzes and blue uniforms spiced with red and yellow. They hit a few sour notes, which were blamed on the damp air.

To the northeast, heavy mist hung over the white clapboard homes of Hyannis Port, Mass., grounding the athletic Kennedys. And in one house overlooking Nantucket Sound, the President of the United States studied a stack of documents about the Berlin crisis, and somehow it didn't seem like Sunday.

SAME MIST

The same mist that soured the Shriner's music on Block Island and tethered the Kennedys at Cape Cod kept the yacht fleets riding at anchor in Bar Harbor, Maine, and half-obscured the 50-room baronial mansions on the cliffs.

In a boathouse, a new superstructure was going up on "The Dragon Lady," a speedy reconverted British torpedo boat which Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York uses to whip around the harbor. Out in the bay, the Rockefeller brothers' blue sloop rode gently at its mooring, patiently waiting for its owners to arrive on their summer vacations, which each year seem to get shorter.

On shore, many of the younger social set were recuperating from the first formal dance of the season at the Bar Harbor Club. It had been quite a blast.

The band had just closed with "Good Night Ladies" when an idea was born. Said young Charlotte Colke', a Campbell soup heiress, to young Suzanne Kent, an Atwater Kent heiress:

"Why don't you buy the band for an extra hour?"

"I can't," said Suzanne after a whispered conference with her brother, Atwater Kent III, "I'm already into Daddy for $100 and I'm absolutely broke."

So they borrowed a natty straw hat from a waiter and passed it and raised the $120 overtime rate for the band.

On the Sunday that followed, most of the young socialites rested. A few went hiking in the rain through the pines of Acadia National Park. So did Walter Lippman and his wife. Enroute, they stopped at the Jordan Pond House for some hot tea near the fire.

CONSCIENTIOUS

A conscientious reporter on or off vacation, the columnist told a waitress he had spotted two orioles in the woods and one trail bridge that was out. This intelligence from the park's most eminent correspondent was relayed to a park ranger.

In a dockside phone, a recently arrived female sailor shouted into the mouthpiece, "Don't worry, mother. We got through the fog all right and there's plenty of beer left on board." One wondered how reassuring this would be to mother.

And out on the Kimball House, among the old hotel's damp potted palms, this was overheard: "Henry has taken some silly job for the summer that doesn't prove a thing. I said it would be better if he perfected his tennis."

The sunshine that eluded the rich of Bar Harbor that day more than favored the middle class of Santa Anita Village outside of Los Angeles. It was 96 in the shade, and the mood of siesta lay heavily on the well-ordered streets.

A man in blue cotton pants and tee-shirt swept his walk. Farther down the street, a sweating couple stooped along the front walk transplanting small shrubs and slapping at gnats. Across the way, a tanned, chubby neighbor in shorts panted over a lawnmower and from time to time stopped to change the water on his elephant ears plants.

There was no other movement on the street. Where was everybody? They were out back in their swimming pools or hammocks or inside watching TV or sleeping or swimming at the beaches or picnicking in the mountains.

RUSTLED

A slight breeze rustled the Sunday papers of those lounging in hammocks, and in the sleepy heat of the day a man couldn't worry too much about the news, about the moves and counter-moves of the growing Berlin crisis, about the fact that on this day in Moscow the Russians were showing off new and impressive air power.

In his swimming trunks, Dick Wheatley, a telephone company engineer, finished up the dining room he had been painting and papering in the past week of vacation. Then he took his transistor radio out to the pool and between splashes kept abreast of the Dodgers and the Reds.

In their backyard, the Bob Hendersons drank beer with the Wally Kennedys (Wally used to be their mailman). A girl swam in the pool. Two other kids were playing cards with their grandmother. The men, off to themselves, talked about the Dodgers and swapped jokes. The women talked about kids and food prices.

It was Sunday and it was hot. Why talk about Khrushchev?

The sunshine that baked Santa Anita Village couldn't reach the locked and guarded room deep in the Pentagon in Washington, D. C. Neither could the somnambulant indifference of a Sunday afternoon.

MEN WATCHED

Here in the brightly lit room, under miles of dark, silent corridors, men watched buttons and buzzers and lights. And the red phones that could alert a general or an air base or an admiral or a polaris submarine or a president or a secretary of defense were never far from a man's hand.

Testing, he pushed a button in the console. Instantly a voice replied, loud and clear, from a place 7,000 or 10,000 or 12,000 miles away, from a base frozen in the Polar ice, from an air strip baking on the rim of an African desert, from an island in the Pacific, where peace had once disintegrated in a thousand screaming bombs on another sunny Sunday.

The officer moved on. The men watched and waited.

He also watches and waits who serves a slot machine.

The sun edged slowly across the desert toward the low, barren hills beyond Las Vegas, Nev. The temperature climbed to 111, even too hot to swim, and the pools were almost deserted. But not the air-conditioned casinos.

DICE GALLOPED

At the Sands Hotel, dice galloped across the green felt and the black-jack cards spun deftly from the dealer's fingers and at the roulette wheels and slot machines women watched hypnotically.

"Come on eight," begged a craps player, a scowl under his straw hat, no light at the end of his cigar.

A man at the double 25 cent slot machine, inserted two coins, rubbed the heads of two women for luck, pulled the handle, stepped back and waited.

Two bells came up on this glorious afternoon in the life of the republic and the machine spilled out a small shower of quarters. The women shrieked. The man patted the machine like an old cavalry rider stroking the mane of a horse for getting him through an Indian attack.

"You're asking me what to do with 16," said a plump woman straining her capri pants at the blackjack table. "I tell you I just don't know what to do."

Life and death in the desert.

A man can score a variety of triumphs on a Sunday afternoon. He can break the bank at the Sands or finish painting the bathroom ceiling and see it in the glory of another Sistine Chapel or hit the biggest trout of his life, with witnesses.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

But no Sunday success is sweeter, any golfer will tell you, than the day he shoots the very best score of his whole entire life and does it in the club tourna- July 9, 1961, to Tom Greenman, a paper salesman, at the Apawamis Country Club in the upper brackets of Rye, N. Y.

All afternoon he had played over his head, expecting the dream to be shattered at the next hole. But disaster never came. At the 19th, Tom arched a lively chip shot six inches from the pin and they gave him the putt and he walked away with a 72.

What can you say when you shoot par for the first time in your life and they hand you a silver plate? You just smile all the way home, the way Tom Greenman did. You appear on the terrace, among assembled cocktail guests, glowing like a hunter returned home with a year's supply of venison. Still smiling, you hand your wife your scorecard and then kiss her on the cheek.

You could draw a line down the middle of the massive, gray Charity Hospital in New Orleans, which is segregated. The left wing, as you face it, is for Negroes, the right for whites, and there are separate entrances.

But the nursery is integrated. Beginning life, white and negro babies share the same room. The morgue is also integrated.

In the Negro emergency receiving room, on this Sunday, a young mother patted the diaper of her crying baby and murmured, "everything's going to be all right honey."

Outside the white section, a young father told one of his three sons, "Yes, son, I'll tell Mommy you love and miss her. But Mommy's going to be all right."

CONFIDENT

Inside near the elevator, an old man lay on a stretcher, ready to go up to surgery for a cataract operation, and whispered to the doctor bending over him, "I know you're going to help me."

On this afternoon, three patients died at Charity, two Negro men and one white man. On this afternoon, 13 babies were born, all Negro, one stillborn. In an average year, the hospital has about 13,000 births, the ratio of Negro to white being about 11 to one.

They looked up at the Statue of Liberty in New York and grandfather remembered when he saw it from the deck of an immigrant ship and father, from the deck of a troop ship. They picnicked in the shade at Gettysburg and the kids swarmed over the black cannon and the men studied the battle markers in reverential silence.

They burbled with curiosity at the old stage stop in Tucson and in Philadelphia they gently patted the old Liberty Bell in silence. They filled the beaches south of Cape Canaveral and stared at the towering missile gantries and saw only a handful of technicians checking the Tiros weather satellite, which would orbit the earth in three days. Nothing went up this day except the temper of a man who punched a young man squarely in the face for driving too fast along the sand.

TELESCOPES

They strolled along Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco and lined up at the pay telescopes for a view of Alcatraz across the bay. They walked among the odors of cooked crabs, shrimp, prawns and lobster tails and freshly baked bread, Italian and French.

There was a fat woman bulging in slacks under a blazing red Chinese coolie hat. There were four white-hatted Amish girls from the Midwest, their long green dresses reaching to within a few inches of their flat shoes. There was a bored knot of U.S. Marines paying no attention, as they would have paid attention just a few years ago, to a chattering group of Japanese sailors lined up for a tourist boat.

In the newest state of the union, they were recognizable by the whiteness of their skins as they strolled along Waikiki Beach in Honolulu. They savored the smell of the roasting kalua pig in the fire being stoked by a poi-chubby Hawaiian. Over a gin and tonic and under a roof of thatched palm fronds, they looked out to sea and savored the languor of the islands and few realized that in this building a man named Franklin Roosevelt once held a conference of war with a man named Douglas MacArthur.

RELIVED PAST

And in the second-newest state of the union, the objects of tourist curiosity became tourists themselves. A group of Alaskans flew over to Dawson in the Yukon Territory to relive their past among the relics of the Klondike gold-rush of '98.

They walked through a half-dead town, past buildings crumbling behind false fronts, past the abandoned decaying post-office and old padlocked saloons and outfitting stores. They studied the tiny two-room cabin of Robert Service and the older women were reminded of the days when they, too, had to chink the logs in their cabins and cook on tiny Yukon stoves.

At Bonanza creek, they watched an old miner shovel dirt into a gold pan and wash it for the visitors. "Probably salted, for the benefit of tourists," said Dr. Will H. Chase of Cordova, aged 88. Sixty-four years ago he and a partner took out $125,000 in gold from a Klondike claim, but all the money later went down the drain of bad investments.

The afternoon that was beginning in the Yukon was ending in Central Park, New York City.

The deep inborn yearning of the city to feed the animals had been satisfied; the pigeons, the squirrels, the elephants and the monkeys had been fed. The checker boards had been folded up. The lonely old men reading on the benches had gone back to their lonely rooms. The lovers stood up and brushed the grass from their clothes. The carousel was slowing down.

And around the bronze statue of Hans Christian Andersen only the litter of a happy day remained. A pigeon strutted in the lap of the famed Danish story-teller, near the open book on which had been engraved the first line of "The Ugly-Duckling," his best known fairy tale:

"It was beautiful in the country. It was summer."

Summer Song Mutes Distant Thunder

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It was Sunday and it was summer.

Somewhere in the land that stretched quietly and benignly from the Atlantic into the Pacific, from the delta of the Mississippi to the bend of the Yukon, the siren of an ambulance shrieked a shocking intrusion on a motionless city street, the hand of a thief reached into a window, a woman gave birth, a man died, a jet fighter took off in an unseemly roar, and a man who was President of the United States worried about Berlin.

But these were the dissonances heard, if at all, only in the hazy, humid distance, like the cry of a saxophone fighting the serenity of the main theme with tortured counterpoint. For this was a summer Sunday afternoon in America, the slow largo movement in the week's symphony.

SOON ASLEEP

In Los Angeles, a man in shorts and tee-shirt turned off the power mower and collapsed into a hammock. He was soon asleep.

In Odessa, Mo., the two main streets were deserted except for a young hawk in a red sports car circling, circling, circling, looking for someone to do nothing with.

At the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht Club, a slim young housewife in chic shorts and shirt, sat cross-legged on the lawn, idly sipping a gin and tonic, one eye on her children climbing the brass cannon near the flag pole.

Across an ocean and a continent to the shores of yet another ocean, fog and chill covered the playground of the rich at Bar Harbor, Maine. And the rich huddled before their fireplaces playing bridge or doing double acrostics in the studies of their spacious "cottages" or in the period-piece lobbies of the great old hotels.

In a tiny city park wedged in among the tall apartment houses of Cleveland, Ohio, a secretary in brief top and shorts moved languidly from the sunlight on her lawn chair to the sunlight on her blanket in the grass. And from high in an open window drifted an announcer's voice, with no real concern, "Hawkins gets his signal, checks the runner on first and . . ."

SUNSHINE OR MIST

In sunshine or mist, for most of the country it was a day of exquisite ennui. The rhythm of the week had been slowed down to a deep and stretchy languor; the factories were still; the farm tractors had been rolled under the shed and only the wind moved through the fields; nothing moved along the long silent rows of desks in the big city offices and all the crucial calendar reminders about the crucial Monday meetings seemed disembodied in time, like the fragment of a note found in a prehistoric tomb, with no one there to feel their urgency. It was a day, like most summer Sunday afternoons, when the normal rhythm of life and death and ambition and fear and hope and need and greed had slowed down; when capital and labor had slowed down, Republican and Democrat had slowed down, enmity had slowed down, the march to Armageddon or outer space had slowed down and, with most of the orators silent and most of the mimeograph machines of the separate governments resting, even the cold war seemed to have slowed down.

It was Sunday, the seventh day, the day of rest, and somehow just not the day to make a killing or find a cure for cancer or put a man on the moon or sign a treaty or make news in a hundred other ways news is ordinarily made or to plan deliberately a drastic act of violence or sudden peace or good or evil, which would seem to violate not only the laws of God and man and the 40-hour week but also would do serious violence to the music of the spheres.

WONDERED

What, we wondered, was the full flavor of a summer Sunday afternoon in America in 1961? How do you catch it? And, from ocean to ocean, from picnic grove outside of Atlanta to campsite deep in the shade of the Douglas firs outside of Portland, from the rocky headlands of Maine to the tall-branched hau trees of Honolulu, more than two score Associated Press reporters and photographers fanned out on a given Sunday (July 9). And these were the sights and these were the sounds they recorded . . .

There were probably others but we happened to hear only one patriotic speech that day. It came on the poor man's Riviera, in the caterwauling of Coney Island, the yelping children and the pinched girl, the beat of Negro and Puerto Rican bongo drums, the snores of a fat man under a Sunday newspaper, the roar of the adolescent on the prowl, the shrieks from the parachute jump and the roller coaster.

In Flatbush accents as pungent as a hot knish or a basket of fried cuchiflitos or a garlic-anchovy pizza, a tall, gray-haired garment worker stood up in the sand and, facing the general direction of Cuba, said to a friend:

ORATION

"So, so, what is it over there? A worker in Russia is a worker, he looks like a worker, he won't never be nothing else. Here you don't recognize he's a worker or a boss. Let them come here and see how we live. What if you're lazy sometime? It happens, no? So you take a week off and come lay on the beach. Who is to tell you no? If you don't like your boss you can spit in his eye. I'm a free person. What is better than to be free? I tell you every day I want to kiss the ground here."

A short distance away, four formidable women in big floppy hats played cards on a tiny table pressed against veiny knees, and one said, "nu, deal awready. I made it a rummy."

In Odessa, Mo., population 2,034, the afternoon began in the midday sun as the churches emptied — the women preening in their bright silk and organdy dresses and perky hats, the farmers stiff in their Sunday suits and ties, the children temporary in their scrubbed look.

Only the Twin Trophy Cafe and a few filling stations were open. Joe Wert's drug store, the two other pharmacies, the Odessa market, the garages and the feed store were closed. Commerce in this prototype of a western movie set was pretty well shuttered.

In the hour of the midday meal after church, time paused almost completely. Nobody moved along the maple and elm - lined streets, nobody but the boy in the sports car roaming restlessly.

SLOW STIRRING

Then, a slow stirring.

City Marshal Nat Martin went fishing for bullheads at the reservoir. "I can't see the bobber in the water for my stomach," he kidded. "I've caught everything from a beer can to a stump." Who was minding law and order? "Nothing much happens in Odessa on Sunday," he said.

Other fishermen showed up. Their wives sat under a nearby tree and visited. Sunday supper would be simple, a re-run of Sunday dinner — fried chicken, hot cinnamon rolls, sliced tomatoes, green beans. "It doesn't pay to cook much on Sundays," said Mrs. Clyde Copenhaver, wife of the butcher at the Odessa locker plant.

In the community building, where the women had brought heaps of hot dogs, barbecue beef, potato salad and soda pop, 55 members of the Hobbs family gathered for a reunion. The patriarch of the feast, Grandpa Newberry Hobbs, aged 74, told a visitor, "I've got six boys and each one has a sister."

"Tweive children in all?"

"Nope. Seven."

Grandpa's joke quickly made the rounds.

Most of the town's young people were swimming at nearby Lake Venita or gathered at the ice cream plant. In other towns, they gather at a coke joint or bowling alley or gin mill. In Odessa, it's still the ice cream plant.

STAYED HOME

Many other people stayed home watching the Kansas City Athletics on television.

But on the corner of Second and Orchard, the baseball was live, not second - hand. Mrs. Laverne Wood, in a blue house dress, was at bat in a game that had her three red - headed sons on the opposing team and other kids on her side. She belted a line drive and one son, the pitcher, caught flat - footed between loyalties, yelled, "Go, Mom, go." Her team led 39 to 24 but no one knew what inning it was.

The only untoward event of the day was Otto Begemann's heart attack. He had to be taken to a hospital. But on July 9, 1961, Odessa's population remained 2,034. Nobody was born. Nobody died.

Just west of Pittsburgh, Pa., a young couple carefully studied the model house of a development called "Hankey Farms." The man tapped the walls, the floors, the ceilings. His pregnant wife examined the sink, the stove, the closets. Their 17-month-old daughter pulled out a kitchen cabinet door and banged her head and cried.

Nobody knows how many children across the land cried that day from bumps, sand in their eyes, hot dogs in their stomachs or whacks on their bottoms. Nobody knows how many people were snarled in traffic and overheated their motors and their tempers. Or how many hit a golf ball or a tennis ball or a wife or fished or threw horseshoes or a tantrum or made bookcases or flower beds or love. Other things are recordable.

TRAIL'S END

In Fort Madison, Iowa, a man named Craig R. Shaeffer, board chairman of the pen company, turned a shot gun on himself in a sitting room of his mansion, and ill health was blamed. In the bleachers at a double-header in Wrigley Field, Chicago, a seminar developed among some hot, bare-chested fans about whatever happened to all the good Irish boxers, but nobody got mad, nobody got socked.

Out on Block Island in the Atlantic, the 28-piece band of the Palestine Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of Cranston, R. I., gave a concert in a chilling mist. They wore red fezzes and blue uniforms spiced with red and yellow. They bit a few sour notes, which were blamed on the damp air.

To the northeast, heavy mist hung over the white clapboard homes of Hyannis Port, Mass., grounding the athletic Kennedys. And in one house overlooking Nantucket Sound, the President of the United States studied a stack of documents about the Berlin crisis, and somehow it didn't seem like Sunday.

SAME MIST

The same mist that soured the Shriner's music on Block Island and tethered the Kennedys at Cape Cod kept the yacht fleets riding at anchor in Bar Harbor, Maine, and half-obscured the 50-room baronial mansions on the cliffs.

In a boathouse, a new superstructure was going up on "The Dragon Lady," a speedy reconverted British torpedo boat which Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York uses to whip around the harbor. Out in the bay, the Rockefeller brothers' blue sloop tugged gently at its mooring, patiently waiting for its owners to arrive on their summer vacations, which each year seem to get shorter.

On shore, many of the younger social set were recuperating from the first formal dance of the season at the Bar Harbor Club. It had been quite a blast.

The band had just closed with "Good Night Ladies" when an idea was born. Said young Charlotte Colke', a Campbell soup heiress, to young Suzanne Kent, an Atwater Kent heiress:

"Why don't you buy the band for an extra hour?"

"I can't," said Suzanne after a whispered conference with her brother, Atwater Kent III. "I'm already into Daddy for $100 and I'm absolutely broke."

So they borrowed a natty straw hat from a waiter and passed it and raised the $120 overtime rate for the band.

On the Sunday that followed, most of the young socialites rested. A few went hiking in the rain through the pines of Acadia National Park. So did Walter Lippman and his wife. Enroute, they stopped at the Jordan Pond House for some hot tea near the fire.

CONSCIENTIOUS

Mikoyan's Tongue Slips

Russia's second-in-command has plunged headlong into Japan's domestic and foreign politics by denouncing before the Japanese people the U.S.-Japan security treaty.

Anastas I. Mikoyan, supposedly on a visit to Japan to open a Soviet trade fair, could not pass up the opportunity to spread propaganda.

The particular security pact in question was a prominent feature at the time communist - inspired and financed demonstration in Japan at the time former President Eisenhower had to cancel his visit there.

Mikoyan did not stop with a mere mention of the pact. He brought with him a letter from Khrushchev denouncing the pact and maintaining it was the main obstacle to "normalization of soviet-Japanese relations."

The Japanese officials did not take Mikoyan's remarks sitting down. The ruling Liberal - Democratic party hastened to reply that Mikoyan's attacks on the treaty represented an "interference in Japan's domestic affairs."

Party leader Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda said the Russian's statements were contrary to the purpose of his visit which was to promote good will between the two countries by means of the Soviet trade fair.

Mikoyan's tactics were seen by many as a positive effort on the part of the Soviet Union to woo Japan away from the United States, Fortunately, the Japanese officials had the necessary timing to throw the Russian into a spin.

Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka told Khrushchev's number two man the Japanese people still held bad memories about the Soviet Union from World War II. He explained that Japan had appealed to Russia before the end of the war—also before the two atomic bombs had fallen on Japanese cities—to act as mediator.

"Instead the Soviet Union violated its nonaggression pact with Japan and attacked us," Sato said. "Why did you do this?"

At this point, Mikoyan made a statement which every western nation should digest thoroughly. He told the Japanese officials that Japan intervened during the Bolshevik Revolution 43 years ago and that Japanese soldiers had crossed the border into Siberia.

To Mikoyan, who like Khrushchev and Lenin and Stalin before him, is a strict disciple of the communist faith, the opposition by Japan during the birth of the Soviet revolution represented a sin.

No matter what circumstances may have been before or since, no matter how much Russia would like to run a successful trade fair in Tokyo, the Soviet Union is not about to forget those circumstances.

Neither will the Soviets forget the United States aid to the White Russian revolt against the Bolsheviks and our standing as a capitalist nation. And they will hold that feeling in spite of the life-saving aid which poured out of the United States into Russia from 1933 until the close of World War II.

The slip of the tongue made by Mikoyan at Tokyo deserves our most careful attention. It is the true attitude of all communists towards any person or nation which opposes any phase of their world revolution.

Safety On The Farm

While highway accidents hold a deplorable lead in the number of accidental deaths in the United States, fatalities resulting from farm machinery are on the increase.

A survey of the causes of 105 farm injuries and a comparison of the farms on which they occurred with 125 farms with an accident - free record appeared in the current issue of the Archives of Environmental Health, published by the American Medical Association.

Machines were associated with more than half the injuries, the authors reported, and in 79 per cent of the cases the accident occurred while the victim was engaged in routine farm work. The mishap occurred in the barn or barnyard in more than half the cases, they said.

In 22 injuries judged preventable by the use of a safety device, they said, there was no safety device on the machine or the existing safety device was not in use.

Weather appeared to have little effect on the incidence of injuries, the investigators found. Skies were sunny in 87.5 per cent of the cases, they said.

On the other hand, the report pointed out:

"The time of day would seem to have a definite relationship to the occurrence of farm injuries. Seventy-five per cent occurred after 3 p.m. These findings suggest that fatigue plays an important role.

Courses in farm safety had been taken by 38 per cent of the victims or members of their immediate family and 47 per cent of the victims had sustained previous farm injuries, the group reported.

One fourth of the injured persons admitted they were in a hurry at the time of the accident, they said.

Children are often involved in farm accidents because they are allowed to take part in activities too complex for their physical and mental capacities, such as operating a tractor, and are allowed to play in the vicinity of running machines, the author's commented.

The researchers discovered no "startling differences" between the farms on which accidents occurred and accident - free neighboring farms.

"Thus, it would seem to us that the human elements of fatigue, hurriedness, and carelessness were the chief factors in the ultimate causation of those accidents reviewed in this survey," they concluded.

"The higher past history of accidents on 'accident farms' as compared with controls point to character habits of the individuals as playing a determining role in the frequency of injury, but means were not found to identify the traits themselves."

Discussing approaches to prevention, the researchers said:

"Most important would be to instill a genuine respect for the farm machine and the animal and their potential danger. A pride in achievement of accidental control must be stimulated in farming groups, just as pride in safety programs has been important in industry.

"Next would be the establishment of self-discipline for slowing the pace and for taking regular rest periods. It is quite possible that increased output rather than decreased output might result.

"Third, would be the prohibition of children from the use of farm machines and keeping them away from the machine when it is in operation. Tractors and other machinery should be operated only by licensed operators.

"Fourth, would be the actual use of all safety devices and the development of new ones."

Draft Call

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Since the crisis has developed over Berlin and thousands of our young men are being called into active service, it appears to me that our leaders in Washington have once again overlooked one very important item.

Many of the young men being called into active service are married and have been able to buy a home and set up housekeeping. Of course, everyone is willing to make the necessary sacrifices in order to insure the safety of our nation.

Many of these young men going into service are leaving a wife and many obligations behind. I want to ask our leaders in Congress how a wife, on $100.00 per month allotment, is going to keep up the payments on a new home and the other obligations that so many of these young couples have incurred.

It seems ridiculous that our national government will send billions to foreign countries in the form of aid, when in some cases, such as Poland and Yugolsavia, this aid is going into communist countries. Our government can give away millions and millions of American dollars but conveniently overlooks adequate assistance to those who are called into service, making it possible for them to keep homes and furniture.

There must be thousands of young men who are married and have purchased homes and now find themselves faced with a draft call. They are willing to serve, but at the same time, they are forced to lose their homes and furniture, looking at a total pay, including wife's allotment, of about $150.00 per month. I can only wonder how they feel, knowing that our government is willing to pour millions into foreign countries but refusing to assist them in keeping their homes while they are in the service of their country. How about it Mr. Senator and Mr. Congressmen? Where do you stand on this problem which will touch the homes of thousands within the next few months.

Is Berlin Untenable?

Monroe, La

To the Editor:

There being a great deal of common sense and fight left in the American people the Pinkoes in the State Department and the fellow traveling liberals are having a tough time getting Berlin delivered to Khrushchev, and he is getting downright impatient, Khrushchev I mean.

Mansfield's suggestion for a free city won a quick second from Humphrey but not from the public.

Fullbright's suggestion that we seal off the borders and keep East Germans out of West Berlin in return for a promise from the commies not to molest us further apparently laid an egg too. But you never can tell because their ways are devious indeed and very hard for we simple people to follow.

Now we have the really big push in the news about how dangerous it is becoming for the refugees to continue to flow from East to West. If this continues the commies will clamp on an air tight restriction on travel to the West, East Germans will revolt, Russia will help put down the uprising, as indeed she must, West Germans might go to the aid of trapped fellow Germans, and indeed they might, immediately we are facing nuclear war. Any day now we can expect to be asked whether Berlin is really worth risking the lives of untold millions for. We will be told again that Berlin is militarily untenable anyway, and much more. We held still for the loss of China, North Korea, North Vietnam, Laos, Cuba and on and on. Can you really blame Khrushchev for feeling we will hold still for the loss of Berlin.

To the Editor:

I am twenty years old and my friend is 18. We are writing you concerning the Catahoula Lake controversy. My friend and I have hunted and fished this area for many years and no person loves the outdoors more than we do. What we are trying to do is bring out the true facts on the location of the locks and dam south of Jonesville.

The location of the locks and dam south of Jonesville would be located at mile 25 (25 mi. above Black River mouth) or approximately 15 miles south of Jonesville on Black River. The mean sea level here is 34 feet and at Catahoula Lake the MSL is 27 feet. This would put approximately a minimum of 7 feet on Catahoula Lake at 34 MSL. The northern location of the locks and dam would be only 14 miles south of its present location, thus there would be no change in the lake and it will continue to dry up every year. The government would be spending millions of dollars for nothing.

The location of the dam south of Jonesville would give this area unlimited opportunities. This area is not a wealthy area and we have to worry about our economy, and take advantage of opportunities. This location would increase water for sport and commercial fishing, increase interest in boating and recreation, and most important will create a new attraction for industry. This will mean enhancement of water transportation in and around Jonesville and new industry for the surrounding parishes. Why are sportsmen making plans to dam the narrows of Old River in Point Coupee Parish to raise the water level four feet? Why did they put a dam on Larto Lake here in Catahoula Parish? Why, to help retain the fish in these bodies of water, thus enhance sport fishing. Did you know that about two months out of every year Catahoula Lake is dry? Is this helping to conserve the fish? No, many fish are being killed every year because this lake runs dry. This is exactly what the northern location would do.

The main opposition to this location is the La. Wildlife Federation and the Federal Gov. The chief of migratory waterfowl refuges said in the late 1940's, We (refuge division) are going to take over Catahoula Lake and put a perimeter all around it and duck shooting will be done with a camera only." The Federal Gov. recently acquired 5,300 acres on Catahoula Lake for wildlife refuge and plan to acquire some 1,-:00 acres more for the same purpose. The only thing Catahoula Lake will be used for then is a place to feed ducks and geese for a few select hunters on the Gulf Coast and Middle western states. For informational purposes, no ducks breed or winter on the lake, but only stop to feed on their way to the coast. Many will have to move off the land they have lived on for years because of this new refuge. Since when did the Federal Gov. place goose welfare above human welfare.

This has gotten to be a question of ducks vs. people. Which is more important to you, ducks or the economy of the people of this state?

Communists Can Win

To The Editor:

Dallas, Texas

We are in a war which the Communists can win without changing their tactics. We cannot win without changing ours.

We must plan affirmatively and constructively to win, but in doing so should recognize some mistakes of the past and determine who was responsible for them, so that they or the same school of thought will not make the same mistakes for us again.

We must decide how and why East Germany, China, Cuba and certain other countries were lost and whose planning lost each of them for us. The answers may be depressing, discouraging and even shocking, but must be had. With the answers at hand, public opinion can yet save us before more countries are lost in the same way.

Plum St. Underpass

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I am wondering if we will ever get the Plum St. underpass finished. This street crossing has been closed 6 months. The MOP RR completed the construction of the bridge 3 months ago.

Just what is the hold back with the contractor that there is no more effort being made to complete this underpass. I admit we have been having some rain in the last few months, but that is no reason why the water could not be pumped out and some progress made on this job. If it is too wet to work on the west side it is not on the east side.

It will not be but a very short time before they will close the So. 2nd. St. crossing completely as they are working some on it now. It will be very bad on us that are living on the east side of the MOP RR, if they do not finish this job.

I think something should be done to get more work going on this underpass as we only have a few more months until the winter weather hits, and if they cannot work now what will they do then.

Newburgh Case

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

And now, the darling of the right wing, Senator Goldwater writes of the famous Newburgh, N. Y. case. The Senator was quick to jump into this fray, for here was an excellent chance to fill the air with platitudes about "men who won't work" The last report was one man, and they still weren't sure that he was in that category) "Don't want my taxes supporting illegitimate children" (a previous article of the Senator's dealt at great length about "Are you your brother's keeper?" One can hardly say the Senator was in that category if he is not willing to help innocent children.)

Whatever the outcome of the Newburgh case, it can never compare with the actions last year of the Louisiana legislature which cut 22,500 children off the welfare roles with such sanctimonious statements as "We will not allow tax money to be used for such immoral purposes." (It isn't exactly moral to punish children for the sins of their parents.) At the same time there was an effort to raise monthly expenses 160 per cent—from $150 to $400, "in order that the legislators would not be called upon to make any sacrifices in the performance of their duties!"

To The Editor:

Mr. White, if everyone in the United States were as naive as you, we would be in a worse shape than we are. You seem to see no wrong in socialism or communism or its supporters. Please don't get me wrong, you are entitled to your opinion. But we are fighting for the life of freedom and Christianity and you are trying your best to finish the job Roosevelt started. Every true American should take you and the few others like you as an example.

Mr. White, you and the others go around writing letters, making phone calls, and talking to people, in an effort to destroy any and every force which opposes socialism or communism. You wield a great deal of power. If the average citizen would do as much to further his beliefs, you would be merely butting your head against a stone wall.

I have noticed that you are a vigorous opponent of the late Senator Joe McCarthy. Is it because McCarthy tried to fight Communism? — May I recommend for your reading pleasure "McCarthy and His Enemies."

Old Mansions

Downsville, La.

To the Editor:

Your article in the World concerning Mike John's statement about the million dollar mansion is almost laughable. Anyone who has ever been in the present governor's mansion knows that it is only an old house that was once considered quite nice but is now far out-dated. We know about what similar old mansions in Monroe brought when they were sold. They would be lucky to sell it at $25,000, instead of $500,000. Take out the chandeliers and what have you?

We need a new governor's mansion, but why a million dollar one? Look around you and price houses. There are few in Monroe valued at more than a hundred thousand. A million dollars is a lot of money, especially when it is the people's money that is being spent. Then there will be furniture to buy.

Why is it that an amendment has to be voted on in order to spend a few thousand dollars here and there, but for a million dollar governor's mansion that concerns the entire state, a few congressmen settle it? If this were to be put to the people it would get very few votes.

Story Of Squeeky

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

Your newspaper is to be commended on the publication of the story of Squeeky, my sparrow. Not because it is my bird, and consequently my story, but because that in spite of the extreme pressure of so much essential news at this time, you still had the time for the little things that help to make a real newspaper.

To me it is a part of what makes "us" Americans and America the greatest nation — there is not another nation like us. Would Eichmann ever have raised a sparrow — or the German press dared to report it? They were far too busy committing the Jews to the gas chambers. Or would Castro or his press ever had the time for such a thing? They have not time for any flying thing smaller than a commercial jetliner.

And Mr. Otis Hassell had the time to come by, to take pictures, and to write a story — when he already has a full day's work with the regular phases of his business as an employee of your newspaper.

Thank you sincerely. I hope it reminds the readers of your newspaper that our great nation is made up of individuals — compassionate, conscientious individuals who, though acutely aware of the seriousness of the real news, still have the time to remember the small things that make our American way of life.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER
U. S. Senator

United States Commissioner of Education, Sterling McMurrin, speaking to the Harvard summer school on education administration made a statement which, to my mind, reveals the hidden desire of the New Frontier to bring the education of our children under the control of the federal government.

Advocates of federal aid to education angrily deny they seek dictatorial powers. In my opinion, federal control is explicit and implicit in every suggested federal aid bill we have considered. Mr. McMurrin has confirmed my suspicions.

At Harvard this spokesman for federal aid to education said: "Educational goals conceived only in terms of the individual welfare are no longer sufficient to insure the preservation of democracy in an age when continuing political, social and cultural crises place the nation in deadly peril."

Parents and local school boards of this nation just don't understand what the children of the country should be taught. Education must no longer be geared to the student's individual welfare. A central theme must be developed and the federal government is the only body capable of accomplishing this desired end.

"Educational goals conceived only in terms of the individual welfare are no longer sufficient," says Mr. McMurrin. Is this not a demand for collectivization?

The individual through personal development of whatever talents he possesses has made this country what it is today. Individuals produce progress, not the federal government. Individuals establish morality, not the federal laws. Individuals select the national goals and aspirations, not the Congress. Individuals exhibit love and compassion, not the corporate state.

It is the Communists who maintain the validity of the corporate or collective goal for the people who love under their domination. But the collectivists have failed miserably to achieve even the minimum of material well being for their subjects, and certainly there is no spiritual satisfaction for those who live under Communist doctrine.

Here in the United States of America on one-sixth of the world's real estate, a small fraction of the world's population, operating in a climate of individual freedom, have created more material wealth than the rest of the world combined.

Here we have stamped out starvation, something no totalitarian state has been able to accomplish. Our citizens, under what McMurrin now discards as the old-fashioned concept of individual determination, have enjoyed greater educational opportunities than have been available to any other children in the world.

On what valid ground can the U. S. Commissioner of Education argue that the preservation of democracy depends upon the abandonment of our historic educational concept?

How can he suggest that we must now forget the welfare of the individual and direct our concern to the collective?

The lodestar of this republic—the guiding light of our society—has been the notion that man must be free to reach out for his own destiny. Free men as responsible individuals created this republic and have perpetuated it for our benefit.

I am confident Mr. McMurrin is no Communist, but I think he advocates this central control because, like so many social reformers, he has accepted central dictation as the only acceptable solution to the problems of the 20th century.

I would remind Mr. McMurrin, and all who believe in centralized control, that in modern times tyranny has commenced with regimentation in the classroom, with the removal of individual determination and with the substitution of mass or collectivist objectives.

How do you stand, sir?

Mikoyan's Tongue Slips

Russia's second-in-command has plunged headlong into Japan's domestic and foreign politics by denouncing before the Japanese people the U.S.-Japan security treaty.

Anastas I. Mikoyan, supposedly on a visit to Japan to open a Soviet trade fair, could not pass up the opportunity to spread propaganda.

The particular security pact in question was a prominent feature at the time communist - inspired and financed demonstration in Japan at the time former President Eisenhower had to cancel his visit there.

Mikoyan did not stop with a mere mention of the pact. He brought with him a letter from Khrushchev denouncing the pact and maintaining it was the main obstacle to "normalization of soviet-Japanese relations."

The Japanese officials did not take Mikoyan's remarks sitting down. The ruling Liberal - Democratic party hastened to reply that Mikoyan's attacks on the treaty represented an "interference in Japan's domestic affairs."

Party leader Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda said the Russian's statements were contrary to the purpose of his visit which was to promote good will between the two countries by means of the Soviet trade fair.

This will mean enhancement of water transportation in and around Jonesville and new industry for the surrounding parishes. Why are sportsmen making plans to dam the narrows of Old River in Point Coupee Parish to raise the water level four feet? Why did they put a dam on Larto Lake here in Catahoula Parish? Why, to help retain the fish in these bodies of water, thus enhance sport fishing. Did you know that about two months out of every year Catahoula Lake is dry? Is this helping to conserve the fish? No, many fish are being killed every year because this lake runs dry. This is exactly what the northern location would do.

The main opposition to this location is the La. Wildlife Federation and the Federal Gov. The chief of migratory waterfowl refuges said in the late 1940's, We (refuge division) are going to take over Catahoula Lake and put a perimeter all around it and duck shooting will be done with a camera only." The Federal Gov. recently acquired 5,300 acres on Catahoula Lake for wildlife refuge and plan to acquire some 1,400 acres more for the same purpose. The only thing Catahoula Lake will be used for then is a place to feed ducks and geese for a few select hunters on the Gulf Coast and Middle western states. For informational purposes, no ducks breed or winter on the lake, but only stop to feed on their way to the coast. Many will have to move off the land they have lived on for years because of this new refuge. Since when did the Federal Gov. place goose welfare above human welfare.

This has gotten to be a question of ducks vs. people. Which is more important to you, ducks or the economy of the people of this state?

Communists Can Win

To The Editor:

Dallas, Texas

We are in a war which the Communists can win without changing their tactics. We cannot win without changing ours.

We must plan affirmatively and constructively to win, but in doing so should recognize some mistakes of the past and determine who was responsible for them, so that they or the same school of thought will not make the same mistakes for us again.

We must decide how and why East Germany, China, Cuba and certain other countries were lost and whose planning lost each of them for us. The answers may be depressing, discouraging and even shocking, but must be had. With the answers at hand, public opinion can yet save us before more countries are lost in the same way.

Plum St. Underpass

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I am wondering if we will ever get the Plum St. underpass finished. This street crossing has been closed 6 months. The MOP RR completed the construction of the bridge 3 months ago.

Just what is the hold back with the contractor that there is no more effort being made to complete this underpass. I admit we have been having some rain in the last few months, but that is no reason why the water could not be pumped out and some progress made on this job. If it is too wet to work on the west side it is not on the east side.

It will not be but a very short time before they will close the So. 2nd. St. crossing completely as they are working some on it now. It will be very bad on us that are living on the east side of the MOP RR, if they do not finish this job.

I think something should be done to get more work going on this underpass as we only have a few more months until the winter weather hits, and if they cannot work now what will they do then.

Newburgh Case

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

And now, the darling of the right wing, Senator Goldwater writes of the famous Newburgh, N. Y. case. The Senator was quick to jump into this fray, for here was an excellent chance to fill the air with platitudes about "men who won't work" The last report was one man, and they still weren't sure that he was in that category) "Don't want my taxes supporting illegitimate children" (a previous article of the Senator's dealt at great length about "Are you your brother's keeper?" One can hardly say the Senator was in that category if he is not willing to help innocent children.)

Whatever the outcome of the Newburgh case, it can never compare with the actions last year of the Louisiana legislature which cut 22,500 children off the welfare roles with such sanctimonious statements as "We will not allow tax money to be used for such immoral purposes." (It isn't exactly moral to punish children for the sins of their parents.) At the same time there was an effort to raise monthly expenses 160 per cent—from $150 to $400, "in order that the legislators would not be called upon to make any sacrifices in the performance of their duties!"

In Reply To R. C.

(The following is in reply to Mr. R. C. White's letters appearing previously in the Public Forum.)

Winnsboro, La.

To The Editor:

Mr. White, if everyone in the United States were as naive as you, we would be in a worse shape than we are. You seem to see no wrong in socialism or communism or its supporters. Please don't get me wrong, you are entitled to your opinion. But we are fighting for the life of freedom and Christianity and you are trying your best to finish the job Roosevelt started. Every true American should take you and the few others like you as an example.

Mr. White, you and the others go around writing letters, making phone calls, and talking to people, in an effort to destroy any and every force which opposes socialism or communism. You wield a great deal of power. If the average citizen would do as much to further his beliefs, you would be merely butting your head against a stone wall.

I have noticed that you are a vigorous opponent of the late Senator Joe McCarthy. Is it because McCarthy tried to fight Communism? — May I recommend for your reading pleasure "McCarthy and His Enemies."

JAMES HENRY MERRILL

Old Mansions

Downsville, La.

To the Editor:

Your article in the World concerning Mike John's statement about the million dollar mansion is almost laughable. Anyone who has ever been in the present governor's mansion knows that it is only an old house that was once considered quite nice but is now far out-dated. We know about what similar old mansions in Monroe brought when they were sold. They would be lucky to sell it at $25,000, instead of $500,000. Take out the chandeliers and what have you?

We need a new governor's mansion, but why a million dollar one? Look around you and price houses. There are few in Monroe valued at more than a hundred thousand. A million dollars is a lot of money, especially when it is the people's money that is being spent. Then there will be furniture to buy.

Why is it that an amendment has to be voted on in order to spend a few thousand dollars here and there, but for a million dollar governor's mansion that concerns the entire state, a few congressmen settle it? If this were to be put to the people it would get very few votes.

Story Of Squeeky

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

Your newspaper is to be commended on the publication of the story of Squeeky, my sparrow. Not because it is my bird, and consequently my story, but because that in spite of the extreme pressure of so much essential news at this time, you still had the time for the little things that help to make a real newspaper.

To me it is a part of what makes "us" Americans and America the greatest nation — there is not another nation like us. Would Eichmann ever have raised a sparrow — or the German press dared to report it? They were far too busy committing the Jews to the gas chambers. Or would Castro or his press ever had the time for such a thing? They have not time for any flying thing smaller than a commercial jetliner.

And Mr. Otis Hassell had the time to come by, to take pictures, and to write a story — when he already has a full day's work with the regular phases of his business as an employee of your newspaper.

Thank you sincerely. I hope it reminds the readers of your newspaper that our great nation is made up of individuals — compassionate, conscientious individuals who, though acutely aware of the seriousness of the real news, still have the time to remember the small things that make our American way of life.

MRS. WILLIAM R. BAKER

Squeeky has inspected each stroke of this typewriter on this letter from my shoulder and gives his wholehearted endorsement.

By BARRY GOLDWATER
U. S. Senator

United States Commissioner of Education, Sterling McMurrin, speaking to the Harvard summer school on education administration made a statement which, to my mind, reveals the hidden desire of the New Frontier to bring the education of our children under the control of the federal government.

Advocates of federal aid to education angrily deny they seek dictatorial powers. In my opinion, federal control is explicit and implicit in every suggested federal aid bill we have considered. Mr. McMurrin has confirmed my suspicions.

At Harvard this spokesman for federal aid to education said: "Educational goals conceived only in terms of the individual welfare are no longer sufficient to insure the preservation of democracy in an age when continuing political, social and cultural crises place the nation in deadly peril."

Parents and local school boards of this nation just don't understand what the children of the country should be taught. Education must no longer be geared to the student's individual welfare. A central theme must be developed and the federal government is the only body capable of accomplishing this desired end.

"Educational goals conceived only in terms of the individual welfare are no longer sufficient," says Mr. McMurrin. Is this not a demand for collectivization?

The individual through personal development of whatever talents he possesses has made this country what it is today. Individuals produce progress, not the federal government. Individuals establish morality, not the federal laws. Individuals select the national goals and aspirations, not the Congress. Individuals exhibit love and compassion, not the corporate state.

It is the Communists who maintain the validity of the corporate or collective goal for the people who love under their domination. But the collectivists have failed miserably to achieve even the minimum of material well being for their subjects, and certainly there is no spiritual satisfaction for those who live under Communist doctrine.

Here in the United States of America on one-sixth of the world's real estate, a small fraction of the world's population, operating in a climate of individual freedom, have created more material wealth than the rest of the world combined.

Here we have stamped out starvation, something no totalitarian state has been able to accomplish. Our citizens, under what McMurrin now discards as the old-fashioned concept of individual determination, have enjoyed greater educational opportunities than have been available to any other children in the world.

On what valid ground can the U. S. Commissioner of Education argue that the preservation of democracy depends upon the abandonment of our historic educational concept?

How can he suggest that we must now forget the welfare of the individual and direct our concern to the collective?

The lodestar of this republic—the guiding light of our society—has been the notion that man must be free to reach out for his own destiny. Free men as responsible individuals created this republic and have perpetuated it for our benefit.

I am confident Mr. McMurrin is no Communist, but I think he advocates this central control because, like so many social reformers, he has accepted central dictation as the only acceptable solution to the problems of the 20th century.

I would remind Mr. McMurrin, and all who believe in centralized control, that in modern times tyranny has commenced with regimentation in the classroom, with the removal of individual determination and with the substitution of mass or collectivist objectives.

How do you stand, sir?

SUPER-GRADE RESISTANCE —President Kennedy's request for 801 additional super - grade and Public law 313 jobs has run into unexpected resistance in Congress. The President asked for 598 additional super - grade jobs paying $15,255 to $18,500 per year and for 203 more Public Law 313 jobs paying up to $19,000 per year. Eventually Congress is expected to shave down the number of high - salaried jobs and then pass legislation. Total requests of President for creation of new Federal jobs in all grades amount to 4,000. Congress will cut the recommendations back drastically.

NIXON AND 62 — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has made and reiterated a statement that he will not seek the Governorship in California next year. STATION BREAK Cliff Mills, standing and Jeff Berman at mike gladly spend summers helping to run radio station teen-agers built.

YOUNG MODERNS

Teen-Agers Build And Run Station

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—The way to learn how to run a radio station is to build one.

"It's the only way to get practical experience, working in an enterprise from the ground up," says 17-year-old Mike Fast of Bridgeport. Mike is chief engineer of station WPPT here, which he and three other teen-age boys built themselves.

The boys studied local stations and made theirs "into something that resembled the others put together," Mike says. Materials costing about $1,000 included program amplifiers, turn tables, speakers, tape machines.

The quartet built much of the equipment last winter. But much technical know-how was supplied later by Cliff Mills, 18, and Dennis Jackson, 14.

Gordon Joseloff, 17, became news director, Jeff Berman, 17, salesman, and Stuart Soroko, 18, had a hand in all departments.

LOW POWER

"We took a flyer at this a year ago, but the FCC ordered us to stop broadcasting because we were unauthorized," Mike says. "We got permission this year to have a low power transmitter as long as we kept within the legal limit of under 100 milliwatts."

They decided to concentrate on reaching the greatest number of people in the smallest area—Compo Beach. A transmitter went into the lifeguard's house. Another was set up on the second floor window of the YMCA in town to reach their sponsors, the merchants.

Jeff took a special selling course, charging the merchants $46 for the season. Their sponsors included 14 season customers, 20 for half-season, some for a few weeks. Merchandise, printed stationary, a clock from a hardware store, curtains from a drygoods store, tickets to the theater also were taken in trade.

"We really needed the money. Telephone wires run to the beach, so our telephone bill is terrific. Half our earnings will go to pay it," Mike explains.

SHORT ON TALK

The boys learned radio appeal, which was particularly useful to Gordon, Jeff and Stuart who want to be announcers.

"We did surveys on the beach and discovered that people don't want a lot of talking—long interviews, lengthy newscasts and weather forecasts. They like music, so we cut down on everything else and gave them plenty of music," Mike explains.

The boys regret giving up their station to return to school. They will be better equipped, however, when they resume next summer. Cliff will attend Norwalk Technical School and Mike will study electrical engineering at Tri-State College. He has already worked as announcer and part-time engineer at two radio stations in the neighborhood.

AN HONOR BUT. . .

The short-term project, for the purpose of providing literacy courses for the villagers, would not interfere with school. The hitch is the $3,000 cost of their transportation.

Reflections Flow From Music Artist

The noted conductor of symphonic and opera music has made this a book of reflections on his art, a companion volume to the reminiscences that were in his autobiography.

Musicians, both professional and amateur, are the principal audience for this sort of book.

LISTENERS

Many music listeners also will be able to keep up with his frequent references to certain passages in the musical repertory. And even the mildly interested concert listener can get something from his thoughts on the nature of music and its re-creation from the composer's intent.

Walter ranges himself on the side of those who believe that conducting need not be the sole province of the dictatorial egotistical or exhibitionist conductor. He is more of an educator, preferring to draw out the musicians of the orchestra.

He also shows that his heart is not in the overwhelming dissonances of a great deal of modern music, nor in the atonalities which he considers as non-music.

METHOD

His method in this book is to let us sit in on his coaching of young prospective conductors, as he discusses the delicate nuances of musical methods and meanings. He elaborates on the many distinctions between symphonic and opera conducting, and gives us the feeling that we are backstage in the performers' world.

The translator must have had a struggle with the cloudy Germanic verbiage in which this was written, and the reader may have a little rough going, but Walter's exuberance over great music shines through its pages.

Howl Of Male-Mute Is View Of Unalakeet

The author and her husband, an artist, spent a winter at Unalakleet on the Bering Sea, making a documentary movie on the life of a sled dog in an Alaskan village.

The hero of this book is a malemute named Seegoo (it is an Eskimo word meaning ice), who had sired a litter of photogenic pups. Seegoo was a very affectionate pet, but no great shakes as a working dog until he'd had some experience.

Mrs. Machentanz has recorded a good many interesting things about the natives and their customs, and the Eskimo children are the most engaging of her characters. Her writing style leaves something to be desired, but she manages to get her narrative across.

Skater Places Career On Ice, Captures Titles

TORONTO (AP) — Because her father taught Frances Dafoe that "sport is for sport's sake," the former figure skating champion has put her career on ice, and kept it there.

With her partner Morris Bowden she won four Canadian titles, and placed fourth in the Olympics in 1952.

Not choosing to turn professional, Miss Dafoe retired in 1956, and has seldom been on the ice since. Four years ago she married lawyer Norman Melnick. Today she designs costumes for a television studio here.

Medieval Monument

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—High on the banks of the Hudson there is a monument to the Middle Ages, an era when patience was a supreme virtue. Now American patience has added to this monument a gem of the Middle Ages.

The scene is The Cloisters, the large museum of medieval art and architecture which is a branch of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Opened in 1938, its chief benefactor was the late John D. Rockefeller Jr.

DEFERRED

Rockefeller was a man who enjoyed collecting the treasures that went into The Cloisters, but he always deferred to the professional expert when it came to a final choice.

He would turn to James J. Rorimer, then curator of medieval art and now director of the Metropolitan itself, and say "The decision is yours."

While Rockefeller was abroad in 1935, a Paris dealer showed him a portfolio of photographs of a 12th Century Romanesque apse. The story goes that Rockefeller brought the photographs back to Rorimer and said:

"I'm just acting as your errand boy, but if you want the apse, we might be able to find the funds."

It proved there was a bigger problem than money. The task would be about as easy as for a Spaniard to acquire a house where George Washington slept. This specimen of architecture was all that remained of the Church of San Martin in the town of Fuentiduena, near Segovia in Spain. In 1931 the Spanish government had declared it a national monument, and the Roman Catholic Church still claimed jurisdiction over it.

ECHELONS

There were echelons and echelons of national and church officials to negotiate with, not to mention the several hundred citizens of Futentiduena. The villagers' parish church was the Church of San Miguel, but the ruins of San Martin still contained a cemetery that no one wanted to disturb.

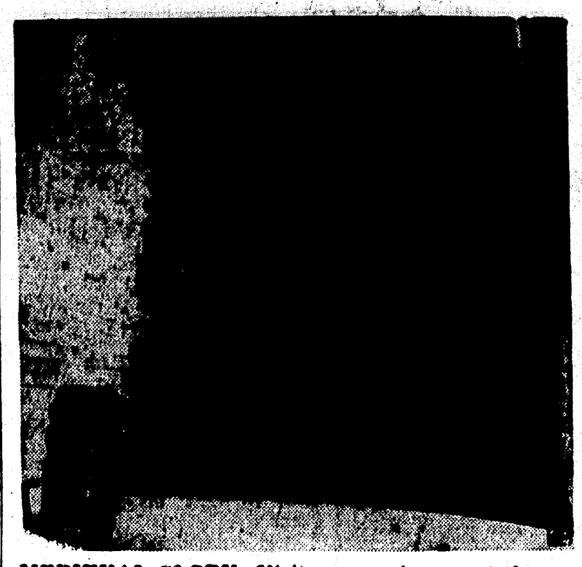

The talks went on for years, were interrupted by the Spanish Civil War, and then resumed in 1952. The final deal hinged on a legal fiction called an "exchange loan," which avoided the actual sale of a national monument.

Six Spanish frscoes which were on the market in New York were acquired and "loaned" to the Prado in Madrid. The Rockefellers contributed to the repair of the parish church and the cemetery.

The 3,300 golden limestone blocks of the apse were numbered as they were taken down. This huge jigsaw puzzle was shipped to The Cloisters in Fort Tryon Park in 1958 and the reconstruction began. Rockefeller did not live to see the completion, but he knew the main tasks were over.

This summer the apse was opened to the public as a wing of the museum. Nearly three stories high, one of its main attractions is the variety of Romanesque sculptures on its columns, cornices and arches. A Spanish mural and a Spanish altar of the same period have been added.

It took years of patience to bring this project to fruition. You can imagine what consternation would arise if Spain should ever ask for the return of its "loan." But don't worry about it.

Orange Juice Stand Route To Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — Philip Matthews made it to the Broadway stage via an orange-juice stand.

With aspirations as an actor, Matthews appeared in one off-Broadway role several years ago. After stomach ulcers forced his retirement, he took a job selling intermission refreshments.

When a cast replacement was needed for "all the Way Home," the stage manager called Matthews in from the lobby and asked him if he would like to try out. After getting the part, Matthews said:

"Learning it was easy. I'm a quick study — and besides, I saw the show eight times a week while selling orange juice."

FOR NEW GENERATION

The Lindbergh Case Reviewed

KIDNAP — The Story of the Lindberg Case. By George Waller. Dial. $6.95.

Next March 1 will be the 30th anniversary of one of the crimes of the century. Twenty - months-old Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was stolen from his crib and killed. But the body was not found immediately and the kidnaper collected a ransom before he was caught. Because the father was an American hero the case shook the whole nation.

A whole generation, and more, has grown up since that crime, and only a fraction of the present population can remember the feverish excitement of the hunt for the killer, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a schizophrenic who finally was convicted of murder on evidence that had to be circumstantial.

SHOCK

Even to an elder generation it wil come as a shock to realize again how the case was bungled—the stupidity and jealousy of some of the investigating agencies; the pretenses and faking of embezzlers and publicity seekers who played on the national desire to be helpful; the political meddling of others; the circus atmosphere of the trial, and cranks and opportunists who cropped up on all sides.

The author gives strong emphasis to the crime - detecting skill of a wood expert, Arthur Koehler, whose analyses tied Hauptmann to a ladder that was found at the scene. But that was after the capture, which resulted from a tremendous watch for the passing ransom bills.

Waller also details a facet of the case that perhaps was not fully understood at the time. Dr. Dudley D. Shoenfeld, a psychiatrist, mainly through his study of a series of ransom notes, was able to forecast with remarkable insight the kind of man the police should look for, where to find him and how to handle him when he was caught.

AUTHOR

The author, a writer of radio scrips, a free lance and former magazine editor, has devoted five years to the writing of this book and has amassed a staggering amount of detail. He did not interview any of the principals, which might have been a help. He depended entirely on the millions and millions of words that appeared in the court records and journals of the time.

He has used the reporter's approach all through the book, with a minimum of comment. The cumulative effect is impressive. To the younger generation this will be a detective story of massive proportions, and to the elder generation a reminder of partially forgotten sensations of a past era. This big book will cause a lot of talk.

Bright Art From Middle Ages Revived

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Illuminated writing, the lifetime work of monks in the Middle Ages, is the hobby of a steel company executive who practices the art despite a hand wound suffered in World War I.

"It's just a gift, I guess," said Casson Butcher, a native of the town of Bottle on the Scotland-England border who makes his home in Chicago.

INTERESTED

"I was interested in the writing even as a kid. I went around the old castles until I got the alphabet of the Old English script, the big and small letters. I spent a lot of time around the old church cemeteries, too, studying the inscriptions on tombs of my ancestors."

Illumination in this use refers to the ornamentation and illustration of writing, particularly the initial letters. Butcher writes in an Old English script, using an ordinary pen dipped in water colors. Part of the illumination comes from interlacing of gold and silver ink. Butcher sometimes uses as many as 20 colors in a single page of writing.

WOUND

A shrapnel would suffered while fighting in France with the British Army in World War I immobilized Butcher's right hand, except for the thumb and index finger. He moves these two fingers only for his writing, but his pen never falters.

Butcher can write "The Lord's Prayer," using 11 colors, in 40 minutes. He writes with continuous strokes of a single pen, dipping the pen in water between colors.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A perfectly delightful book, for those who like to read about out of the way places is "The Road to Andorra," by Shirley Deane. This is an enchanting account of life in two of Europe's unspoiled outposts, told with tremendous vitality and with a zest for life. This is an account of her adventures in Andorra, a small republic high in the Pyrenees and of life on one of the Balearic islands (Ibiza to be exact).

Mrs. Dean writes charmingly and those who read her "Tomorrow is Manna," will surely want to read this on.

NEW NOVEL

A new novel which is certain to be read and discussed is "The Stars Abide," by Ramona Stewart. This is a novel which begins in the 1920's in the mining and cattle - ranching country of the Nevada Highlands. It spans two generations in the life of a family wedded, for better or for worse to the land itself. This is the story of Dan Hunt, a successful rancher, but unsuccessful husband, of his wife Kate and their two daughter's, Judy and Laurie. This is a book which you will not soon forget and which adds new stature to the western novel.

"The Black, the Gray and the Gold," by Norman R. Ford has it's setting at West Point and involves a scandal at the Military Academy. This book telescopes many days of many lives into the hour - by - hour suspense of the investigation and the ultimate decision. Ford is a master storyteller, and in a novel packed with love, passions, decisions, and loyalties that swing swiftly from honor to compromise, he unfolds a powerful drama.

Readers of science fiction will want "Time is the Simplest Thing," by Clifford D. Simak." This is an exciting story of man's search for knowledge of outer space and the dangers which it involves. John O'Hara, who has made his fame as a novelist has a new book, which is a collection of "Five Plays." They are modern in setting and tone and will appeal to his devoted public. An exciting true story is "The Gentleman was a Thief," by Neil Hickey. This is the story of Arthur Barry, known as the American raffles. His gem robberies in the 1920's kept the police, insurance companiers and jewel - owners, concerned, confused and baffled. It is an exciting story of a man who left his mark upon the social history of our time.

WESTERN

Readers of western stories should take note of Kingsley West's "A Time for Vengeance." It is well - written and exciting.

In a world where so many people are upset and nervous, the book "The Conquest of Tension," by Richard Hoffmann is most timely. The author points out that most of our worries are needless and that learning to live with them and control them is most important. A most important book in view of the present situation is "North of Slavery," by Leon F. Litwack. This book shows how the Negroes were treated in the northern states during the period when slavery was in force in the south.

A number of years ago Clarence Streit wrote a book, pleading for a union of the Atlantic countries. He has now written a sequal to it, which he calls "Freeom's Frontier, Atlantic Union now." This book is a stirring appeal for closer relations between our country and the other nations whom he says are our natural allies.

Children who are enrolled in the Civil War Centennial Reading club, are reminded that they have only two more weeks in which to finish their summer reading. Be sure to complete your reading and earn a button and certificate. A book which should be extremely popular with our public is "Walk and be Happy," by Benjamin Kauth, Pod. D. This is a guide to happy healthy feet. Personally, I cannot wait to read it and I am sure that many of you feel the same way.

PLANE CRASHES

Much has been written about the cause of airline crashes and many people have become frightened about air travel Robert J. Serling has written a book, titled "The Probable Cause; the Truth About Air Travel Today." Serling has given an account of some of the more spectacular crashes and has analyzed the factors involved; weather, maintenance, improper design, pilot error, mechanical failure and the most pressing problem today, our overcrowded skies. Here is a carefully researched, authoritative and highly readable book, which for the first time, gives the whole inside picture of commercial aviation today.

Amy Vanderbilt, who is an authority on the subject of etiquette has now entered the cookbook field. Her book is a large one called "Amy Vanderbilt's Complete Cookbook." It contains recipes for everything one could want and would be invaluable for a beginning cook. This would make an excellent present for a bride. Another useful title is "Better Homes and Gardens Sewing Book." This book gives easy, professional ways to simplify home sewing. It bears little resemblance to the old home economics textbooks, for it advocates short cuts and the use of modern devices. Everyone who is interested in sewing should see this book.

NEW BOOK

A perfectly beautiful new book is Ivan T. Sanderson's "The Continent We Live On." This is a discussion, with excellent illustrations of the North American continent and it's resources. This book will be valuable to travelers, students and all who like a lovely book.

Most of the summer activities are now over, but there are still two weeks before school opens. Why not resolve to read at least one book during this period? Your Ouachita Parish Public Library is willing and eager to serve you.

RED PROPAGANDA

Perlberg Sees Festival Folly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The United States is playing the Soviet propaganda game by taking part in the Moscow film festival, says producer William Perlberg, just back from Russia.

Perlberg spent almost three weeks in the Russian capital as one of America's official representatives at the festival. His blunt reaction: We're getting a bum deal.

"The whole festival is conducted to further the Soviet cause," he said. "Every single one of the entries from Russia or any of the Iron Curtain countries is loaded with propaganda. They're about the glories of the Russian soldiers or scientists or else they concern agrarian reform or some such cause.

PROPAGANDA

"Plus which the visitors to the festival are fed propaganda about the Communist system. The official program lists visits to factories and collective farms. Of course, they show you what they want you to see, not what you want to see.

"I think we're making a mistake to play the game strictly according to their rules. Either we should refuse to take part in the festival or else seek some means whereby we get a better break."

Perlberg admitted American mistakes helped contribute to our failure to make a twing at the festival. The principal error was selection of the U.S. entry, "Sunrise at Campobello." The majority of Russians in the audience walked out on it.

"I suppose the State Department thought the Russians would like the picture because it was about Franklin Roosevelt," Perlberg said. "But it was a mistake to pick such a wordy, actionless movie.

"A better selection would have been 'One-eyed Jacks,' which has plenty of action and beautiful American scenery. They would have understood it."

The producer added that Hollywood has generally failed to take advantage of selling its product via the international film festivals.

DISAGREES

"The wrong pictures are sent," he said. "They are chosen not by excellence but for business reasons. A picture that is entered at a festival can also play in that country, not as part of the film quota. So Eric Johnston's office picks a film that will get a good play in the country's theaters."

Perlberg offers another scheme: Let the nation's film critics select the 10 best American films each half-year by the same polling method for the top 10 football and basketball teams. Festival entries would be chosen off the top of the list.

"If we don't get some such method of putting our best films forward, Hollywood will continue to decline in prestige," he said.

Perlberg, a rugged capitalist who has produced such films as "Song of Bernadette," "Country Girl" and "Counterfeit Traitor," was unimpressed by his Moscow visit. Except for the festival hall, which was finished the day before the event started, the Russian theaters reminded him of nickelodeons.

Child Said Too Smart For School

LONDON (AP)—At the age of 5, Verina Greenway is too bright to go to school.

She speaks and reads English, French and Italian. She can spell and write as well as a normal 10-year-old child. Her arithmetic is as good as an 8 year old's.

But Verina is no bookworm.

She also swims, skates and plays the piano. And she's so good at dancing that she's won 23 prizes. Her mother, Mrs. Kerra Greenway, a professional dancing teacher, said in an interview that she believes a great many children could be as clever as her daughter.

The mother's rules for raising a bright child: "Have love in the home—and lots of it.

"Never ignore your child's questions. Answer them fully.

"Don't let grandma or a nurse bring up your child. Do it yourself."

Verina's mother knew her child was very smart and sent her to school at the age of 5.

After several months her teacher said, "She's a genius and she's too bright for regular school right now."

The teacher advised Mrs. Greenway to have an educational psychologist examine Verina and decide what sort of education she should have.

The mother and the child's father, a British doctor, agreed.

Soon, they are taking Verina for a two-month vacation in Italy.

"I shall work and go down to the beach every day," said Verina. "I think I shall also take up painting when I'm in Italy."

Curtain Call

"Teahouse of the August Moon" will be the first production of the Little Theatre this fall. Tryouts will be held at the Little Theatre on Thursday, August 31, at 7:30 p.m. It is a large cast show with numerous rolls for both men and women.

Oriental costumes of any description are needed for this production. If you have anything, such as a fan or kimono, please contact Judy Evans, FA 5-3200.

Friday night a board meeting of the Little Theatre was held at the Scherck Bogen home on Stubbs.

Mrs. Ray Magruder, president of the Little Theatre, moved into her new home in Town and Country. Her daughter, Joan, who has appeared frequently in Little Theatre productions, is home recuperating from an illness. She plans to go to Dallas to accept a position in the fall.

RETURNED

Mrs. Frances McHenry and Mary, her daughter, have returned from England and Scotland, where they frequented the theatre.

"Ross," the story of Lawrence of Arabia, "Oliver," a musical taken from the novel Oliver Twist, "The Irregular Verb To Love," "Bird of Time," "Bye Bye Birdie," and the London version of "My Fair Lady," were among the plays they saw.

'Little Nipper' Introduction To Nostalgia

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

According to archeologists digging in the dingy vaults beneath RCA Victor's bank of turn-tables down on 23rd Street in Manhattan, it's been 60 years since a fox terrier named "Little Nipper" first squatted on his hunkers before the morning glory horn of an old victrola.

After mining so exquisite a historical gem, the researchers failed to discover just which song first issued forth from "His Master's Voice," but it's safe to say that if it had been "Rock Around the Clock" or some such horror, the faithful hi-fi hound would have fled in terror and not remained at his post for six long decades.

DEDICATION

Little Nipper's singular dedication to the recording medium serves to introduce two new albums in RCA Victor's excellent series, "60 Years of the Music America Loves Best." One is from the Red Label classics collection, and the other from the blue label popular field, and both are Volume III in their respective fields.

None of the selections dates back 60 years, or anywhere close to Little Nipper's salad days, but almost all of them are collector's items carefully culled from old tapes and old master discs, and even more carefully engineered to remove the "sung-through-a-wet-sock" quality that seemed to inhibit early recording processes.

Brimming over with nostalgia, Volume III of the Red Label album is memorable mostly for conserving and, in some cases, reintroducing some of the musical titans of yesteryear who would otherwise not be heard again. The flashbacks to the golden age of concert and opera include Caruso singing "La Donne e Mobile," Horowitz playing "The Moonlight Sonata," Toscanini leading the NBC Orchestra through a brilliant "Dance of the Hours," and Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony in a magnificent performance of the waltz from Tchaikovsky's "Serenade for Strings."

Soviet Economy Weakness Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How do the United States and Soviet Russia stand comparatively in economic and military strength and weaknesses?

In the view of U.S. officials, Russia economically is still far weaker and is likely to remain so, if present trends continue, for the remainder of this century.

If there should be a war over West Berlin, Russia's economic base would be far narrower. It has fewer reserves — in terms of industrial capacity, manpower and raw materials.

Some officials here conclude that the U.S.S.R., if it has to rely on its own economic strength and that of its satellites, would be unable to fight a drawn-out war.

The Soviet economy, in the view of these officials, has only two strong points: The discipline, regimentation and frugality of its population, and comparative self-sufficiency in terms of raw materials.

WIDE DISPERSAL

This includes oil, an item the Soviet Union is commonly believed to be short of. It does not include rubber. However, Russia is believed to have rubber stockpiles, and civilian consumption is negligible.

In terms of war, the wide dispersal of Soviet industry might prove a factor of strength. By contrast, much of U.S. industry is concentrated in the triangle of Chicago-Baltimore - Boston and along the West Coast.

Main economic weaknesses of the Soviet Union, in the view of U.S experts, are its poor transportation system, its narrow industrial base, its low productivity and its crisis-prone agriculture.

Officials say the narrowness of the Soviet industrial base is indicated by production figures for such items as electric power, steel, coal, oil and cement. In all these fields, the Soviets work as hard as possible to produce as much as possible, yet their total production is far less than what the United States achieves without straining productive capacity. In fact, the United States has large surplus capacity in some of these fields.

Soviet industrial productivity, according to Russian sources cited by U.S. experts, is now about 41 per cent of the industrial productivity in the United States. This means Russia needs five workers to produce the same amount of industrial goods two American workers produce.

In agriculture, productivity per worker is less than 2 per cent of that in the United States.

U.S. STRONGER

As to military strength and weaknesses:

American officials say there is no doubt that total U.S. military power, without counting allies, is stronger than Russia's. The Soviet Union is superior in two respects: its standing army is about 10 times larger and it has more submarines. It also is believed to be slightly superior in terms of landbased ballistic missiles. But U.S. officials believe this is more than balanced by the five Polaris missile submarines the Navy already has commissioned. They carry a total of 80 missiles. Sister subs are being built."

The Soviet bomber force is believed to be of good quality but lacking in numbers. Intelligence sources estimate Moscow has only about 100 to 200 intercontinental bombers comparable to the American B52 and the B-58.

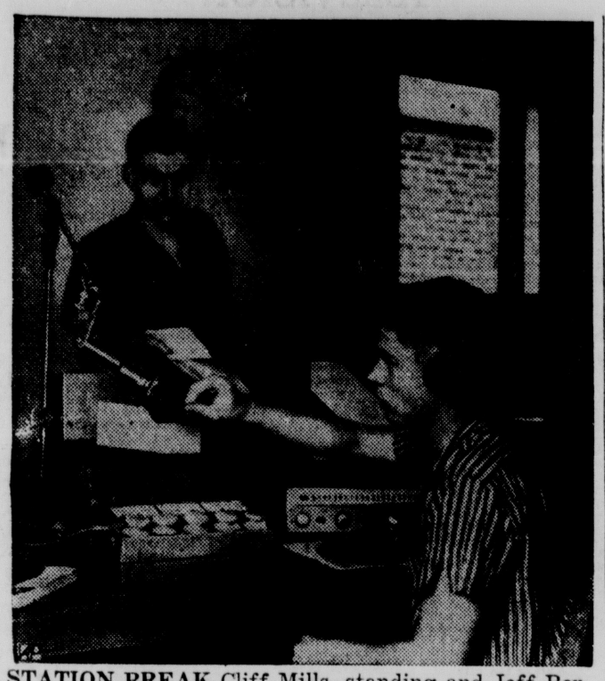

Soviet ground troops are regarded as well trained and well equipped. Military leaders are believed to be competent.

U.S. military experts believe Russia is in good shape to wage a nuclear blitzkrieg but would find it difficult to wage a drawn-out war. The reasons are largely the same as those cited under economic strength and weaknesses.

The large fleet of Soviet submarines — some experts estimate them at more than 500-undoubtedly could damage western shipping and shore establishments since some of them are armed with short-range rockets.

But the United States and some of its allies have good anti submarine killer units, both aerial and surface. It is believed they could dispose of many Soviet subs in a relatively short time and that the Russians might have difficulties in maintaining large sub fleets at sea.

As to scientific strength and weaknesses, the Soviet Union is believed to be more on a par with the United States. The American experts say Russia has scientists who are just as good as the best in the United States — But fewer of them.

YOUNG MODERNS

Teen-Agers Build And Run Station

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP)—The way to learn how to run a radio station is to build one.

"It's the only way to get practical experience, working in an enterprise from the ground up," says 17-year-old Mike Fast of Bridgeport. Mike is chief engineer of station WPPT here, which he and three other teen-age boys built themselves.

The boys studied local stations and made theirs "into something that resembled the others put together," Mike says. Materials costing about $1,000 included program amplifiers, turn tables, speakers, tape machines.

The quartet built much of the equipment last winter. But much technical know-how was supplied later by Cliff Mills, 18, and Dennis Jackson, 14.

Gordon Joseloff, 17, became news director, Jeff Berman, 17, salesman, and Stuart Soroko, 18, had a hand in all departments.

LOW POWER

"We took a flyer at this a year ago, but the FCC ordered us to stop broadcasting because we were unauthorized," Mike says. "We got permission this year to have a low power transmitter as long as we kept within the legal limit of under 100 milliwatts."

They decided to concentrate on reaching the greatest number of people in the smallest area—Compo Beach. A transmitter went into the lifeguard's house. Another was set up on the second floor window of the YMCA in town to reach their sponsors, the merchants.

Jeff took a special selling course, charging the merchants $46 for the season. Their sponsors included 14 season customers, 20 for half-season, some for a few weeks. Merchandise, printed stationary, a clock from a hardware store, curtains from a drygoods store, tickets to the theater also were taken in trade.

"We really needed the money. Telephone wires run to the beach, so our telephone bill is terrific. Half our earnings will go to pay it," Mike explains.

SHORT ON TALK

The boys learned radio appeal, which was particularly useful to Gordon, Jeff and Stuart who want to be announcers.

"We did surveys on the beach and discovered that people don't want a lot of talking—long interviews, lengthy newscasts and weather forecasts. They like music, so we cut down on everything else and gave them plenty of music," Mike explains.

The boys regret giving up their station to return to school. They will be better equipped, however, when they resume next summer. Cliff will attend Norwalk Technical School and Mike will study electrical engineering at Tri-State College. He has already worked as announcer and part-time engineer at two radio stations in the neighborhood.

AN HONOR BUT. . .

The short-term project, for the purpose of providing literacy courses for the villagers, would not interfere with school. The hitch is the $3,000 cost of their transportation.

Reflections Flow From Music Artist

The noted conductor of symphonic and opera music has made this a book of reflections on his art, a companion volume to the reminiscences that were in his autobiography.

Musicians, both professional and amateur, are the principal audience for this sort of book.

LISTENERS

Many music listeners also will be able to keep up with his frequent references to certain passages in the musical repertory. And even the mildly interested concert listener can get something from his thoughts on the nature of music and its re-creation from the composer's intent.

Walter ranges himself on the side of those who believe that conducting need not be the sole province of the dictatorial egotistical or exhibitionist conductor. He is more of an educator, preferring to draw out the musicians of the orchestra.

He also shows that his heart is not in the overwhelming dissonances of a great deal of modern music, nor in the atonalities which he considers as non-music.

METHOD

His method in this book is to let us sit in on his coaching of young prospective conductors, as he discusses the delicate nuances of musical methods and meanings. He elaborates on the many distinctions between symphonic and opera conducting, and gives us the feeling that we are backstage in the performers' world.

The translator must have had a struggle with the cloudy Germanic verbiage in which this was written, and the reader may have a little rough going, but Walter's exuberance over great music shines through its pages.

Skater Places Career On Ice, Captures Titles

TORONTO (AP) — Because her father taught Frances Dafoe that "sport is for sport's sake," the former figure skating champion has put her career on ice, and kept it there.

With her partner Morris Bowden she won four Canadian titles, and placed fourth in the Olympics in 1952.

Not choosing to turn professional, Miss Dafoe retired in 1956, and has seldom been on the ice since. Four years ago she married lawyer Norman Melnick. Today she designs costumes for a television studio here.

Medieval Monument

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—High on the banks of the Hudson there is a monument to the Middle Ages, an era when patience was a supreme virtue. Now American patience has added to this monument a gem of the Middle Ages.

The scene is The Cloisters, the large museum of medieval art and architecture which is a branch of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Opened in 1938, its chief benefactor was the late John D. Rockefeller Jr.

DEFERRED

Rockefeller was a man who enjoyed collecting the treasures that went into The Cloisters, but he always deferred to the professional expert when it came to a final choice.

He would turn to James J. Rorimer, then curator of medieval art and now director of the Metropolitan itself, and say "The decision is yours."

While Rockefeller was abroad in 1935, a Paris dealer showed him a portfolio of photographs of a 12th Century Romanesque apse. The story goes that Rockefeller brought the photographs back to Rorimer and said:

"I'm just acting as your errand boy, but if you want the apse, we might be able to find the funds."

It proved there was a bigger problem than money. The task would be about as easy as for a Spaniard to acquire a house where George Washington slept. This specimen of architecture was all that remained of the Church of San Martin in the town of Fuentiduena, near Segovia in Spain. In 1931 the Spanish government had declared it a national monument, and the Roman Catholic Church still claimed jurisdiction over it.

ECHELONS

There were echelons and echelons of national and church officials to negotiate with, not to mention the several hundred citizens of Futentiduena. The villagers' parish church was the Church of San Miguel, but the ruins of San Martin still contained a cemetery that no one wanted to disturb.

The talks went on for years, were interrupted by the Spanish Civil War, and then resumed in 1952. The final deal hinged on a legal fiction called an "exchange loan," which avoided the actual sale of a national monument.

Six Spanish frscoes which were on the market in New York were acquired and "loaned" to the Prado in Madrid. The Rockefellers contributed to the repair of the parish church and the cemetery.

The 3,300 golden limestone blocks of the apse were numbered as they were taken down. This huge jigsaw puzzle was shipped to The Cloisters in Fort Tryon Park in 1938 and the reconstruction began. Rockefeller did not live to see the completion, but he knew the main tasks were over.

This summer the apse was opened to the public as a wing of the museum. Nearly three stories high, one of its main attractions is the variety of Romanesque sculptures on its columns, cornices and arches. A Spanish mural and a Spanish altar of the same period have been added.

It took years of patience to bring this project to fruition. You can imagine what consternation would arise if Spain should ever ask for the return of its "loan." But don't worry about it.

Howl Of Male-Mute Is View Of Unalakeet

The author and her husband, an artist, spent a winter at Unalakleet on the Bering Sea, making a documentary movie on the life of a sled dog in an Alaskan village.

The hero of this book is a malemute named Seegoo (it is an Eskimo word meaning ice), who had sired a litter of photogenic pups. Seegoo was a very affectionate pet, but no great shakes as a working dog until he'd had some experience.

Mrs. Machentanz has recorded a good many interesting things about the natives and their customs, and the Eskimo children are the most engaging of her characters. Her writing style leaves something to be desired, but she manages to get her narrative across.

FOR NEW GENERATION

KIDNAP — The Story of the Lindberg Case. By George Waller. Dial. $6.95.

Next March 1 will be the 30th anniversary of one of the crimes of the century. Twenty - months-old Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was stolen from his crib and killed. But the body was not found immediately and the kidnaper collected a ransom before he was caught. Because the father was an American hero the case shook the whole nation.

A whole generation, and more, has grown up since that crime, and only a fraction of the present population can remember the feverish excitement of the hunt for the killer, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a schizophrenic who finally was convicted of murder on evidence that had to be circumstantial.

SHOCK

Even to an elder generation it wil come as a shock to realize again how the case was bungled—the stupidity and jealousy of some of the investigating agencies; the pretenses and faking of embezzlers and publicity seekers who played on the national desire to be helpful; the political meddling of others; the circus atmosphere of the trial, and cranks and opportunists who cropped up on all sides.

The author gives strong emphasis to the crime - detecting skill of a wood expert, Arthur Koehler, whose analyses tied Hauptmann to a ladder that was found at the scene. But that was after the capture, which resulted from a tremendous watch for the passing ransom bills.

Waller also details a facet of the case that perhaps was not fully understood at the time. Dr. Dudley D. Shoenfeld, a psychiatrist, mainly through his study of a series of ransom notes, was able to forecast with remarkable insight the kind of man the police should look for, where to find him and how to handle him when he was caught.

AUTHOR

The author, a writer of radio scrips, a free lance and former magazine editor, has devoted five years to the writing of this book and has amassed a staggering amount of detail. He did not interview any of the principals, which might have been a help. He depended entirely on the millions and millions of words that appeared in the court records and journals of the time.

He has used the reporter's approach all through the book, with a minimum of comment. The cumulative effect is impressive. To the younger generation this will be a detective story of massive proportions, and to the elder generation a reminder of partially forgotten sensations of a past era. This big book will cause a lot of talk.

Bright Art From Middle Ages Revived

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Illuminated writing, the lifetime work of monks in the Middle Ages, is the hobby of a steel company executive who practices the art despite a hand wound suffered in World War I.

"It's just a gift, I guess," said Casson Butcher, a native of the town of Bottle on the Scotland-England border who makes his home in Chicago.

INTERESTED

"I was interested in the writing even as a kid. I went around the old castles until I got the alphabet of the Old English script, the big and small letters. I spent a lot of time around the old church cemeteries, too, studying the inscriptions on tombs of my ancestors."

Illumination in this use refers to the ornamentation and illustration of writing, particularly the initial letters. Butcher writes in an Old English script, using an ordinary pen dipped in water colors. Part of the illumination comes from interlacing of gold and silver ink. Butcher sometimes uses as many as 20 colors in a single page of writing.

WOUND

A shrapnel would suffered while fighting in France with the British Army in World War I immobilized Butcher's right hand, except for the thumb and index finger. He moves these two fingers only for his writing, but his pen never falters.

Butcher can write "The Lord's Prayer," using 11 colors, in 40 minutes. He writes with continuous strokes of a single pen, dipping the pen in water between colors.

Orange Juice Stand Route To Broadway

With aspirations as an actor, Matthews appeared in one off-Broadway role several years ago. After stomach ulcers forced his retirement, he took a job selling intermission refreshments.

When a cast replacement was needed for "all the Way Home," the stage manager called Matthews in from the lobby and asked him if he would like to try out. After getting the part, Matthews said:

"Learning it was easy. I'm a quick study — and besides, I saw the show eight times a week while selling orange juice."

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A perfectly delightful book, for those who like to read about out of the way places is "The Road to Andorra," by Shirley Deane. This is an enchanting account of life in two of Europe's unspoiled outposts, told with tremendous vitality and with a zest for life. This is an account of her adventures in Andorra, a small republic high in the Pyrenees and of life on one of the Balearic islands (Ibiza to be exact).

Mrs. Dean writes charmingly and those who read her "Tomorrow is Manna," will surely want to read this on.

NEW NOVEL

A new novel which is certain to be read and discussed is "The Stars Abide," by Ramona Stewart. This is a novel which begins in the 1920's in the mining and cattle - ranching country of the Nevada Highlands. It spans two generations in the life of a family wedded, for better or for worse to the land itself. This is the story of Dan Hunt, a successful rancher, but unsuccessful husband, of his wife Kate and their two daughter's, Judy and Laurie. This is a book which you will not soon forget and which adds new stature to the western novel.

"The Black, the Gray and the Gold," by Norman R. Ford has it's setting at West Point and involves a scandal at the Military Academy. This book telescopes many days of many lives into the hour - by - hour suspense of the investigation and the ultimate decision. Ford is a master storyteller, and in a novel packed with love, passions, decisions, and loyalties that swing swiftly from honor to compromise, he unfolds a powerful drama.

Readers of science fiction will want "Time is the Simplest Thing," by Clifford D. Simak." This is an exciting story of man's search for knowledge of outer space and the dangers which it involves. John O'Hara, who has made his fame as a novelist has a new book, which is a collection of "Five Plays." They are modern in setting and tone and will appeal to his devoted public. An exciting true story is "The Gentleman was a Thief," by Neil Hickey. This is the story of Arthur Barry, known as the American raffles. His gem robberies in the 1920's kept the police, insurance companiers and jewel - owners, concerned, confused and baffled. It is an exciting story of a man who left his mark upon the social history of our time.

WESTERN

Readers of western stories should take note of Kingsley West's "A Time for Vengeance." It is well - written and exciting.

In a world where so many people are upset and nervous, the book "The Conquest of Tension," by Richard Hoffmann is most timely. The author points out that most of our worries are needless and that learning to live with them and control them is most important. A most important book in view of [illegible] is "North of Slavery," by Leon F. Litwack. This book shows how the Negroes were treated in the northern states during the period when slavery was in force in the south.

A number of years ago Clarence Streit wrote a book, pleading for a union of the Atlantic countries. He has now written a sequal to it, which he calls "Freeom's Frontier, Atlantic Union now." This book is a stirring appeal for closer relations between our country and the other nations whom he says are our natural allies.

Children who are enrolled in the Civil War Centennial Reading club, are reminded that they have only two more weeks in which to finish their summer reading. Be sure to complete your reading and earn a button and certificate. A book which should be extremely popular with our public is "Walk and be Happy," by Benjamin Kauth, Pod. D. This is a guide to happy healthy feet. Personally, I cannot wait to read it and I am sure that many of you feel the same way.

PLANE CRASHES

Much has been written about the cause of airline crashes and many people have become frightened about air travel. Robert J. Serling has written a book, titled "The Probable Cause; the Truth About Air Travel Today." Serling has given an account of some of the more spectacular crashes and has analyzed the factors involved; weather, maintenance, improper design, pilot error, mechanical failure and the most pressing problem today, our overcrowded skies. Here is a carefully researched, authoritative and highly readable book, which for the first time, gives the whole inside picture of commercial aviation today.

Amy Vanderbilt, who is an authority on the subject of etiquette has now entered the cookbook field. Her book is a large one called "Amy Vanderbilt's Complete Cookbook." It contains recipes for everything one could want and would be invaluable for a beginning cook. This would make an excellent present for a bride. Another useful title is "Better Homes and Gardens Sewing Book." This book gives easy, professional ways to simplify home sewing. It bears little resemblance to the old home economics textbooks, for it advocates short cuts and the use of modern devices. Everyone who is interested in sewing should see this book.

NEW BOOK

A perfectly beautiful new book is Ivan T. Sanderson's "The Continent We Live On." This is a discussion, with excellent illustrations of the North American continent and it's resources. This book will be valuable to travelers, students and all who like a lovely book.

Most of the summer activities are now over, but there are still two weeks before school opens. Why not resolve to read at least one book during this period? Your Ouachita Parish Public Library is willing and eager to serve you.

RED PROPAGANDA

Perlberg Sees Festival Folly

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The United States is playing the Soviet propaganda game by taking part in the Moscow film festival, says producer William Perlberg, just back from Russia.

Perlberg spent almost three weeks in the Russian capital as one of America's official representatives at the festival. His blunt reaction: We're getting a bum deal.

"The whole festival is conducted to further the Soviet cause," he said. "Every single one of the entries from Russia or any of the Iron Curtain countries is loaded with propaganda. "I suppose the State Department thought the Russians would like the picture because it was about Franklin Roosevelt," Perlberg said. "But it was a mistake to pick such a wordy, actionless movie.

"A better selection would have been 'One-eyed Jacks,' which has plenty of action and beautiful American scenery. They would have understood it."

Curtain Call

"Teahouse of the August Moon" will be the first production of the Little Theatre this fall. Tryouts will be held at the Little Theatre on Thursday, August 31, at 7:30 p.m. It is a large cast show with numerous rolls for both men and women.

Oriental costumes of any description are needed for this production. If you have anything, such as a fan or kimono, please contact Judy Evans, FA 5-3200.

Friday night a board meeting of the Little Theatre was held at the Scherck Bogen home on Stubbs.

Mrs. Ray Magruder, president of the Little Theatre, moved into her new home in Town and Country. Her daughter, Joan, who has appeared frequently in Little Theatre productions, is home recuperating from an illness. She plans to go to Dallas to accept a position in the fall.

RETURNED

Mrs. Frances McHenry and Mary, her daughter, have returned from England and Scotland, where they frequented the theatre.

"Ross," the story of Lawrence of Arabia, "Oliver," a musical taken from the novel Oliver Twist, "The Irregular Verb To Love," "Bird of Time," "Bye Bye Birdie," and the London version of "My Fair Lady," were among the plays they saw.

'Little Nipper' Introduction To Nostalgia

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

According to archeologists digging in the dingy vaults beneath RCA Victor's bank of turn-tables down on 23rd Street in Manhattan, it's been 60 years since a fox terrier named "Little Nipper" first squatted on his hunkers before the morning glory horn of an old victrola.

After mining so exquisite a historical gem, the researchers failed to discover just which song first issued forth from "His Master's Voice," but it's safe to say that if it had been "Rock Around the Clock" or some such horror, the faithful hi-fi hound would have fled in terror and not remained at his post for six long decades.

DEDICATION

Little Nipper's singular dedication to the recording medium serves to introduce two new albums in RCA Victor's excellent series, "60 Years of the Music America Loves Best." One is from the Red Label classics collection, and the other from the blue label popular field, and both are Volume III in their respective fields.

None of the selections dates back 60 years, or anywhere close to Little Nipper's salad days, but almost all of them are collector's items carefully culled from old tapes and old master discs, and even more carefully engineered to remove the "sung-through-a-wet-sock" quality that seemed to inhibit early recording processes.

Brimming over with nostalgia, Volume III of the Red Label album is memorable mostly for conserving and, in some cases, reintroducing some of the musical titans of yesteryear who would otherwise not be heard again. The flashbacks to the golden age of concert and opera include Caruso singing "La Donne e Mobile," Horowitz playing "The Moonlight Sonata," Toscanini leading the NBC Orchestra through a brilliant "Dance of the Hours," and Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony in a magnificent performance of the waltz from Tchaikovsky's "Serenade for Strings."

Soviet Economy Weakness Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How do the United States and Soviet Russia stand comparatively in economic and military strength and weaknesses?

In the view of U.S. officials, Russia economically is still far weaker and is likely to remain so, if present trends continue, for the remainder of this century.

If there should be a war over West Berlin, Russia's economic base would be far narrower. It has fewer reserves — in terms of industrial capacity, manpower and raw materials.

Some officials here conclude that the U.S.S.R., if it has to rely on its own economic strength and that of its satellites, would be unable to fight a drawn-out war.

The Soviet economy, in the view of these officials, has only two strong points: The discipline, regimentation and frugality of its population, and comparative self-sufficiency in terms of raw materials.

WIDE DISPERSAL

This includes oil, an item the Soviet Union is commonly believed to be short of. It does not include rubber. However, Russia is believed to have rubber stockpiles, and civilian consumption is negligible.

In terms of war, the wide dispersal of Soviet industry might prove a factor of strength. By contrast, much of U.S. industry is concentrated in the triangle of Chicago-Baltimore - Boston and along the West Coast.

Main economic weaknesses of the Soviet Union, in the view of U.S experts, are its poor transportation system, its narrow industrial base, its low productivity and its crisis-prone agriculture.

Officials say the narrowness of the Soviet industrial base is indicated by production figures for such items as electric power, steel, coal, oil and cement. In all these fields, the Soviets work as hard as possible to produce as much as possible, yet their total production is far less than what the United States achieves without straining productive capacity. In fact, the United States has large surplus capacity in some of these fields.

Soviet industrial productivity, according to Russian sources cited by U.S. experts, is now about 41 per cent of the industrial productivity in the United States. This means Russia needs five workers to produce the same amount of industrial goods two American workers produce.

In agriculture, productivity per worker is less than 2 per cent of that in the United States.

U.S. STRONGER

As to military strength and weaknesses:

American officials say there is no doubt that total U.S. military power, without counting allies, is stronger than Russia's. The Soviet Union is superior in two respects: its standing army is about 10 times larger and it has more submarines. It also is believed to be slightly superior in terms of landbased ballistic missiles. But U.S. officials believe this is more than balanced by the five Polaris missile submarines the Navy already has commissioned. They carry a total of 80 missiles. Sister subs are being built."

The Soviet bomber force is believed to be of good quality but lacking in numbers. Intelligence sources estimate Moscow has only about 100 to 200 intercontinental bombers comparable to the American B52 and the B-58.

Soviet ground troops are regarded as well trained and well equipped. Military leaders are believed to be competent.

U.S. military experts believe Russia is in good shape to wage a nuclear blitzkrieg but would find it difficult to wage a drawn-out war. The reasons are largely the same as those cited under economic strength and weaknesses.

The large fleet of Soviet submarines — some experts estimate them at more than 500-undoubtedly could damage western shipping and shore establishments since some of them are armed with short-range rockets.

But the United States and some of its allies have good anti submarine killer units, both aerial and surface. It is believed they could dispose of many Soviet subs in a relatively short time and that the Russians might have difficulties in maintaining large sub fleets at sea.

As to scientific strength and weaknesses, the Soviet Union is believed to be more on a par with the United States. The American experts say Russia has scientists who are just as good as the best in the United States — But fewer of them.

Stamp News

Unique in design and broad in concept, the 4-cent Workmen's Compensation Law commemorative stamp to be released Sept. 4 at Milwaukee will be an abstract seeking to communicate the ideal of law — perfect justice. This is the report from the U. S. Post Office Department in Washington.

The elongated stamp will be divided exactly down the center. The artist, Norman Todhunter of New York, says: "This exact spatial symmetry suggests the idea of scales." Centered at the top of the "O" of "Wisconsin" constitutes the fulcrum of the scale.

Exactly balanced on the scales are, to the right, a workman and his family. To the left is a factory representing industry. Also prominently displayed are the words "Workmen's Compensation Law" and the anniversary dates "1911 and 1916."

Collectors desiring first day cancellation may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Milwaukee 2, Wis.

An enclosure of mediumweight should be placed in each envelope. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Workmen's Compensation Stamps."

A reminder to collectors. First day cover requests for this stamp must be postmarked before midnight Aug. 30.

Another report from the U.S. Post Office Department comes via the White House. President Kennedy informed visiting Vice President Chen Cheng of the Republic of China that the United States will issue a special postage stamp on Oct. 10 to mark the 50th anniversary of the Chinese revolution which sulminated in the establishment of the Republic of China.

This stamp also will honor the founder of the Chinese Republic, Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Further details as to the design and place of first day issue will be announced shortly.

The Sports Unit of the American Topical Association, which represents those collectors who specialize in stamps of all countries featuring a sports theme, has almost 300 members on its roster. There are 31 foreign members representing 14 nations in addition to those from, the U.S. As a special service to its members, a Translation Committee fluent in 16 languages has made its services available to their fellow sports philatelists. Interested collectors may secure further information in this sports stamps unit by writing to Lawrence McMillan, 3261 Los Coyotes Blvd., Long Beach 8, Calif.

Grain Futures Hold A Generally Firmer Range

CHICAGO (AP)— Grain futures prices maintained a generally firmer range last week and in some instances more than recovered the losses of the previous week on the Board of Trade.

Wheat, ahead for the second successive week, traded at season highs again on some deliveries but finished with only fractional gains on most of them.

Except for some excitement Monday over the tension in Berlin, trade for the most part was rather slow and limited to the speculative type, which was guided largely by weather and crop development. Most of the week's highs were reached on that day, as short interests aggressively covered outstanding commitments. By midweek, however, that mild "scare" had subsided and speculators again had begun a little short selling.

Casing Set In Wildcat Gas Operation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Southwest Gas Producing Co. has set production casing in a Franklin County wildcat and operators prepared to test a gas condensate sand at 10,471-52 feet.

A drill stem test at 10,417-52 feet recovered an unestimated amount of gas and condensate in the Landers Estate No. 1, Sec. 25-7n-2e. The wildcat is one mile west of the Oldenberg field.

Sun Oil Co. ran production tests on a quarter mile north extension to the McComb Field in Pike County. The McComb unit No. 31-1, NE, Sec..31-4n-7e, logged 12 feet of oil sand in the Tuscaloosa formation at 10,958-70 feet.

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. tested a Jones County wildcat, the Hinton No. 1, sec. 10-9n-13w, about 1½ miles east of the Gitano Field. A perforated interval at 13,004-14 feet tested 170 barrels of oil per day. Several other zones are scheduled to be tested.

In Covington County, Pan American Petroleum Corp. resumed drilling below 14,050 feet in a wildcat, the Windham No. 1, sec. 25-8n-15w, about six miles east of Collins.

The well recorded a florescent show on wireline test run at 13,727 feet. It also logged asphaltic oil shows with reports that operators plan to deepen the well about 600 feet below the contract depth of 14,000 feet.

In Amite County, Hill and McLean were below 12,900 feet in a wildcat, the Wall No. 1, sec. 35-1n-6e, located in the Gillsburg area. The venture is scheduled to 14,500 feet, the deepest test drilled in Amite County.

Continental Oil Co. was clearing location for a Yazoo County wildcat, the Rogers No. 1, sec. 7-10n-1w, about five miles northwest of the Bentonia oil field. It is scheduled to 7,000 feet.

In Hinds County, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. was below 13,700 feet in a wildcat, the Woolfe No. 1, sec. 26-3n-2w, about five miles southwest of Terry. It is scheduled to 14,500 feet.

Field drilling the past week brought two new oilers.

In the Puckett Field of Rankin County, Larco Drilling Co. completed the Allen et al No. 1, sec. 13-3n-5e, which flowed 173 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 8,045-51 feet.

At Eucutta in Wayne County, Hess Production Co. finaled the Green No. 6, sec. 2-9n-9w, which pumped 26 barrels per day from a sand at 5,134-46 feet.

Production, Payrolls Hit Annual Peak

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Two record breaking achievements brightened the business picture during the week.

Americans' personal income rose to a new annual peak in July.

Will a negotiated settlement or a continuation of the cold war at crisis level mean a boom in business? they asked. Or will a hotter situation bring government controls and higher taxes?

The Commerce Department reported that personal income climbed to an annual rate of $421.8 billion last month. This was a gain of $4.5 billion over June and $17.1 billion over July 1960.

Record factory payrolls and an extra payment of government life insurance dividends to five million veterans accounted for the increase in the July rate.

The Federal Reserve Board's index measuring production of mines, factories and utilities moved up two points to 112 per cent of the average for 1957. The previous high was 111 in January 1960.

Requests of home buyers for Federal Housing Administration mortgages increased in July to the highest level in 11 months. Applications reached an annual rate of 249,000. Officials said the gain probably was due to lower mortgage interest rates.

President Kennedy, feeling that further spending is needed to spur the economy, ordered a speed-up in highway spending through release of $818 million in federal funds to the states. The money normally wouldn't be allocated until Oct. 1.

The United Auto Workers ordered strike votes at the plants of General Motors, Chrysler and Ford over the weekend as the Aug. 31 contract termination date neared.

But M. M. Chummins, Ford labor relations manager, said he was "very optimistic" that a settlement would be reached before the deadline.

Passenger car production slumped during the week to the lowest level of the year—an estimated 14,000, compared with 21,636 the previous week and 47,437 a year ago. Most of the output consisted of 1962 models.

The Federal Reserve Board found in a survey that in July the number of families planning to buy new cars in the next six months was the greatest for the last three summers. But the number planning to buy new houses and appliances was lower than a year ago.

Steel production improved during the week despite a lag in orders from the auto industry, which was holding back to see how labor negotiations come out. Output reached 1,910,000 tons, up 3.2 per cent from the previous week.

Steel industry sources said August was a better month than July, and September orders were being received at better than the early August rate.

Wholesale food prices mounted during the week to the highest level since April 25.

Baking sources said housewives probably will have to pay a penny a loaf more for bread soon because of higher manufacturing costs.

With Americans eating 15 billion loaves of bread a year, a penny increase would add up to $150 million.

Briefly around the business scene: W. R. Grace & Co. says it has developed a chemical that will preserve fresh flowers for several months ... Trans World Airlines arranged to borrow $147 million to help finance purchase of 26 jet airliners ... Campbell Soup Co. announced it will market a line of dry soup mixes.

Mart Makes Record Day During Week

Stocks Slowdown Over Berlin Was A Temporary One

NEW YORK (AP)—The heightened Berlin crisis last week caused only a temporary interruption of the stock market's advance and the list recovered to achieve a new historic high on the final trading day.

By the close on Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index all agreed that the market stood at an all-time peak.

Because of losses on the first two trading days, the advance was moderate but it kept intact a consistent four-week rally.

The dangerous situation in Berlin provided the immediate spark for a sharp decline on Monday but volume was routine and there was no great rush to sell. Caution rather than panic was the watchword. At the same time, analysts commented that the previous three weeks of rising prices left the list very vulnerable to profit taking, and one excuse was a good as another.

As Wall Street watched developments in Berlin, the conclusion spread rapidly that no shooting war would develop right away. The renewal of confidence led to a temporary rise on Tuesday but this vanished because there was not yet enough conviction to carry it through. At this point, brokers reported that some of the big institutional investors were picking up stock at reduced prices but the odd-lot investors (those who deal in transactions of less than 100 shares) were still nervous.

Meanwhile, news came that industrial production had risen impressively to a record in June and that gains in output continued widespread. This news, of itself, provided no immediate spur to the Wednesday market, except to rails, which staged a rally of their own. The much-maligned carriers were out front all alone until afternoon when the rest of the list began to rally. The industrial news could only mean higher revenue for rails.

By Thursday the street was once more in an optimistic mood and the list soared to a high in the AP average. Rails continued to advance Thursday and Friday, topping their July peak in Dow Jones average and providing important verification for the rise of industrials. Another sizable market gain was made on Friday, despite profit taking.

The AP 60-stock average this week rose 1.00 to its record 256.5. The Dow Jones industrial average rose .93 to 723.54. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index stood at a record 68.29 as the week ended.

Volume for the week totaled 18,024,090 shares compared with 18,163,380 the week before.

A rise of personal income to a new high in July and a resumption of the uptrend that month in new orders for durable goods gave further evidence of economic recovery.

Bonds turned upward after a three-week retreat that carried most prices to the lowest level of 1961. Corporate volume on the New York Stock Exchange declined to $26,502,000 par value, the lowest for a nonholiday week since the week ended Sept. 17, 1960. The previous week, volume was $30,569,000. The U. S. government bond list was ahead in four of five sessions and by the close all but a few issues had posted gains.

Stamp News

Unique in design and broad in concept, the 4-cent Workmen's Compensation Law commemorative stamp to be released Sept. 4 at Milwaukee will be an abstract seeking to communicate the ideal of law — perfect justice. This is the report from the U. S. Post Office Department in Washington.

The elongated stamp will be divided exactly down the center. The artist, Norman Todhunter of New York, says: "This exact spatial symmetry suggests the idea of scales." Centered at the top of the "O" of "Wisconsin" constitutes the fulcrum of the scale.

Exactly balanced on the scales are, to the right, a workman and his family. To the left is a factory representing industry. Also prominently displayed are the words "Workmen's Compensation Law" and the anniversary dates "1911 and 1916."

Collectors desiring first day cancellation may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Milwaukee 2, Wis.

An enclosure of mediumweight should be placed in each envelope. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Workmen's Compensation Stamps."

A reminder to collectors. First day cover requests for this stamp must be postmarked before midnight Aug. 30.

Another report from the U.S. Post Office Department comes via the White House. President Kennedy informed visiting Vice President Chen Cheng of the Republic of China that the United States will issue a special postage stamp on Oct. 10 to mark the 50th anniversary of the Chinese revolution which sulminated in the establishment of the Republic of China.

This stamp also will honor the founder of the Chinese Republic, Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Further details as to the design and place of first day issue will be announced shortly.

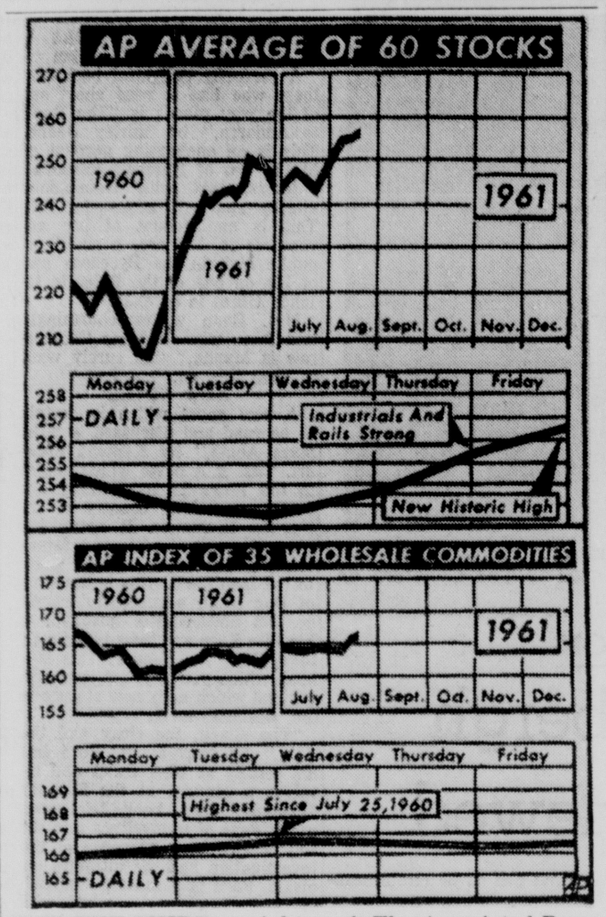

The Sports Unit of the American Topical Association, which represents those collectors who specialize in stamps of all countries featuring a sports theme, has almost 300 members on its roster. There are 31 foreign members representing 14 nations in addition to those from, the U.S. As a special service to its members, a Translation Committee fluent in 16 languages has made its services available to their fellow sports philatelists. Interested collectors may secure further information in this sports stamps unit by writing to Lawrence McMillan, 3261 Los Coyotes Blvd., Long Beach 8, Calif.

Grain Futures Hold A Generally Firmer Range

CHICAGO (AP)— Grain futures prices maintained a generally firmer range last week and in some instances more than recovered the losses of the previous week on the Board of Trade.

Wheat, ahead for the second successive week, traded at season highs again on some deliveries but finished with only fractional gains on most of them.

Except for some excitement Monday over the tension in Berlin, trade for the most part was rather slow and limited to the speculative type, which was guided largely by weather and crop development. Most of the week's highs were reached on that day, as short interests aggressively covered outstanding commitments. By midweek, however, that mild "scare" had subsided and speculators again had begun a little short selling.

FOR THE THIRD straight week The Associated Press averages of 60 stocks hit a new high, closing this week at 256.5, up from 254.4 a week ago. Early in the week the commodity index hit a new 1961 high but slid back later in the week, closing at 166.4, up from 166.0 in preceding week. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Two record breaking achievements brightened the business picture during the week.

Americans' personal income rose to a new annual peak in July.

Will a negotiated settlement or a continuation of the cold war at crisis level mean a boom in business? they asked. Or will a hotter situation bring government controls and higher taxes?

The Commerce Department reported that personal income climbed to an annual rate of $421.8 billion last month. This was a gain of $4.5 billion over June and $17.1 billion over July 1960.

Record factory payrolls and an extra payment of government life insurance dividends to five million veterans accounted for the increase in the July rate.

The Federal Reserve Board's index measuring production of mines, factories and utilities moved up two points to 112 per cent of the average for 1957. The previous high was 111 in January 1960.

Requests of home buyers for Federal Housing Administration mortgages increased in July to the highest level in 11 months. Applications reached an annual rate of 249,000. Officials said the gain probably was due to lower mortgage interest rates.

President Kennedy, feeling that further spending is needed to spur the economy, ordered a speed-up in highway spending through release of $818 million in federal funds to the states. The money normally wouldn't be allocated until Oct. 1.

The United Auto Workers ordered strike votes at the plants of General Motors, Chrysler and Ford over the weekend as the Aug. 31 contract termination date neared.

But M. M. Chummins, Ford labor relations manager, said he was "very optimistic" that a settlement would be reached before the deadline.

Passenger car production slumped during the week to the lowest level of the year—an estimated 14,000, compared with 21,636 the previous week and 47,437 a year ago. Most of the output consisted of 1962 models.

The Federal Reserve Board found in a survey that in July the number of families planning to buy new cars in the next six months was the greatest for the last three summers. But the number planning to buy new houses and appliances was lower than a year ago.

Steel production improved during the week despite a lag in orders from the auto industry, which was holding back to see how labor negotiations come out. Output reached 1,910,000 tons, up 3.2 per cent from the previous week.

Steel industry sources said August was a better month than July, and September orders were being received at better than the early August rate.

Wholesale food prices mounted during the week to the highest level since April 25.

Baking sources said housewives probably will have to pay a penny a loaf more for bread soon because of higher manufacturing costs.

With Americans eating 15 billion loaves of bread a year, a penny increase would add up to $150 million.

Briefly around the business scene: W. R. Grace & Co. says it has developed a chemical that will preserve fresh flowers for several months ... Trans World Airlines arranged to borrow $147 million to help finance purchase of 26 jet airliners ... Campbell Soup Co. announced it will market a line of dry soup mixes.

Stocks Slowdown Over Berlin Was A Temporary One

NEW YORK (AP)—The heightened Berlin crisis last week caused only a temporary interruption of the stock market's advance and the list recovered to achieve a new historic high on the final trading day.

By the close on Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index all agreed that the market stood at an all-time peak.

Because of losses on the first two trading days, the advance was moderate but it kept intact a consistent four-week rally.

The dangerous situation in Berlin provided the immediate spark for a sharp decline on Monday but volume was routine and there was no great rush to sell. Caution rather than panic was the watchword. At the same time, analysts commented that the previous three weeks of rising prices left the list very vulnerable to profit taking, and one excuse was a good as another.

As Wall Street watched developments in Berlin, the conclusion spread rapidly that no shooting war would develop right away. The renewal of confidence led to a temporary rise on Tuesday but this vanished because there was not yet enough conviction to carry it through. At this point, brokers reported that some of the big institutional investors were picking up stock at reduced prices but the odd-lot investors (those who deal in transactions of less than 100 shares) were still nervous.

Meanwhile, news came that industrial production had risen impressively to a record in June and that gains in output continued widespread. This news, of itself, provided no immediate spur to the Wednesday market, except to rails, which staged a rally of their own. The much-maligned carriers were out front all alone until afternoon when the rest of the list began to rally. The industrial news could only mean higher revenue for rails.

By Thursday the street was once more in an optimistic mood and the list soared to a high in the AP average. Rails continued to advance Thursday and Friday, topping their July peak in Dow Jones average and providing important verification for the rise of industrials. Another sizable market gain was made on Friday, despite profit taking.

The AP 60-stock average this week rose 1.00 to its record 256.5. The Dow Jones industrial average rose .93 to 723.54. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index stood at a record 68.29 as the week ended.

Volume for the week totaled 18,024,090 shares compared with 18,163,380 the week before.

A rise of personal income to a new high in July and a resumption of the uptrend that month in new orders for durable goods gave further evidence of economic recovery.

Bonds turned upward after a three-week retreat that carried most prices to the lowest level of 1961. Corporate volume on the New York Stock Exchange declined to $26,502,000 par value, the lowest for a nonholiday week since the week ended Sept. 17, 1960. The previous week, volume was $30,569,000. The U. S. government bond list was ahead in four of five sessions and by the close all but a few issues had posted gains.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has overruled a Pentagon staff recommendation that the naval shipyarsd at Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco be closed, the White House announced Friday.

Another Film Landmark Falls

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Another Hollywood landmark is falling in the path of progress. It is the Normandie Village, which has housed movie hopefuls since the early '20s.

The cluster of high-peaked French provincial buildings has long been a familiar sight on the Sunset Strip. Charlie Chaplin once ran a private club there for friends. Early patrons included Richard Dix, Myrna Loy and Billie Dove. Jimmy Stewart and Henry Fonda roomed together when they first came to Hollywood.

'Goodbye Again' Opening Today

Bergman is back!

In "Goodbye Again," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, through United Artists release, Ingrid Bergman stars with Yves Montand and Antony Perkins in the dramatic study of lonliness, frustration and love which made Francoise Sagan's novel, "Aimey-vous Brahms" a best - selling book both here and abroad.

In this story of how love is, and always will be, Miss Bergman plays a woman of forty who, tired of being stood up by a lover her own age, becomes involved with a young man fifteen years her junior. Yves Montand plays the sophisticated and restless older man and Anthony Perkins, who won the "Best Actor" award for his role in "Goodbye Again" when it was shown at the Cannes Film Festival, is the younger man.

This marks the third book by Miss Sagan to be translated into English and into motion pictures. Earlier, her "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" were successfully adapted for the screen. Now Samuel Taylor has written a tender and exciting screenplay for "Goodbye Again" retaining the subtle nuances of complex human emotions, vividly portrayed by this most excellent cast.

Anatole Litvak, whose expert directorial hand guided Miss Bergman to her second Oscar in "Anastasia" is responsible for "Goodbye Again" as well, filming it in France, except for a sequence in London.

LOCATIONS

Exterior locations included the Salle Pleyel, the Roya Pavillion, the Pre Catelan in the Bois de Boulogne and many others as well as fashionable showplaces throughout Paris' 14th Arrondisssment.

Altogether, forty-one ingenious sets were designed and built by Alexander Trauner, who won an Academy Award for "The Apartment" and range in size from a complete Paris street, with shops, apartments and automobile traffic, to an airport telephone booth.

Some of the more spectacular sets included Miss Bergman's "apartment" and that of Jesse Royce Landis, playing a wealthy woman whose home Miss Bergman, as an interior decorator, is furnishing.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Like most actors of my generation," says Sir Cedric Hardwicke, "I don't understand the new crop of dramatists."

In "Goodbye Again," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, through United Artists release, Ingrid Bergman stars with Yves Montand and Antony Perkins in the dramatic study of lonliness, frustration and love which made Francoise Sagan's novel, "Aimey-vous Brahms" a best - selling book both here and abroad.

In this story of how love is, and always will be, Miss Bergman plays a woman of forty who, tired of being stood up by a lover her own age, becomes involved with a young man fifteen years her junior. Yves Montand plays the sophisticated and restless older man and Anthony Perkins, who won the "Best Actor" award for his role in "Goodbye Again" when it was shown at the Cannes Film Festival, is the younger man.

This marks the third book by Miss Sagan to be translated into English and into motion pictures. Earlier, her "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" were successfully adapted for the screen. Now Samuel Taylor has written a tender and exciting screenplay for "Goodbye Again" retaining the subtle nuances of complex human emotions, vividly portrayed by this most excellent cast.

Anatole Litvak, whose expert directorial hand guided Miss Bergman to her second Oscar in "Anastasia" is responsible for "Goodbye Again" as well, filming it in France, except for a sequence in London.

LOCATIONS

Exterior locations included the Salle Pleyel, the Roya Pavillion, the Pre Catelan in the Bois de Boulogne and many others as well as fashionable showplaces throughout Paris' 14th Arrondisssment.

Altogether, forty-one ingenious sets were designed and built by Alexander Trauner, who won an Academy Award for "The Apartment" and range in size from a complete Paris street, with shops, apartments and automobile traffic, to an airport telephone booth.

Some of the more spectacular sets included Miss Bergman's "apartment" and that of Jesse Royce Landis, playing a wealthy woman whose home Miss Bergman, as an interior decorator, is furnishing.

Howard's Clutch Single Hands Yanks 3-2 Win Tigers Drop Bosox To Stay Three Games Out

ROGER MARIS, who makes a living out of hitting home runs, here is shown stealing a homer from someone else. He leaped high in the seventh inning yesterday to rob Willie Kirkland of the Cleveland Indians of a home run over the right field fence. Maris who has 48 home runs in his bid to break Ruth's record, has been blanked in three straight games now, but it hasn't affected his fielding. The Yanks beat Cleveland 3-2 yesterday, for Whitey Ford's 21st win of the year.

Pinch Single In 9th Frame Ices Victory

DETROIT (AP)— Bubba Morton, entering the game in a rarely-seen pinch hitting move, rifled a ninth-inning single that drove in the winning run in the Detroit Tigers 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Mossi's single sent the Tigers ahead 2-1 after he and Dave Hillman had engaged in a 1-1 pitchers' struggle from the third inning.

But Frank Malzone brought Boston back into a tie with one out in the ninth with his 11th home run. Vic Wertz and Don Buddin singled off Mossi with two out and the Tiger southpaw was relieved by Hank Aguirre.

The third-inning run off Mossi was unearned. Hillman reached base on McAuliffe's error and scored on Chuck Schilling's triple.

The Tigers evened it 1-1 in the bottom of the third on Jake Wood's 10th home run.

Spoils Strategy And Saves Ford

CLEVELAND (AP) — Elston Howard lined a two-out single in the 10th inning Saturday to score the deciding run in New York's 3-2 victory over Cleveland. Whitey Ford posted his 21st triumph, but the Yankees' Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle failed to hit a homer.

Maris, with 48 homers, was 0-for-5 and now is 12 games ahead of Babe Ruth's 60-homer record pace in 1927. Mantle had a single in four trips, but took a called strike on two occasions. He has 45 homers and is 10 games in front of The Babe.

Howard set up the first two Yankee runs with a double in the fourth inning, then delivered the key blow off loser Bobby Locke (4-2).

The winning New York rally was launched by Billy Gardner, who opened the 10th with a double to left for his third hit of the game. Gardner got to play because Tony Kubek came up with a sore elbow.

Maris grounded out to first and Gardner moved to third. Then Mantle looked at a third strike. Yogi Berra was walked intentionally, but Howard spoiled the strategy with his single.

Ford needed help once more from his relief sidekick—Luis Arroyo—after he got two outs in the 10th. When Ken Aspromonte doubled, Yankee Manager Ralph Houk summoned Arroyo and the Puerto Rican southpaw got Jimmy Piersall on a grounder to third to preserve Ford's victory.

The Yanks scored two runs in the fourth on two hits and a pair of walks. One run crossed as Clete Boyer banged into a double play with the bases loaded and none out. Ford knocked in the other marker with a two-out single.

John Romano belted his 18th home run leading off in the fifth inning to cut the Yanks' lead to 2-1.

Held to four hits for seven innings by the crafty Ford, the Indians loaded the bases on three hits after two were out in the eighth. Aspromonte scored when Ford uncorked a wild pitch.

Detroit Lion Quarterback Problem Okay

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP)—Watch out for the Detroit Lions!

They've found a quarterback.

This has been the most vulnerable spot for the Lions, generally expected to b a strong contender for the National Football League championship this fall.

The Lions' defense is strong, the best in the NFL, says Coach George Wilson. Nick Pietrosante, Danny Lewis and Hopalong Cassady give the Lions an excellent ground attack.

What the Lions needed when they started training camp last month was a passer—somebody who could hit top receivers such as Gail Cogdil, Jim Gibbons, Terry Barr and Cassady.

Now Wilson has found him and he had him all along. The late-blooming quarterback is Earl Morrall, a six-year veteran in the NFL.

Wilson, who has been plagued by quarterback troubles since Bobby Layne was traded away in 1958, still refuses to go overboard and say Morrall is his No. 1 man.

Considering the Lions had only six scoring passes in their entire 12-game schedule last year, Wilson doesn't seem to have much choice. Mro

Morrall's competition comes from Jim Ninowski, his former teammate at Michigan State, and young Warren Raab. Ninowski started most of Detroit's games last fall. But the Lions won their final five—after a poor start—with Morrall doing most of the work. Raab, a second-year man who was Billy Cannon's quarterback at Louisiana State, didn't play a minute in his rookie season.

"I hope somebody takes command right at the start," said Wilson at the start of camp. "I don't want any more of this two quarterback system."

Wilson learned to his dismay that two equal quarterbacks can hurt a team. It was fine in 1957 when Layne broke his leg and Tobin Rote was there to lead the Lions to a championship.

But with Rote and Layne fit the next season, the Lions floundered and there were stories of jealousies between the two. Layne finally was traded to Pittsburgh and Rote was given the job. The Lions totalled only seven victories in 1958 and 1959. Rote left the team after 1959 and went to play in Canada last year.

Morrall's late-season splurge was credited with bringing the Lions back to life and scattered praise as the best in the NFL at the end of 1960.

But Wilson was determined to let Morrall battle it out with Ninowski this year for the job.

"I don't know what it is," Wilson said happily after the Lions beat Layne's Steelers 17-14 the other night as Morrall threw two TD passes. "It may be all psychological, but we seem to click a whole lot better with Morrall in there."

Giants Defeat LA On 5-Hit Shutout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal and Stu Miller combined a five-hit shutout and Orlando Cepeda supplied the power as the San Francisco Giants trounced the fading Los Angeles Dodgers 5-0 Saturday. It was the Dodgers' sixth straight loss.

Cepeda had a hand in every San Francisco run. He scored the first marker and knocked in three others with his 34th home run of the year. The Giants' other run came while Cepeda slammed into a double play.

Marichal (12-7) chalked up his sixth straight victory but had to leave the game with two out in the Dodger sixth because of a muscle strain in his right shoulder.

Miller came in, struck out Jim Gilliam and allowed only two hits the rest of the way for his sixth save.

Stan Williams (11-9), first of four Dodger hurlers, was the loser.

The 29,159 fans saw the Giants win their ninth game in their last 11. The six-game losing streak was the Dodgers' longest since 1958.

Cepeda opened the Giants' second with a single, stole second and scored on rookie catcher John Orsino's single.

McLish Takes 12th Victory By 5-3 Count

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cal McLish gained his eighth victory of the season as the Chicago White Sox took advantage of three Kansas City errors to score three unearned runs and hand the Athletics a 5-3 setback Saturday.

Roy Sievers paced a 10-hit attack by the Sox with a double and two singles.

The Sox took a 1-0 lead in the first when Sievers doubled Floyd Robinson home from first and they were ahead the rest of the way.

Al Smith drove in the second Chicago run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth and the Sox made their lead 4-0 in the sixth. Sherm Lollar singled home the first run and McLish accounted for the second when he bunted safely with two out to score Minnie Minoso from third.

McLish, who retired 14 straight batters after giving up a double with one out in the first, weakened in the last of the sixth and was tagged for two runs. Haywood Sullivan doubled and was singled home by Dick Howser. Singles by Jim Rivera and Norm Siebern brought Howser home.

The White Sox made their lead 5-2 in the seventh. Jim Landis beat out a slow roller to Bill Kunkel and went to second when Kunkel threw wide to first. Minoso singled Landis home.

McLish gave up two singles to open the last of the seventh and was replaced by Turk Lown. Lown gave up the final Kansas City run in the eighth on a triple by Jerry Lumpe and a sacrifice fly by Siebern.

Jonesville Qb's Will Hold Meet

JONESVILLE (Special) — A meeting of the Jonesville Quarterback club has been set for Monday, Aug. 21, at 7:30 p.m. according to B. L. Sandifer, president.

Everyone who is interested in the athletic program of the Block high school, Jonesville, is urged to attend this meeting, Sandifer said.

Plans for the programs, tickets and the promotion of the Block Bears will be discussed at the meeting.

Pressure Is Biggest Help To Ruth Mark

BALTIMORE (AP)—It's generally agreed Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle will face increasing psychological pressure as they close in on Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a season.

But if the New York Yankee sluggers come down to their 154th game with a shot at the record, they also will have to overcome some formidable physical barriers.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has ruled Ruth's record must be broken in New York's first 154 decisions, plus ties, to be official. After that, because of the expanded 162-game American League schedule this season, any new mark will be followed by an asterisk in the record books.

The 1961 Yanks also have played one tie, so Mantle and Maris have the same number of chances as Ruth.

Barring postponements, Maris and Mantle will reach the deadline in the first three games of a four-game series here Sept. 19-21.

Orioles and visiting players alike complain about 382-foot distances up the "alleys" in left and right-center fields, where most homers are hit. To the center field fence it's 410 feet.

In addition some hitters complain of the center field background, saying they are bothered by the scoreboard lights at night and a white house beyond the fences in the daytime.

Memorial Stadium is definitely a pitcher's park, and the Orioles have a mound staff which compounds the misery of batters.

Maris, who led Mantle in homers 48-45 through games of Friday, has found Baltimore's park and pitchers tough all year.

Memorial Stadium is the only park in which he has failed to hit an official homer. He did drive one into the seats July 17, but rain forced a postponement and washed the homer off the books.

Monroe Eliminated

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — The Monroe Merchants were bounced from the Louisiana softball tournament here yesterday in two close contests.

They were 1-0 victims to Baton Rouge in a game Saturday morning and lost to Rayne 2-1 that afternoon.

Jackson Nips Monroe 8-7 After Locals Stage Rally

MEMPHIS (Special) — Monroe came within a hair of writing a storybook finish to a nine-inning up-hill battle here yesterday afternoon, but their luck ran out at the eleventh hour and the Valley Gassers of Jackson, Mississippi pulled off an 8-7 squeak with two out in the ninth.

The Brown-Rivers-Scogin nine had just tied the score in the top of the ninth with some baserunning right out of Hollywood and a bit of luck second to none Ireland ever saw.

They sent in their big ace, southpaw Lynn Causey to preserve the tie in the ninth, and it seemed that two hours of some of the zaniest, frustration B.R.S. ever endured might turn out all right after all.

But Charles Smith, the Gassers rugged catcher, was safe on a fielder's choice with two away. He advanced to third on a Texas Leaguer that just dropped into right and with the situation clearly now or never, leftfielder Don Selts got his third hit of the day, a hard single up the middle that scored Smith with ease.

DAY DISAPPOINTING

It was a day of bitter disappointment for Monroe, which found itself playing its third game in three days.

They jumped to a two run lead in the first inning but that was the only time they led. Charlie Biggar, the Monroe starter, was obviously not up to his best form. He lasted 2-3rds of one inning and when he retired Jackson was ahead 3-2.

Jackson scored one more in the dismal first and this was also credited to Biggar.. Monroe spent the rest of the afternoon trying to catch up.

When it seemed Monroe was washed up and would never quite make even a tie, Neal Gunn pulled it off with a fantastic base running stint and a generous han from lady luck.

Gunn, who has pulled some heroric stunts before, may be called "Ty Cobb" Gunn after this one.

In the top of the ninth with the score 7-6 for Jackson and one out, Gunn walked. Causey, the next batter, struckout, leaving relief hurler Claude "Ice Water" Reeder only three strikes from victory.

But Gunn stole second. Then he stole third.

Joe Zarro, who came on in relief of Biggar and pitched creditable ball, was the batter.

He lined one right to "Ice Water" Reeder, who batted the ball down and tossed to first for what should have been the final out.

Only the first sacker dropped the ball. Zarro was safe on first and Gunn roared in from third for the tie.

PLAY AGAIN

The battle weary locals take the field at 4 p.m. this afternoon. This time they face Walnut Ridge, the club they humbled in their second game. Both teams have lost one time in the double elimination meet.

Jackson added another run in the second inning to take an impressive 5-2 lead. It was the seventh before Monroe could break this down any.

They tallied two in the top of the seventh, but Jackson also got to their bats in the seventh to hold a 7-4 margin.

Monroe kept on though, and notched two in the eighth to cut the lead to 7-6.

Bad streaks of luck kept hurting B.R.S. The two runs in the eighth were knocked in by Joey McGinn on a long hit that should have left the park and handed Monroe a tie then.

But the ball hit a pole at the leftfield fence and was ruled a ground rule double.

For a long time it seemed Monroe might not add any to their two from the first inning.

They loaded the bases in the fifth but couldn't muster the punch to score.

The thorow to home was cut-off and snapped to second, catching Zarro. Cannal hesitated off third, then tried to score, but the ball was fired back to home and Canal was out at the plate for a double play.

REEDER WINNER

Causey, ironically was the loser and Reeder, the winner. Both pitched 2-3'rds of an inning.

Biggar gave up four runs on two hits during his 2-3 inning tenure. Zarro lasted seven and 1-3, allowing seven hits and three runs.

Causey was tagged for two hits and gave up the winning run.

Kerr started for Jackson, went 6 2-3 frames and gave up four runs on seven hits. He was followed by Fields, who stayed two innings and let in two runs. Reeder gave up one run on no hits over 2-3rd's of an inning.

Cromwell and Roberts led Monroe batting with two hits apiece. McGinn knocked in two runs.

Selts was Jackson's big gun, getting three hits, including a homer. Bourne hit a triple and five men doubled.

CROMWELL BUNTS

Eddie Kincaid walked after Cromwell advanced to third on a sacrifice and fielder's choice.

Biggar then beat out an infield hit that sent Cromwell home and Kincaid joined the act, scoring when the pitcher, Kerr, dropped the ball at first.

Smith tied the game, coming in from third when McGinn dropped a high pop-up.

At this point Zarro came in and issued a hit to Larry Kerr for the fourth run.

Bourne added Jackson's fifth run in the second by hitting to center, advancing on an error and issued a hit to Larry Kerr for the fourth run.

Bourne added Jackson's fifth run in the second by hitting to center, advancing on an error and coming in on Craft's log fly out.

Monroe got back in the game in the seventh.

Roberts walked, McGinn was hit and Kincaid got four balls to load the sacks.

Roberts scored on a wild pitch and the others moved up.

Jackson pulled Kerr for Junior Fields and he walked Biggar to refill the bases, then hit Guinn, forcing in McGinn.

Jackson, not to be outdone, got two themselves in the seventh.

Cromwell singled in the eighth and Roberts doubled as Monroe began to shell Fields. McGinn, continued the shellacking, with his two-run hit that missed being a circuit clout by the width of the lamp post.

Polylad Takes Granite State Handicap Run

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Polylad, the even-money favorite, ran out of the money Saturday in the Granite State Handicap at Rockingham Park and cost one bettor $19,000. That was the amount the unidentified bettor in the crowd of 16,565 wagered on the favorite to show.

Victory in the mile and an eighth $15,000 race went to Peter Fuller's Hillsborough who came through with a spectacular stretch run down the middle of the track.

The former Calumet colorbearer, ridden by Darrel Madden, came from next to last and finished a half-length in front of Baal 2nd. The latter was disqualified, however, and placed third for impeding Moony near the 16th pole. Moony was awarded second money.

Polylad, winner of the $50,000-added Massachusetts Handicap last month at Suffolk Downs, did not have any late kick and his 126-pound topweight proved to be too much. He finished fourth in the field of nine.

Hillsborough paid $17.80, $10.40 and $14.60. Moony paid $5.40 and $9.80 and Baal 2nd $17.

It was the fourth victory in 11 starts for Hillsborough, who was clocked in 1

Howard's Clutch Single Hands Yanks 3-2 Win
Tigers Drop Bosox To Stay Three Games Out

ROGER MARIS, who makes a living out of hitting home runs, here is shown stealing a homer from someone else. He leaped high in the seventh inning yesterday to rob Willie Kirkland of the Cleveland Indians of a home run over the right field fence. Maris who has 48 home runs in his bid to break Ruth's record, has been blanked in three straight games now, but it hasn't affected his fielding. The Yanks beat Cleveland 3-2 yesterday, for Whitey Ford's 21st win of the year.

Pinch Single In 9th Frame Ices Victory

DETROIT (AP)— Bubba Morton, entering the game in a rarely-seen pinch hitting move, rifled a ninth-inning single that drove in the winning run in the Detroit Tigers 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Mossi's single sent the Tigers ahead 2-1 after he and Dave Hillman had engaged in a 1-1 pitchers' struggle from the third inning.

But Frank Malzone brought Boston back into a tie with one out in the ninth with his 11th home run. Vic Wertz and Don Buddin singled off Mossi with two out and the Tiger southpaw was relieved by Hank Aguirre.

The third-inning run off Mossi was unearned. Hillman reached base on McAuliffe's error and scored on Chuck Schilling's triple.

The Tigers evened it 1-1 in the bottom of the third on Jake Wood's 10th home run.

Spoils Strategy And Saves Ford

CLEVELAND (AP) — Elston Howard lined a two-out single in the 10th inning Saturday to score the deciding run in New York's 3-2 victory over Cleveland. Whitey Ford posted his 21st triumph, but the Yankees' Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle failed to hit a homer.

Maris, with 48 homers, was 0-for-5 and now is 12 games ahead of Babe Ruth's 60-homer record pace in 1927. Mantle had a single in four trips, but took a called strike on two occasions. He has 45 homers and is 10 games in front of The Babe.

Howard set up the first two Yankee runs with a double in the fourth inning, then delivered the key blow off loser Bobby Locke (4-2).

The winning New York rally was launched by Billy Gardner, who opened the 10th with a double to left for his third hit of the game. Gardner got to play because Tony Kubek came up with a sore elbow.

Maris grounded out to first and Gardner moved to third. Then Mantle looked at a third strike. Yogi Berra was walked intentionally, but Howard spoiled the strategy with his single.

Ford needed help once more from his relief sidekick—Luis Arroyo—after he got two outs in the 10th. When Ken Aspromonte doubled, Yankee Manager Ralph Houk summoned Arroyo and the Puerto Rican southpaw got Jimmy Piersall on a grounder to third to preserve Ford's victory.

The Yanks scored two runs in the fourth on two hits and a pair of walks. One run crossed as Clete Boyer banged into a double play with the bases loaded and none out. Ford knocked in the other marker with a two-out single.

John Romano belted his 18th home run leading off in the fifth inning to cut the Yanks' lead to 2-1.

Held to four hits for seven innings by the crafty Ford, the Indians loaded the bases on three hits after two were out in the eighth. Aspromonte scored when Ford uncorked a wild pitch.

Detroit Lion Quarterback Problem Okay

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP)—Watch out for the Detroit Lions!

They've found a quarterback.

This has been the most vulnerable spot for the Lions, generally expected to b a strong contender for the National Football League championship this fall.

The Lions' defense is strong, the best in the NFL, says Coach George Wilson. Nick Pietrosante, Danny Lewis and Hopalong Cassady give the Lions an excellent ground attack.

What the Lions needed when they started training camp last month was a passer—somebody who could hit top receivers such as Gail Cogdil, Jim Gibbons, Terry Barr and Cassady.

Now Wilson has found him and he had him all along. The late-blooming quarterback is Earl Morrall, a six-year veteran in the NFL.

Wilson, who has been plagued by quarterback troubles since Bobby Layne was traded away in 1958, still refuses to go overboard and say Morrall is his No. 1 man.

Considering the Lions had only six scoring passes in their entire 12-game schedule last year, Wilson doesn't seem to have much choice. Mro

Morrall's competition comes from Jim Ninowski, his former teammate at Michigan State, and young Warren Raab. Ninowski started most of Detroit's games last fall. But the Lions won their final five—after a poor start—with Morrall doing most of the work. Raab, a second-year man who was Billy Cannon's quarterback at Louisiana State, didn't play a minute in his rookie season.

"I hope somebody takes command right at the start," said Wilson at the start of camp. "I don't want any more of this two quarterback system."

Wilson learned to his dismay that two equal quarterbacks can hurt a team. It was fine in 1957 when Layne broke his leg and Tobin Rote was there to lead the Lions to a championship.

But with Rote and Layne fit the next season, the Lions floundered and there were stories of jealousies between the two. Layne finally was traded to Pittsburgh and Rote was given the job. The Lions totalled only seven victories in 1958 and 1959. Rote left the team after 1959 and went to play in Canada last year.

Morrall's late-season splurge was credited with bringing the Lions back to life and scattered praise as the best in the NFL at the end of 1960.

But Wilson was determined to let Morrall battle it out with Ninowski this year for the job.

"I don't know what it is," Wilson said happily after the Lions beat Layne's Steelers 17-14 the other night as Morrall threw two TD passes. "It may be all psychological, but we seem to click a whole lot better with Morrall in there."

Giants Defeat LA On 5-Hit Shutout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal and Stu Miller combined a five-hit shutout and Orlando Cepeda supplied the power as the San Francisco Giants trounced the fading Los Angeles Dodgers 5-0 Saturday. It was the Dodgers' sixth straight loss.

Cepeda had a hand in every San Francisco run. He scored the first marker and knocked in three others with his 34th home run of the year. The Giants' other run came while Cepeda slammed into a double play.

Marichal (12-7) chalked up his sixth straight victory but had to leave the game with two out in the Dodger sixth because of a muscle strain in his right shoulder.

Miller came in, struck out Jim Gilliam and allowed only two hits the rest of the way for his sixth save.

Stan Williams (11-9), first of four Dodger hurlers, was the loser.

The 29,159 fans saw the Giants win their ninth game in their last 11. The six-game losing streak was the Dodgers' longest since 1958.

Cepeda opened the Giants' second with a single, stole second and scored on rookie catcher John Orsino's single.

McLish Takes 12th Victory By 5-3 Count

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cal McLish gained his eighth victory of the season as the Chicago White Sox took advantage of three Kansas City errors to score three unearned runs and hand the Athletics a 5-3 setback Saturday.

Roy Sievers paced a 10-hit attack by the Sox with a double and two singles.

The Sox took a 1-0 lead in the first when Sievers doubled Floyd Robinson home from first and they were ahead the rest of the way.

Al Smith drove in the second Chicago run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth and the Sox made their lead 4-0 in the sixth. Sherm Lollar singled home the first run and McLish accounted for the second when he bunted safely with two out to score Minnie Minoso from third.

McLish, who retired 14 straight batters after giving up a double with one out in the first, weakened in the last of the sixth and was tagged for two runs. Haywood Sullivan doubled and was singled home by Dick Howser. Singles by Jim Rivera and Norm Siebern brought Howser home.

The White Sox made their lead 5-2 in the seventh. Jim Landis beat out a slow roller to Bill Kunkel and went to second when Kunkel threw wide to first. Minoso singled Landis home.

McLish gave up two singles to open the last of the seventh and was replaced by Turk Lown. Lown gave up the final Kansas City run in the eighth on a triple by Jerry Lumpe and a sacrifice fly by Siebern.

Pressure Is Biggest Help To Ruth Mark

BALTIMORE (AP)—It's generally agreed Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle will face increasing psychological pressure as they close in on Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a season.

But if the New York Yankee sluggers come down to their 154th game with a shot at the record, they also will have to overcome some formidable physical barriers.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has ruled Ruth's record must be broken in New York's first 154 decisions, plus ties, to be official. After that, because of the expanded 162-game American League schedule this season, any new mark will be followed by an asterisk in the record books.

The 1961 Yanks also have played one tie, so Mantle and Maris have the same number of chances as Ruth.

Barring postponements, Maris and Mantle will reach the deadline in the first three games of a four-game series here Sept. 19-21.

Orioles and visiting players alike complain about 382-foot distances up the "alleys" in left and right-center fields, where most homers are hit. To the center field fence it's 410 feet.

In addition some hitters complain of the center field background, saying they are bothered by the scoreboard lights at night and a white house beyond the fences in the daytime.

Memorial Stadium is definitely a pitcher's park, and the Orioles have a mound staff which compounds the misery of batters.

Maris, who led Mantle in homers 48-45 through games of Friday, has found Baltimore's park and pitchers tough all year.

Memorial Stadium is the only park in which he has failed to hit an official homer. He did drive one into the seats July 17, but rain forced a postponement and washed the homer off the books.

Jackson Nips Monroe 8-7 After Locals Stage Rally

MEMPHIS (Special) — Monroe came within a hair of writing a storybook finish to a nine-inning up-hill battle here yesterday afternoon, but their luck ran out at the eleventh hour and the Valley Gassers of Jackson, Mississippi pulled off an 8-7 squeak with two out in the ninth.

The Brown-Rivers-Scogin nine had just tied the score in the top of the ninth with some baserunning right out of Hollywood and a bit of luck second to none Ireland ever saw.

They sent in their big ace, southpaw Lynn Causey to preserve the tie in the ninth, and it seemed that two hours of some of the zaniest, frustration B.R.S. ever endured might turn out all right after all.

But Charles Smith, the Gassers rugged catcher, was safe on a fielder's choice with two away. He advanced to third on a Texas Leaguer that just dropped into right and with the situation clearly now or never, leftfielder Don Selts got his third hit of the day, a hard single up the middle that scored Smith with ease.

DAY DISAPPOINTING

It was a day of bitter disappointment for Monroe, which found itself playing its third game in three days.

They jumped to a two run lead in the first inning but that was the only time they led. Charlie Biggar, the Monroe starter, was obviously not up to his best form. He lasted 2-3rds of one inning and when he retired Jackson was ahead 3-2.

Jackson scored one more in the dismal first and this was also credited to Biggar.. Monroe spent the rest of the afternoon trying to catch up.

When it seemed Monroe was washed up and would never quite make even a tie, Neal Gunn pulled it off with a fantastic base running stint and a generous han from lady luck.

Gunn, who has pulled some heroic stunts before, may be called "Ty Cobb" Gunn after this one.

In the top of the ninth with the score 7-6 for Jackson and one out, Gunn walked. Causey, the next batter, struckout, leaving relief hurler Claude "Ice Water" Reeder only three strikes from victory.

But Gunn stole second. Then he stole third.

Joe Zarro, who came on in relief of Biggar and pitched creditable ball, was the batter.

He lined one right to "Ice Water" Reeder, who batted the ball down and tossed to first for what should have been the final out.

Only the first sacker dropped the ball. Zarro was safe on first and Gunn roared in from third for the tie.

PLAY AGAIN

The battle weary locals take the field at 4 p.m. this afternoon. This time they face Walnut Ridge, the club they humbled in their second game. Both teams have lost one time in the double elimination meet.

Jackson added another run in the second inning to take an impressive 5-2 lead. It was the seventh before Monroe could break this down any.

They tallied two in the top of the seventh, but Jackson also got to their bats in the seventh to hold a 7-4 margin.

Monroe kept on though, and notched two in the eighth to cut the lead to 7-6.

Bad streaks of luck kept hurting B.R.S. The two runs in the eighth were knocked in by Joey McGinn on a long hit that should have left the park and handed Monroe a tie then.

But the ball hit a pole at the leftfield fence and was ruled a ground rule double.

For a long time it seemed Monroe might not add any to their two from the first inning.

They loaded the bases in the fifth but couldn't muster the punch to score.

The thorow to home was cut-off and snapped to second, catching Zarro. Cannal hesitated off third, then tried to score, but the ball was fired back to home and Canal was out at the plate for a double play.

REEDER WINNER

Causey, ironically was the loser and Reeder, the winner. Both pitched 2-3'rds of an inning.

Biggar gave up four runs on two hits during his 2-3 inning tenure. Zarro lasted seven and 1-3, allowing seven hits and three runs.

Causey was tagged for two hits and gave up the winning run.

Kerr started for Jackson, went 6 2-3 frames and gave up four runs on seven hits. He was followed by Fields, who stayed two innings and let in two runs. Reeder gave up one run on no hits over 2-3rd's of an inning.

Cromwell and Roberts led Monroe batting with two hits apiece. McGinn knocked in two runs.

Selts was Jackson's big gun, getting three hits, including a homer. Bourne hit a triple and five men doubled.

CROMWELL BUNTS

Eddie Kincaid walked after Cromwell advanced to third on a sacrifice and fielder's choice.

Biggar then beat out an infield hit that sent Cromwell home and Kincaid joined the act, scoring when the pitcher, Kerr, dropped the ball at first.

Smith tied the game, coming in from third when McGinn dropped a high pop-up.

Biggar heaped more misery on his head, walking Billy Craswell to load the sacks again, then passing Fed Chambers to push across another run.

At this point Zarro came in and issued a hit to Larry Kerr for the fourth run.

Bourne added Jackson's fifth run in the second by hitting to center, advancing on an error and issued a hit to Larry Kerr for the fourth run.

Bourne added Jackson's fifth run in the second by hitting to center, advancing on an error and coming in on Craft's log fly out.

Monroe got back in the game in the seventh.

Roberts walked, McGinn was hit and Kincaid got four balls to load the sacks.

Roberts scored on a wild pitch and the others moved up.

Jackson pulled Kerr for Junior Fields and he walked Biggar to refill the bases, then hit Guinn, forcing in McGinn.

Jackson, not to be outdone, got two themselves in the seventh.

Cromwell singled in the eighth and Roberts doubled as Monroe began to shell Fields. McGinn, continued the shellacking, with his two-run hit that missed being a circuit clout by the width of the lamp post.

Polylad Takes Granite State Handicap Run

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Polylad, the even-money favorite, ran out of the money Saturday in the Granite State Handicap at Rockingham Park and cost one bettor $19,000. That was the amount the unidentified bettor in the crowd of 16,565 wagered on the favorite to show.

Victory in the mile and an eighth $15,000 race went to Peter Fuller's Hillsborough who came through with a spectacular stretch run down the middle of the track.

The former Calumet colorbearer, ridden by Darrel Madden, came from next to last and finished a half-length in front of Baal 2nd. The latter was disqualified, however, and placed third for impeding Moony near the 16th pole. Moony was awarded second money.

Polylad, winner of the $50,000-added Massachusetts Handicap last month at Suffolk Downs, did not have any late kick and his 126-pound topweight proved to be too much. He finished fourth in the field of nine.

Hillsborough paid $17.80, $10.40 and $14.60. Moony paid $5.40 and $9.80

HOPE FOR WIN

Unhappy Phillies Become Quiet Lot

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have become a quiet, unhappy lot in three weeks. Each new day brings renewed hope—then despair. All they want is one, just one, victory.

The silent gloom in the clubhouse equals anything in Mudville the day the mighty Casey struck out. In fact, if the lights ever fail, visitors to the Philadelphia dressing quarters will think they're in a graveyard.

The hapless Phillies now own a record which they would like to forget, but can't. They set a modern major league mark of 21 straight losses in dropping a 4-1 decision to the Milwaukee Braves Friday night.

"Troubles and headaches we've got — but good," said Gene Mauch, the Phils' 35-year-old manager who admits he now feels closer to 53.

As field boss, Mauch patiently talks with baseball writers who troop daily into the clubhouse. He says the losing streak subject is "tough to talk about." But he does so, though at times through gritted teeth.

"I honestly don't think the public places that much of a premium on someone else's unhappiness," Gene said. "But, at the same time, I guess it can't be ignored. It's rough all around."

The Phillies have received plenty of "breaks" since they went into their brutal tailspin. Unfortunately for them, most of them have been bad. When they get pitching, they don't hit. When they hit, they don't have good pitching.

Mauch, who has been given a vote of confidence by General Manager John Quinn, claims he isn't worried about his job—declaring that "it's the team that concerns me." He also notes that all the players, many of them young, are pressing and that makes things tougher.

The winless string which left Philadelphia with a 30-85 record through Friday's games is pointed up by many factors. No longer are fans crowding outside for autographs. And clubhouse crashers are non-existent. It seems everyone is staying away in a gesture of pity.

Official visitors quickly are hit by the silence broken only by running showers. Some players sit for a long while, staring at the floor or into their lockers. Others have bewildered looks. Still others appear to look with suspicion at visitors. There isn't a smile anyplace—as even clubhouse attendants assume the facial expression of funeral directors.

Despite their discouragement after a game, the players appear to bounce back the next day and are peppery in drills preceding what has become another defeat.

One member of the Braves said that although Mauch still is full of holler on the third base coaching lines and in the dugout the "losing string is killing him little by little."

"One of these days he's liable to slash both wrists, then jump out of a hotel window to make sure," the player added in mock humor.

The Phils' 21 straight losses broke the modern major league record of 20 set by the Boston Red Sox in 1906 and equalled by the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1916 and again in 1943. The all-time mark is 24 consecutive defeats suffered by Cleveland, then in the National League, in 1889.

Braves Hand Phillies 22nd Straight Loss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves pushed their winning streak to nine straight games by handing the hapless Philadelphia Phillies their 22nd loss in a row Saturday by a 4-3 margin.

Philadelphia threatened with an uprising in the ninth inning that had the bases filled and forced Tony Cloninger from the mound. But reliever Don McMahon succeeded in retiring the side after the Phils got one run.

The Braves scored all their runs in the third inning in which Frank Thomas hit his 23rd home run and Joe Adcock doubled.

The victory string equaled the National League streak of nine run up by Cincinnati between April 30 and May 10.

Philadelphia, which last night set a modern major league record by losing its 21st in a row, came within two losses of the all-time major league losing mark of 24 set by Cleveland in 1899.

The loser was Frank Sullivan, 6-7 right-hander in his first year in the National League. Sullivan, who spent several seasons with the Boston Red Sox, has a record of 3 and 12.

The Phillies got small consolation in Don Demeter's 12th home run leading off the fourth inning. The Phils scored again in the fifth after Sullivan walked, Tony Taylor singled and John Callison followed with another single, filling the bases. Sullivan scored as Tony Gonzalez hit into a double play.

Post Homer Puts Cincy Ahead By 3

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds surged into a three-game lead in the National League Saturday night as a home run by Wally Post sparked them into a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the sixth straight triumph for the Reds and came after the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers lost their sixth straight.

Joey Jay, going all the way, brought his record to 18-7 with a four-hitter and gave the Reds their fifth straight complete pitching performance. He didn't allow a hit after the third inning.

The cards got their run in the opening inning on Curt Flood's triple and a single by Ken Boyer. They also threatened in the third with singles by Curt Simmons and Bill White but Jay worked himself out of trouble.

Singles by Eddie Kasko and Frank Robinson gave Simmons some difficulty in the first inning but he got out of it when Gene Freese flied out.

The Reds got one hit in each of the next three innings but didn't score until the sixth when Kasko's single, a sacrifice and Robinson's single produced a tally.

Post's blow came in the seventh and the Reds got their final run in the eighth on Kasko's single and Robinson's double, a wallop that barely eluded Flood, who made a flying leap for the ball.

Post's homer, which hit the screen in left field, was his 16th. He has hit at least one homer in every park in the league even though playing for the most part against only left-handed pitchers.

BILLY CASPER JR., of Apple Valley, Calif., explodes from sand on the 12th hole in third round play of the $35,000 Indian Spring Open yesterday. Casper continued to lead the field, his 69 giving him a 54-hole total of 206, four strokes under par. He holds a two-stroke lead over Paul Harney going into today's final round.

HAS TWO-STROKE LEAD

Casper Staggers But Holds Margin

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Billy Casper was able to wrest only one stroke from par 70 Saturday but managed to hold the lead through three straight rounds of the $35,000 Indian Spring Open Golf Tournament.

The 69 gave the 30-year-old chubby golfer from Apple Valley, Calif., a 54-hole total of 206, four strokes under par. That sent him into Sunday's final round with a two-stroke lead over the thin man from Worcester, Mass., Paul Harney.

Casper weathered a storm of sub-par rounds by others, including a course record 64 by Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Harney was one of four in the field of 93 to shoot 66 and it gave him a total of 208.

Kroll's conquest of the 7,031-yard course moved him no closer than a seventh.

For the second straight day Casper couldn't get the most out of his usually reliable putter. He battled to stay even with par through the first 13 holes before knocking in two straight birdies. But they were putts of only about 2 feet.

At the last hole, he barely reached the green on his second shot, putted to about 4 feet, couldn't make it and took a bogey 5.

Harney got off to a winging start with birdies on three of the first four holes and picked up another on the sixth, but took a bogey 5 on No. 8. On the second nine, a birdie on the 15th was his only swap with par.

Kroll's deadly use of the 7-iron was the outstanding contribution to his course record. Three times he wielded it to loft the ball to within 2 feet of the cup for birdies. He also sank two 15-foot putts for birdies and his last at the 15th was only 3 feet.

CRAWFORD MOVES UP

Favorites Beaten In Colonial Golf

Greenwood, a 22-year-old from Sparta, Tenn., moved to the semi-finals with a 2 and 1 victory over Ed Brantly, the Tennessee champion from Chattanooga.

In other quarterfinal play, Texas champion Ed Hopkins of Abilene knocked off Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., the national Public Links champ, 1 up in 19 holes; Dick Crawford of Jacksonville, Ark., defeated medalist Frank Beard of Louisville, 4 and 3; and Bob McGee of Ft. Campbell, Ky., eliminated Bob Robinson, Meridian, Miss., 1 up in 19.

Greenwood, who bobbed into contention by upsetting defending champion Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, bogied 13, 14 and 15 to let Brantly pull even. Then Brantly's putter went sour.

On the 16th, Brantly missed a three footer and lost to Greenwood's birdie. On 17, Brantly blew a two foot putt and the match.

In second round play Saturday morning:

49ers Open With Home Exhibition

When the 49ers traded veteran Y.A. Tittle to the New York Giants last Tuesday, the job of directing the new shotgun spread offense was left almost exclusively to Brodie, the ex-Stanford star.

"We'll start John, and he might go all the way," said Coach Red Hickey discussing the pre-season game. "We want to see him get all the work he can. On the other hand, we also like to see the other two—Bobby Waters and Bill Kilmer—get experience."

The Browns will have their big one-two punch of Jim Brown and Jim Mitchell at the flanker. Although the Browns dropped a 35-7 decision to the Detroit Lions, they remain one of the top favorites in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

Breaks Thumb

DETROIT (AP) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Dave Hillman suffered a broken left thumb when he was struck in the hand by a line drive hit by Billy Bruton in the eighth inning of Saturday's game with the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit team physician Dr. Russell Wright said Hillman will be out of action for the rest of the season.

Bivens Stars As Bears Clip Redskins 29-13

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Charlie Bivens raced 79 and 93 yards for touchdowns Saturday night to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-13 victory over the Washington Redskins in a National Football League exhibition game.

Bivens, a two-year defensive back playing offensive halfback for the first time this season, scored both of his touchdowns in the final period.

Rookie quarterback Norman Snead of Wake Forest, on his first play in professional football, threw a 37-yard scoring pass to Bill Anderson. But at the end of the game, Snead, who was Washington's first draft choice among the 1960 collegians, threw five straight incomplete passes.

Another rookie, Bears' defensive tackle Bob Kilcullen of Texas Tech, also got in on the scoring. Kilcullen picked up Skins' quarterback M. C. Reynolds' fumble on the 14 and ran into the end zone.

The teams played a scoreless first quarter and then each scored once in the second for a 7-7 halftime tie. The Bears scored first, climaxing an 86-yard drive with a three-yard scoring pass from Bill Wade to Mike Ditka. Sam Horner, former Virginia Military star, plunged over from the 2 for the Redskins' score after a 70-yard drive.

But the Bears broke it up in the second half with a 12-yard field goal by Roger LeClerc and Kilcullen's score in the third period, followed by Bivens' two long runs in the fourth.

Logart Loses 10-Round Go To Fernandez

Fernandez, a 3½-1 favorite, weighed 150 pounds to Logart's 147¼.

The victory was the 25-year-old Argentine's fifth straight and moved him in line for a title fight with the winner of the Emile Griffith-Benny (Kid) Paret welterweight championship fight Sept. 30.

The three officials voted for Fernandez by the following scores: Judge Bill Recht 7 rounds to 1 and 2 even; Referee Jimmy Devlin and Judge Joe Agnello 8-2 each. The Associated Press had Fernandez in front, 7-3.

Three years ago Logart, then top-ranking welterweight, knocked out Fernandez in the ninth round. Worse for Fernandez, it happened in his home town of Buenos Aires and the defeat has rankled since.

He made up for it with gusto. The stocky, dark-haired South American got off winging in the first three rounds, faded in the next three, and then walloped the 28-year-old Cuban in the final four. In the last round Logart wobbled around the ring from the fury of Jorge's two-fisted attack to head and body.

Fernandez, now the third-ranking welter contender, has a 73-5-1 record. Logart's record is 60-17-8. The C...

Titans Take 17-7 Victory Over Boston

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Passing by Al Dorow sparked the New York Titans to a 17-7 American Football League exhibition victory over the Boston Patriots Saturday night before nearly 74,000 fans.

The game, sponsored by a grocery store chain, was cut short by fans. With about less than a minute still showing on the clock, fans spilled onto the field and officials decided to call the game.

NY—Mathis 3 run (Guesman kick)
NY—FG Guesman 26
NY—Maynard 74 pass from Dorow (Guesman kick)

A pass by Dorow set up one Titan score, and he threw to Don Maynard on a 7-4yard pass play in the third period for another. Maynard took the pass on the run and outraced pursuing Pariots to the goal.

The decision evens the pre-season exhibition series between the teams. Boston beat the Titans 14-3 earlier.

Just before the end of the half, a pass interference play moved New York to the 26, where Guesman kicked a field goal.

The Titans completed the scoring in the third quarter with the 74-yard Powell to Maynard play.

Reds Up NL Lead On 3-1 Win

HOPE FOR WIN

Unhappy Phillies Become Quiet Lot

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have become a quiet, unhappy lot in three weeks. Each new day brings renewed hope—then despair. All they want is one, just one, victory.

The silent gloom in the clubhouse equals anything in Mudville the day the mighty Casey struck out. In fact, if the lights ever fail, visitors to the Philadelphia dressing quarters will think they're in a graveyard.

The hapless Phillies now own a record which they would like to forget, but can't. They set a modern major league mark of 21 straight losses in dropping a 4-1 decision to the Milwaukee Braves Friday night.

"Troubles and headaches we've got — but good," said Gene Mauch, the Phils' 35-year-old manager who admits he now feels closer to 53.

As field boss, Mauch patiently talks with baseball writers who troop daily into the clubhouse. He says the losing streak subject is "tough to talk about." But he does so, though at times through gritted teeth.

"I honestly don't think the public places that much of a premium on someone else's unhappiness," Gene said. "But, at the same time, I guess it can't be ignored. It's rough all around."

The Phillies have received plenty of "breaks" since they went into their brutal tailspin. Unfortunately for them, most of them have been bad. When they get pitching, they don't hit. When they hit, they don't have good pitching.

Mauch, who has been given a vote of confidence by General Manager John Quinn, claims he isn't worried about his job—declaring that "it's the team that concerns me." He also notes that all the players, many of them young, are pressing and that makes things tougher.

The winless string which left Philadelphia with a 30-85 record through Friday's games is pointed up by many factors. No longer are fans crowding outside for autographs. And clubhouse crashers are non-existent. It seems everyone is staying away in a gesture of pity.

Official visitors quickly are hit by the silence broken only by running showers. Some players sit for a long while, staring at the floor or into their lockers. Others have bewildered looks. Still others appear to look with suspicion at visitors. There isn't a smile anyplace—as even clubhouse attendants assume the facial expression of funeral directors.

Despite their discouragement after a game, the players appear to bounce back the next day and are peppery in drills preceding what has become another defeat.

One member of the Braves said that although Mauch still is full of holler on the third base coaching lines and in the dugout the "losing string is killing him little by little."

"One of these days he's liable to slash both wrists, then jump out of a hotel window to make sure," the player added in mock humor.

The Phils' 21 straight losses broke the modern major league record of 20 set by the Boston Red Sox in 1906 and equalled by the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1916 and again in 1943. The all-time mark is 24 consecutive defeats suffered by Cleveland, then in the National League, in 1889.

Braves Hand Phillies 22nd Straight Loss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves pushed their winning streak to nine straight games by handing the hapless Philadelphia Phillies their 22nd loss in a row Saturday by a 4-3 margin.

Philadelphia threatened with an uprising in the ninth inning that had the bases filled and forced Tony Cloninger from the mound. But reliever Don McMahon succeeded in retiring the side after the Phils got one run.

The Braves scored all their runs in the third inning in which Frank Thomas hit his 23rd home run and Joe Adcock doubled.

The victory string equaled the National League streak of nine run up by Cincinnati between April 30 and May 10.

Philadelphia, which last night set a modern major league record by losing its 21st in a row, came within two losses of the all-time major league losing mark of 24 set by Cleveland in 1899.

The loser was Frank Sullivan, 6-7 right-hander in his first year in the National League. Sullivan, who spent several seasons with the Boston Red Sox, has a record of 3 and 12.

The Phillies got small consolation in Don Demeter's 12th home run leading off the fourth inning. The Phils scored again in the fifth after Sullivan walked, Tony Taylor singled and John Callison followed with another single, filling the bases. Sullivan scored as Tony Gonzalez hit into a double play.

Post Homer Puts Cincy Ahead By 3

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds surged into a three-game lead in the National League Saturday night as a home run by Wally Post sparked them into a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was the sixth straight triumph for the Reds and came aft the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers lost their sixth straight.

Joey Jay, going all the way, brought his record to 18-7 with a four-hitter and gave the Reds their fifth straight complete pitching performance. He didn't allow a hit after the third inning.

The cards got their run in the opening inning on Curt Flood's triple and a single by Ken Boyer. They also threatened in the third with singles by Curt Simmons and Bill White but Jay worked himself out of trouble.

Singles by Eddie Kasko and Frank Robinson gave Simmons some difficulty in the first inning but he got out of it when Gene Freese flied out.

The Reds got one hit in each of the next three innings but didn't score until the sixth when Kasko's single, a sacrifice and Robinson's single produced a tally.

Post's blow came in the seventh and the Reds got their final run in the eighth on Kasko's single and Robinson's double, a wallop that barely eluded Flood, who made a flying leap for the ball.

Post's homer, which hit the screen in left field, was his 16th. He has hit at least one homer in every park in the league even though playing for the most part against only left-handed pitchers.

BILLY CASPER JR., of Apple Valley, Calif., explodes from sand on the 12th hole in third round play of the $35,000 Indian Spring Open yesterday. Casper continued to lead the field, his 69 giving him a 54-hole total of 206, four strokes under par. He holds a two-stroke lead over Paul Harney going into today's final round.

HAS TWO-STROKE LEAD

Casper Staggers But Holds Margin

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Billy Casper was able to wrest only one stroke from par 70 Saturday but managed to hold the lead through three straight rounds of the $35,000 Indian Spring Open Golf Tournament.

The 69 gave the 30-year-old chubby golfer from Apple Valley, Calif., a 54-hole total of 206, four strokes under par. That sent him into Sunday's final round with a two-stroke lead over the thin man from Worcester, Mass., Paul Harney.

Casper weathered a storm of sub-par rounds by others, including a course record 64 by Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Harney was one of four in the field of 93 to shoot 66 and it gave him a total of 208.

Kroll's conquest of the 7,031-yard course moved him no closer than a seventh.

For the second straight day Casper couldn't get the most out of his usually reliable putter. He battled to stay even with par through the first 13 holes before knocking in two straight birdies. But they were putts of only about 2 feet.

At the last hole, he barely reached the green on his second shot, putted to about 4 feet, couldn't make it and took a bogey 5.

Harney got off to a winging start with birdies on three of the first four holes and picked up another on the sixth, but took a bogey 5 on No. 8. On the second nine, a birdie on the 15th was his only swap with par.

Kroll's deadly use of the 7-iron was the outstanding contribution to his course record. Three times he wielded it to loft the ball to within 2 feet of the cup for birdies. He also sank two 15-foot putts for birdies and his last at the 15th was only 3 feet.

Titans Take 17-7 Victory Over Boston

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Passing by Al Dorow sparked the New York Titans to a 17-7 American Football League exhibition victory over the Boston Patriots Saturday night before nearly 74,000 fans.

The game, sponsored by a grocery store chain, was cut short by fans. With about less than a minute still showing on the clock, fans spilled onto the field and officials decided to call the game.

A pass by Dorow set up one Titan score, and he threw to Don Maynard on a 7-4yard pass play in the third period for another. Maynard took the pass on the run and outraced pursuing Pariots to the goal.

The decision evens the pre-season exhibition series between the teams. Boston beat the Titans 14-3 earlier.

Just before the end of the half, a pass interference play moved New York to the 26, where Guesman kicked a field goal.

The Titans completed the scoring in the third quarter with the 74-yard Powell to Maynard play.

CRAWFORD MOVES UP

Favorites Beaten In Colonial Golf

Greenwood, a 22-year-old from Sparta, Tenn., moved to the semi-finals with a 2 and 1 victory over Ed Brantly, the Tennessee champion from Chattanooga.

In other quarterfinal play, Texas champion Ed Hopkins of Abilene knocked off Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., the national Public Links champ, 1 up in 19 holes; Dick Crawford of Jacksonville, Ark., defeated medalist Frank Beard of Louisville, 4 and 3; and Bob McGee of Ft. Campbell, Ky., eliminated Bob Robinson, Meridian, Miss., 1 up in 19.

Greenwood, who bobbed into contention by upsetting defending champion Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, bogied 13, 14 and 15 to let Brantly pull even. Then Brantly's putter went sour.

On the 16th, Brantly missed a three footer and lost to Greenwood's birdie. On 17, Brantly blew a two foot putt and the match.

In second round play Saturday morning:

Beard defeated Burt Burdick, Baton Rouge, La., 2 and 1.

49ers Open With Home Exhibition

When the 49ers traded veteran Y.A. Tittle to the New York Giants last Tuesday, the job of directing the new shotgun spread offense was left almost exclusively to Brodie, the ex-Stanford star.

"We'll start John, and he might go all the way," said Coach Red Hickey discussing the pre-season game. "We want to see him get all the work he can. On the other hand, we also like to see the other two—Bobby Waters and Bill Kilmer—get experience."

The Browns will have their big one-two punch of Jim Brown and Jim Mitchell at the flanker. Although the Browns dropped a 35-7 decision to the Detroit Lions, they remain one of the top favorites in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

Breaks Thumb

DETROIT (AP) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Dave Hillman suffered a broken left thumb when he was struck in the hand by a line drive hit by Billy Bruton in the eighth inning of Saturday's game with the Detroit Tigers.

Detroit team physician Dr. Russell Wright said Hillman will be out of action for the rest of the season.

Bivens Stars As Bears Clip Redskins 29-13

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Charlie Bivens raced 79 and 93 yards for touchdowns Saturday night to lead the Chicago Bears to a 29-13 victory over the Washington Redskins in a National Football League exhibition game.

Bivens, a two-year defensive back playing offensive halfback for the first time this season, scored both of his touchdowns in the final period.

Rookie quarterback Norman Snead of Wake Forest, on his first play in professional football, threw a 37-yard scoring pass to Bill Anderson. But at the end of the game, Snead, who was Washington's first draft choice among the 1960 collegians, threw five straight incomplete passes.

Another rookie, Bears' defensive tackle Bob Kilcullen of Texas Tech, also got in on the scoring. Kilcullen picked up Skins' quarterback M. C. Reynolds' fumble on the 14 and ran into the end zone.

The teams played a scoreless first quarter and then each scored once in the second for a 7-7 halftime tie. The Bears scored first, climaxing an 86-yard drive with a three-yard scoring pass from Bill Wade to Mike Ditka. Sam Horner, former Virginia Military star, plunged over from the 2 for the Redskins' score after a 70-yard drive.

But the Bears broke it up in the second half with a 12-yard field goal by Roger LeClerc and Kilcullen's score in the third period, followed by Bivens' two long runs in the fourth.

Logart Loses 10-Round Go To Fernandez

Fernandez, a 3½-1 favorite, weighed 150 pounds to Logart's 147¼.

The victory was the 25-year-old Argentine's fifth straight and moved him in line for a title fight with the winner of the Emile Griffith-Benny (Kid) Paret welterweight championship fight Sept. 30.

The three officials voted for Fernandez by the following scores: Judge Bill Recht 7 rounds to 1 and 2 even; Referee Jimmy Devlin and Judge Joe Agnello 8-2 each. The Associated Press had Fernandez in front, 7-3.

Three years ago Logart, then top-ranking welterweight, knocked out Fernandez in the ninth round. Worse for Fernandez, it happened in his home town of Buenos Aires and the defeat has rankled since.

He made up for it with gusto. The stocky, dark-haired South American got off winging in the first three rounds, faded in the next three, and then walloped the 28-year-old Cuban in the final four. In the last round Logart wobbled around the ring from the fury of Jorge's two-fisted attack to head and body.

Fernandez, now the third-ranking welter contender, has a 73-5-1 record. Logart's record is 60-17-8.

Wildcats Lack Vets; Seeking Compensators

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College's football coaches are hoping that hustle, added weight, and unusual mobility will offset the lact of experience among the 1961 Wildcat linemen.

Only 11 of the 21 returning L. C. lettermen are linemen. And no more than four of these could be classified as 1960 first-stringers.

On top of this, several of these monogram-wearers are slated to change positions this fall.

The quartet of 'Cats who saw the most line action last year were Co-Capt. Ross Hannum, 215-pound senior who will change from a tackle to a guard post this year, Charles Darnell, 200-pound senior end, Joe Dosher, 230-pound junior tackle, and Dale Crowder, 225-pound senior tackle.

The 25 line candidates will average 206 pounds. In fact, Mentor Knight can field a first rate line composed of all 200-pounders from end to end. Prospects now point to a 209-pound first line for the 'Cats.

L. C.'s tackles will be beefier than usual, ranging from 260 pounds to 210. Bill Mount, Pineville freshman, will be the heaviest at 260 pounds, Bobby Smith, Baton Rouge junior, will be the lightest at 210.

The seven tackles on the L. C. roster average 231 pounds, with the two probable starters averaging 232. The six guards will tip the beams at a 204-pound average, but the probable first-teamers won't go more than 200 each.

The five centers will average 196, and the seven ends only 194, the squad's lightest. However, the two probable starting flankmen will weigh in at 200 pounds each. Lightest players on the 'Cat line will be the pivotmen, with a 190-pounder listed as a possible starter.

Only two wearers of the Block "L" are returning to man the end posts this fall. They are Darnell, shifted last year from a guard spot, and Ward Alexander, bull-necked junior from Evergreen, Ala. But Gary Corley, nonlettering squadman of '60, and four newcomers, should bulwark this rather thin position.

There are only six block-lettermen among the 1961 guard and tackle candidates. These include a trio of tackles in young Dosher, ex-Jena High star, Dal Crowder, 225 - pounder senior from Ovett, Miss., and Smith.

Another squad member certain to be heard from at tackle this year will be sturdy Larry Restucher, 235-pounder from Moss Point, Miss. "Sonny" Harvison, 230-pound sophomore from Hattiesburg, John Gaston, 225-pound transfer from the University of Arkansas, and Mount are also expected to make their presence felt among the tackles.

The three letter-winning guards on deck, all seniors, will be Co-Capt. Hannum, Zephyrills, Fla., Fulton Beck, McComb, Miss., and Lamar "Bubba" Scott, Pachuta, Miss. All weigh over 200 except Beck, who goes a solid 190.

Returning guard squadmen, James Nichols, 220, and R. V. Skelton, both from Meridian, Miss., and Wayne Greenleaf, 195, Lake Charles, all sophomores, will be back.

Fighting it out for the center post will be Cleve Roberts, scrappy 190-pound junior from Vigor, Ala., only one of five candidates who lettered at this position in 1960, Jimmy Newell, 210-pound Alexandria junior, who lettered last year at guard, and senior squadmen, Ferd Cribbs, 195-pounder from Sumner, Miss., and Wacey Stanton, 190-pounder from New Iberia.

HAVE 31-MAN SQUAD

Lions Must Offset Depth With Spirit To Win In '61

(First in a series on local High School grid prospects)

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

Strong in desire, better than average in talent, but weak depthwise—these are the factors that should determine the success of the Ouachita Lions this fall.

Head Coach Bob Ellen admits depth is his big problem. He and his staff have a 31-man squad, that includes only 12 lettermen from the '59 team.

The veteran coach also indicated that lack of size (163-pound average for the starters) will make it even harder, but was quick to add a couple of factors which may prove a strong anecdote for his "Little People."

Says Coach Ellen, "This is as good a group of kids as I've ever worked with. They have a fine team spirit, a good attitude, and above all they want to win."

"Our starting eleven will be able to hold their own with anybody on our schedule and if we can get some help from our sophomores," he added, "we may surprise a lot of people."

After a visit to one of the Ouachita practice sessions (and training table meals) one can't help but feel an air of expectancy and eagerness as the boys go about their practice routine. Also there's a feeling that these boys have set out to prove something this year — and they just might accomplish their goal.

FOUR STARTERS

Of the 12 lettermen back, four were starters last year. They will be counted on heavily this fall.

Via may be the area's outstanding back this fall. Ellen calls him, "the best boy I've coached since coming to Ouachita in 1956."

Another starter last year is Ernest Lloyd, a 175-pound senior end, who will be the club's best pass receiver and a tough defensive performer.

The other two starters are the reason Ouachita will be strong at guard. Seniors Johnny Butler and Roy Walton are as good as anybody in the district. Both had good seasons last fall and are tabbed rugged.

If Ouachita were playing their first game tomorrow night the starting lineup would probably look like this: Ends — Billy Gerson, (160) and Ernest Lloyd, (175). Tackles — Jimmy Furr, (170) and James Richardson, (180). Guards — Johnny Butler, (175) and Roy Walton, (165). Center — Wincel Bass, (180) or Donnie Letterman, (170). Quarterback — Dennis Warner, (155). Halfbacks — Timmy Gordy, (140) and Butch Oglesbee, (150). Fullback—Bubba Via, (205).

LETTERMEN STARTERS

Out of this group of probable starters eight are lettermen from last year: Lloyd, Furr, Richardson, Btuler, Walton, Letterman, Warner and Via.

Another boy expected to see lots of action, both offensively and defensively is sophomore Larry Lolly. Larry, a six-foot six-inch giant, plays guard. He is very agile and fast and may develop into one of the best linemen in Ouachita history.

Furr and Richardson, the starting tackles, are both comparatively small, but give the Lions speed at the position, plus added agility.

Dennis Warner, a six - footer, will get the nod at the important quarterback slot, and could develop into a top notch signal caller. Warner is more than adequate at throwing the ball, and is a capable runner when needed. Backing up Warner will be Kenneth Slusher, a 175-pound sophomore who shows a lot of promise. Slusher is developing fast and is slated to see a lot of action throughout the year.

At the halfback slots the Lions have two little speedsters in Butch Oglesbee, and Timmy Gordy. They present Coach Ellen with the perfect compliment to Via; the all - the - way threat every team needs.

Homers Put Twins Over Angels, 5-3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Minnesota Twins scored all their runs on homers—including Harmon Killebrew's 37th—and defeated the Los Angeles Angels 5-3 Saturday.

Minnesota left-hander Jim Kaat had a three-hit shutout going into the ninth but was relieved by Ray Moore after Earl Averill tagged him for a two-run homer. A two-out single by pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski brought in a third Angel run.

Len Green hit his sixth homer for the Twins with a man on in the third and Killebrew got his in the same inning with the bases empty.

Zorro Versalles made it 4-0 with a home run in the sixth, and Bill Tuttle produced the fifth Minnesota run with a homer in the eighth.

The victory moved the Twins into a seventh-place tie with Los Angeles.

Kaat, who had lost two previous decisions to the Angels, scored his sixth victory in 18 decisions.

The Twins got 15 hits, 14 of them off loser Ted Bowsfield

Error Allows Pirates 4-3 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Second baseman Jerry Kindall's fumble of Rocky Nelson's soft grounder enabled Dick Groat to score the winning run Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates won a 4-3 thriller in 11 innings from the Chicago Cubs.

It was the second 11-inning game the two teams played in as many days, and this one produced Clem Labine's third victory among four decisions. Labine was the Pirates' fourth pitcher as Chicago starter Jackie Curtis went all the way to balance his record at 8-8.

Pittsburgh took a 2-0 lead in the third on a blend of three hits and an infield out. Joe Christopher and Groat, who had four hits, linked together singles with one out. Then Christopher scored as Roberto Clemente forced Groat.

Dick Stuart followed with a double to center, scoring Clemente.

After failing to score in the fourth with the bases loaded and one out, the Cubs got to Harvey Haddix for a 2-2 standoff in the fifth. This spurt was compounded on three doubles.

Andre Rodgers led off with the first, and scored when Curtis' two-bagger reached the right field vines. Kindall also doubled, scoring Curtis.

Georgia Team Wins Dixie World Series

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The little cornfed flatlanders from Rossville, Ga., Saturday won the Dixie World Series battle, thumping West Columbia, S.C., 5-0 in the final game.

The two-time Georgia state champs ascended the final peak in a long, hard pull to the throne of the Little Boys Baseball kingdom.

Other teams which participated in the classic were the host Lookout Mountain team and these state little boys champs: Airline Park, La., the defending series champions; Hueytown, Ala.; Grenada, Miss.; Cleveland, Tenn.; and Myrtle Grove, Fla.

Saturday's game was sudden death in the double elimination event for boys 12 and under. The South Carolina state champs had already lost one to Rossville and Rossville had been beaten by Airline Park.

The Georgians Saturday were paced by pitcher Ken McGregor who allowed West Columbia only one hit and whiffed 11 with his baffling mixture of speed and a will-o'-the-wisp curve that bit the outer edge of the plate.

Civic awards, given on the basis of tests taken by players in the series, included one to Bill Gaines, Mississippi.

REPEAT OF 1960 UNLIKELY

Deeper, Tougher Demons May Pull Some Surprises

(Another in a series on Gulf States football prospects)

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Winnin only three games while losing six last season, and with a big fat zero for their efforts in the Gulf States Conference, you'd expect pessimism from the coaching staff at Northwestern State College.

But the only advantage of a losing season is that prospects the next season always seem much brighter. It is no surprise, therefore, such expressions as "depth and experience" are heard from Coach Jack Clayton, athletic director and head mentor of the Demons for the past four seasons.

"We will have a young eager squad this fall with more depth in the backfield," Clayton says. "Several backs who were injured last fall will be back. The guard position presents the greatest problem as four top guards graduated. Overall, the team should be improved over last year but still a year away from its best potential."

Twenty - six lettermen return and 9 were lost. Losses were primarily at guard and end. Shifts are being made to bolster the guard spot. The end position remains fairly strong. A host of halfbacks will be trying for playing time, some 15 to be exact; including a couple of highly touted transfers.

BACKFIELD HOTEST

Although the Demons were held scoreless in only one game last season, the 1960 offensive sputtered in the clutch. Hopes for a steadier and more powerful attack are high as the 1961 campaign nears.

"Great improvement in the Demon backfield should be evident," Clayton reports. "Though there is no great size, experience and depth is plentiful," he said. "With five halfbacks lost last year due to injuries, it was difficult to generate a sustained offense. We expect an improved attack this fall. Our quarterbacks will have more maturity and the top three are good passers."

Vic Stelly, Zachary, top passer for the Demons, ranked seventh among the rushing leaders. Stelly's passing performance was 28 completions of 70 tosses for 377 yards and 2 touchdowns, which earned for him fourth place among GSC aerialists. Both Stelly and Aldredge return in 1961.

Also returning for offense assignments are Larry Crow, Merryville quarterback, who completed 12 of 34 passes for 119 yards, and fullback J. M. Maricelli, Merryville, who carried 50 times for a net of 229 yards and a 4.6 average. Aldredge led with 272 net yards in 56 carries for a 4.9.

Halfbacks Steve Murphy, Natchitoches, and Nick Norcia, Owensboro, Ky., were the only two other halfbacks to carry for more than 100 yards, Murphy getting 164 and Norcia 110.

Clayton's offense is the split T with variations. His 1960 quarterbacks threw 119 times and possibly more than that will be attempted in 1961. However, it's the running game which is hoped to generate the offensive push.

Don Beasley, former Natchitoches high star, is expected to provide the purple and white eleven with a third fine quarterback performer. Don was out all of last year but is expected to be in top condition this fall. Also expected to see action are lettermen Dickie Rogers, Palestine, Tex., senior, and Herbie Smith, Shreveport, sophomore.

Fifteen halfbacks are listed on the Demon roster, seven having earned at least one letter. Listed as possible starting halfbacks in Clayton's three-deep chart are Kenny (Stump) Thompson, a Georgia Tech transfer from Kilgore, Tex., and Jerry Burton, a Shreveporter who played in only four games last year before being sidelined by injuries. With Aldredge in the second pair is listed another back out in 1960 with injuries, Lonnie Harper, 1959 letterman. Norcia teams with Donnie Kelly, Ole Miss transfer from Coushatta, in the third bracket.

Other lettermen halfbacks expected to see much action are Troy Burch, Winnfield; Gary Moore, Mansfield, and Murphy, Squadman Glenn Talbert, Gillis, is also expected to be in the thick of the halfback battle.

Three year letterman Maricelli, leads the fullback candidates. Squadman G. W. Zachary, Homer, and transfer Joe Foster, are also expected to make it interesting. Letterman Bob Marshamn, Many, has been transfered from quarterback to the fullback post.

IN THE LINE

"The Deomon line should be adequate," Clyaton says, "but with possible weakness at guard." "Tackle should be our strongest position, although Jerry Fowler, a regular at this position last year, has been moved to guard. The end and center positions are well manned through two units but depth must be developed."

Of nine lettermen lost from the 1960 squad, six were linemen, four guards and two ends. Jerry Didier, one of the guards, was named to the All-Gulf State Conference second team. On the other side of the ledger, however, the end, tackle and center spots seem fairly well manned.

Octave Bernard, Raceland, and Ferrell Yarbrough, provide the Demons with a pair of top rated tackles, with John Odom, Homer, and Jerry Guidry, Raceland, backing them up. Yarbrough, at 225, is the lightest of the tackle quartet.

At end, the Demons have Jackie Smith, Kentwood, who the NSC coaches ranked as All-GSC material last year. Other lettermen slated for front line action are Johnny Norman, Coushatta; Kenneth Hood, Homer; and Roy Gentry, Natchitoches.

In addition to Fowler, other moves to bolster the guard posts were Gerald Yarbrough, Coushatta, from center; and Robert Martin, Mangham, from fullback. Letterman Dickie Mason of Kilgore, Tex., will be back. Seven freshmen and sophomore candidates will be battling for contention at the guard spot.

Center seems adequately fortified with lettermen Jerry Wren, Kilgore, Tex., and Peter Verrett, Raceland, sharing pivot duties and Allen Plummer, Mansfield, in reserve.

The Demon schedule is highlighted by a game in Little Rock October 28 with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, champions of the Southwest Conference in 1960 and Cotton Bowl participant, certainly one of the nation's toughest. The two teams met twice, in 1946 and 1947. Scared silly by an upstart Demon team in a 21-4 win, the Porkers came back to annihilate the Natchitoches eleven the next year with a 64-0 avalanche, restricting Demon movements to a minus 2 yards total offense.

Opening September 16 in the traditional State Fair Stadium tilt with Stephen F. Austin at Shreveport in the battle for the "wooden Indian," the Demons go into a 10-game card. Probably easier to beat than to pronounce, Mexico Instituto Politecnico Nacional provides the opposition in the home opener September 23.

The Demons continue one of the state's longest grid rivalries September 30 when they meet arch foe Louisiana College for the 47th time at Pineville.

First GSC foe the Demons face is Northeast, second home battle set for October 7. Newcomer to the schedule is the University of Corpus Christi. The Tarpons swim in October 14 to Demon Stadium.

leads 32 Chinese "slaves" to new life

Li Sing-sui led 32 Chinese laborers from Red China's torturous slave farms to Hong Kong. Though they knew they would be joining hundreds of thousands of jobless, destitute refugees, they risked their lives for freedom. Fortunately, they were discovered by the Chuk Yuen Refugee Rehabilitation Program. And they are now self-supporting and building their own terror-free futures.

The Chuk Yuen Center for refugees is a direct result of Americans supporting the Overseas Aid Program of their faith. While this endeavor is Protestant, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain far-reaching aid and relief programs.

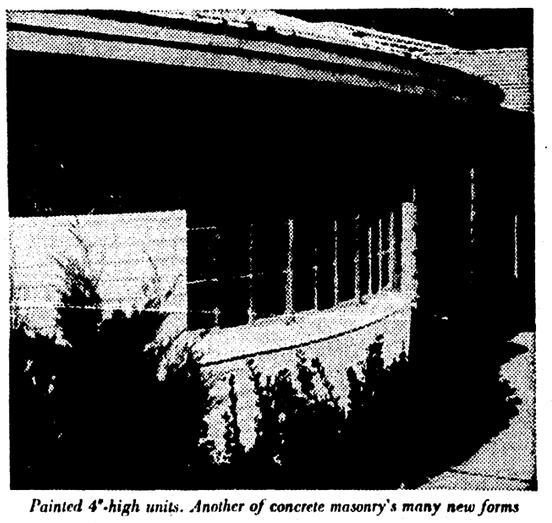

This work goes on, day in and day out . . . and it must continue. These religion-sponsored programs often are the only hope of survival to countless millions of all ages, colors and creeds. Next time you're asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember the needs of others like Li Sing-sui and his friends, who have no other place to turn for help.

Wildcats Lack Vets; Seeking Compensators

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana College's football coaches are hoping that hustle, added weight, and unusual mobility will offset the lact of experience among the 1961 Wildcat linemen.

Only 11 of the 21 returning L. C. lettermen are linemen. And no more than four of these could be classified as 1960 first-stringers.

On top of this, several of these monogram-wearers are slated to change positions this fall.

The quartet of 'Cats who saw the most line action last year were Co-Capt. Ross Hannum, 215-pound senior who will change from a tackle to a guard post this year, Charles Darnell, 200-pound senior end, Joe Dosher, 230-pound junior tackle, and Dale Crowder, 225-pound senior tackle.

The 25 line candidates will average 206 pounds. In fact, Mentor Knight can field a first rate line composed of all 200-pounders from end to end. Prospects now point to a 209-pound first line for the 'Cats.

L. C.'s tackles will be beefier than usual, ranging from 260 pounds to 210. Bill Mount, Pineville freshman, will be the heaviest at 260 pounds, Bobby Smith, Baton Rouge junior, will be the lightest at 210.

The seven tackles on the L. C. roster average 231 pounds, with the two probable starters averaging 232. The six guards will tip the beams at a 204-pound average, but the probable first-teamers won't go more than 200 each.

The five centers will average 196, and the seven ends only 194, the squad's lightest. However, the two probable starting flankmen will weigh in at 200 pounds each. Lightest players on the 'Cat line will be the pivotmen, with a 190-pounder listed as a possible starter.

Only two wearers of the Block "L" are returning to man the end posts this fall. They are Darnell, shifted last year from a guard spot, and Ward Alexander, bull-necked junior from Evergreen, Ala. But Gary Corley, non-lettering squadman of '60, and four newcomers, should bulwark this rather thin position.

There are only six block-lettermen among the 1961 guard and tackle candidates. These include a trio of tackles in young Dosher, ex-Jena High star, Dal Crowder, 225 - pounder senior from Ovett, Miss., and Smith.

Another squad member certain to be heard from at tackle this year will be sturdy Larry Restucher, 235-pounder from Moss Point, Miss. "Sonny" Harvison, 230-pound sophomore from Hattiesburg, John Gaston, 225-pound transfer from the University of Arkansas, and Mount are also expected to make their presence felt among the tackles.

The three letter-winning guards on deck, all seniors, will be Co-Capt. Hannum, Zephyrills, Fla., Fulton Beck, McComb, Miss., and Lamar "Bubba" Scott, Pachuta, Miss. All weigh over 200 except Beck, who goes a solid 190.

Returning guard squadmen, James Nichols, 220, and R. V. Skelton, both from Meridian, Miss., and Wayne Greenleaf, 195, Lake Charles, all sophomores, will be back.

Fighting it out for the center post will be Cleve Roberts, scrappy 190-pound junior from Vigor, Ala., only one of five candidates who lettered at this position in 1960, Jimmy Newell, 210-pound Alexandria junior, who lettered last year at guard, and senior squadmen, Ferd Cribbs, 195-pounder from Sumner, Miss., and Wacey Stanton, 190-pounder from New Iberia.

HAVE 31-MAN SQUAD

Lions Must Offset Depth With Spirit To Win In '61

(First in a series on local High School grid prospects)

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

Strong in desire, better than average in talent, but weak depthwise—these are the factors that should determine the success of the Ouachita Lions this fall.

Head Coach Bob Ellen admits depth is his big problem. He and his staff have a 31-man squad, that includes only 12 lettermen from the '59 team.

The veteran coach also indicated that lack of size (163-pound average for the starters) will make it even harder, but was quick to add a couple of factors which may prove a strong anecdote for his "Little People."

Says Coach Ellen, "This is as good a group of kids as I've ever worked with. They have a fine team spirit, a good attitude, and above all they want to win."

"Our starting eleven will be able to hold their own with anybody on our schedule and if we can get some help from our sophomores," he added, "we may surprise a lot of people."

After a visit to one of the Ouachita practice sessions (and training table meals) one can't help but feel an air of expectancy and eagerness as the boys go about their practice routine. Also there's a feeling that these boys have set out to prove something this year — and they just might accomplish their goal.

FOUR STARTERS

Of the 12 lettermen back, four were starters last year. They will be counted on heavily this fall.

Via may be the area's outstanding back this fall. Ellen calls him, "the best boy I've coached since coming to Ouachita in 1956."

Another starter last year is Ernest Lloyd, a 175-pound senior end, who will be the club's best pass receiver and a tough defensive performer.

The other two starters are the reason Ouachita will be strong at guard. Seniors Johnny Butler and Roy Walton are as good as anybody in the district. Both had good seasons last fall and are tabbed rugged.

If Ouachita were playing their first game tomorrow night the starting lineup would probably look like this: Ends — Billy Gerson, (160) and Ernest Lloyd, (175). Tackles — Jimmy Furr, (170) and James Richardson, (180). Guards — Johnny Butler, (175) and Roy Walton, (165). Center — Wincel Bass, (180) or Donnie Letterman, (170). Quarterback — Dennis Warner, (155). Halfbacks — Timmy Gordy, (140) and Butch Oglesbee, (150). Fullback—Bubba Via, (205).

LETTERMEN STARTERS

Out of this group of probable starters eight are lettermen from last year: Lloyd, Furr, Richardson, Btuler, Walton, Letterman, Warner and Via.

Another boy expected to see lots of action, both offensively and defensively is sophomore Larry Lolly. Larry, a six-foot six-inch giant, plays guard. He is very agile and fast and may develop into one of the best linemen in Ouachita history.

Furr and Richardson, the starting tackles, are both comparatively small, but give the Lions speed at the position, plus added agility.

Dennis Warner, a six - footer, will get the nod at the important quarterback slot, and could develop into a top notch signal caller. Warner is more than adequate at throwing the ball, and is a capable runner when needed. Backing up Warner will be Kenneth Slusher, a 175-pound sophomore who shows a lot of promise. Slusher is developing fast and is slated to see a lot of action throughout the year.

At the halfback slots the Lions have two little speedsters in Butch Oglesbee, and Timmy Gordy. They present Coach Ellen with the perfect compliment to Via; the all - the - way threat every team needs.

Homers Put Twins Over Angels, 5-3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Minnesota Twins scored all their runs on homers—including Harmon Killebrew's 37th—and defeated the Los Angeles Angels 5-3 Saturday.

Minnesota left-hander Jim Kaat had a three-hit shutout going into the ninth but was relieved by Ray Moore after Earl Averill tagged him for a two-run homer. A two-out single by pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski brought in a third Angel run.

Len Green hit his sixth homer for the Twins with a man on in the third and Killebrew got his in the same inning with the bases empty.

Zorro Versalles made it 4-0 with a home run in the sixth, and Bill Tuttle produced the fifth Minnesota run with a homer in the eighth.

The victory moved the Twins into a seventh-place tie with Los Angeles.

Kaat, who had lost two previous decisions to the Angels, scored his sixth victory in 18 decisions.

Error Allows Pirates 4-3 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Second baseman Jerry Kindall's fumble of Rocky Nelson's soft grounder enabled Dick Groat to score the winning run Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates won a 4-3 thriller in 11 innings from the Chicago Cubs.

It was the second 11-inning game the two teams played in as many days, and this one produced Clem Labine's third victory among four decisions. Labine was the Pirates' fourth pitcher as Chicago starter Jackie Curtis went all the way to balance his record at 8-8.

Pittsburgh took a 2-0 lead in the third on a blend of three hits and an infield out. Joe Christopher and Groat, who had four hits, linked together singles with one out. Then Christopher scored as Roberto Clemente forced Groat.

Dick Stuart followed with a double to center, scoring Clemente.

After failing to score in the fourth with the bases loaded and one out, the Cubs got to Harvey Haddix for a 2-2 standoff in the fifth. This spurt was compounded on three doubles.

Andre Rodgers led off with the first, and scored when Curtis' two-bagger reached the right field vines. Kindall also doubled, scoring Curtis.

Elroy Face replaced Haddix in the eighth when Chicago tied it up a second time. Ernie Banks opened with a single, and raced to third on Billy Williams' line single to right. Ron Santo greeted Face with a first-pitch single, scoring Banks for the 3-3 deadlock.

Saturday's game was sudden death in the double elimination event for boys 12 and under. The South Carolina state champs had already lost one to Rossville and Rossville had been beaten by Airline Park.

The Georgians Saturday were paced by pitcher Ken McGregor who allowed West Columbia only one hit and whiffed 11 with his baffling mixture of speed and a will-o'-the-wisp curve that bit the outer edge of the plate.

Civic awards, given on the basis of tests taken by players in the series, included one to Bill Gaines, Mississippi.

leads 32 Chinese "slaves" to new life

Li Sing-sui led 32 Chinese laborers from Red China's torturous slave farms to Hong Kong. Though they knew they would be joining hundreds of thousands of jobless, destitute refugees, they risked their lives for freedom. Fortunately, they were discovered by the Chuk Yuen Refugee Rehabilitation Program. And they are now self-supporting and building their own terror-free futures.

The Chuk Yuen Center for refugees is a direct result of Americans supporting the Overseas Aid Program of their faith. While this endeavor is Protestant, all three great faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain far-reaching aid and relief programs.

This work goes on, day in and day out . . . and it must continue. These religion-sponsored programs often are the only hope of survival to countless millions of all ages, colors and creeds. Next time you're asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember the needs of others like Li Sing-sui and his friends, who have no other place to turn for help.

REPEAT OF 1960 UNLIKELY

Deeper, Tougher Demons May Pull Some Surprises

(Another in a series on Gulf States football prospects)

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Winnin only three games while losing six last season, and with a big fat zero for their efforts in the Gulf States Conference, you'd expect pessimism from the coaching staff at Northwestern State College.

But the only advantage of a losing season is that prospects the next season always seem much brighter. It is no surprise, therefore, such expressions as "depth and experience" are heard from Coach Jack Clayton, athletic director and head mentor of the Demons for the past four seasons.

"We will have a young eager squad this fall with more depth in the backfield," Clayton says. "Several backs who were injured last fall will be back. The guard position presents the greatest problem as four top guards graduated. Overall, the team should be improved over last year but still a year away from its best potential."

Twenty - six lettermen return and 9 were lost. Losses were primarily at guard and end. Shifts are being made to bolster the guard spot. The end position remains fairly strong. A host of halfbacks will be trying for playing time, some 15 to be exact; including a couple of highly touted transfers.

BACKFIELD HOTEST

Although the Demons were held scoreless in only one game last season, the 1960 offensive sputtered in the clutch. Hopes for a steadier and more powerful attack are high as the 1961 campaign nears.

"Great improvement in the Demon backfield should be evident," Clayton reports. "Though there is no great size, experience and depth is plentiful," he said. "With five halfbacks lost last year due to injuries, it was difficult to generate a sustained offense. We expect an improved attack this fall. Our quarterbacks will have more maturity and the top three are good passers."

Vic Stelly, Zachary, top passer for the Demons, ranked seventh among the rushing leaders. Stelly's passing performance was 28 completions of 70 tosses for 377 yards and 2 touchdowns, which earned for him fourth place among GSC aerialists. Both Stelly and Aldredge return in 1961.

Also returning for offense assignments are Larry Crow, Merryville quarterback, who completed 12 of 34 passes for 119 yards, and fullback J. M. Maricelli, Merryville, who carried 50 times for a net of 229 yards and a 4.6 average. Aldredge led with 272 net yards in 56 carries for a 4.9.

Halfbacks Steve Murphy, Natchitoches, and Nick Norcia, Owensboro, Ky., were the only two other halfbacks to carry for more than 100 yards, Murphy getting 164 and Norcia 110.

Clayton's offense is the split T with variations. His 1960 quarterbacks threw 119 times and possibly more than that will be attempted in 1961. However, it's the running game which is hoped to generate the offensive push.

Don Beasley, former Natchitoches high star, is expected to provide the purple and white eleven with a third fine quarterback performer. Don was out all of last year but is expected to be in top condition this fall. Also expected to see action are lettermen Dickie Rogers, Palestine, Tex., senior, and Herbie Smith, Shreveport, sophomore.

Fifteen halfbacks are listed on the Demon roster, seven having earned at least one letter. Listed as possible starting halfbacks in Clayton's three-deep chart are Kenny (Stump) Thompson, a Georgia Tech transfer from Kilgore, Tex., and Jerry Burton, a Shreveporter who played in only four games last year before being sidelined by injuries. With Aldredge in the second pair is listed another back out in 1960 with injuries, Lonnie Harper, 1959 letterman. Norcia teams with Donnie Kelly, Ole Miss transfer from Coushatta, in the third bracket.

Other lettermen halfbacks expected to see much action are Troy Burch, Winnfield; Gary Moore, Mansfield, and Murphy. Squadman Glenn Talbert, Gillis, is also expected to be in the thick of the halfback battle.

Three year letterman Maricelli, leads the fullback candidates. Squadman G. W. Zachary, Homer, and transfer Joe Foster, are also expected to make it interesting. Letterman Bob Marshamn, Many, has been transfered from quarterback to the fullback post.

IN THE LINE

"The Deomon line should be adequate," Clyaton says, "but with possible weakness at guard." "Tackle should be our strongest position, although Jerry Fowler, a regular at this position last year, has been moved to guard. The end and center positions are well manned through two units but depth must be developed."

Of nine lettermen lost from the 1960 squad, six were linemen, four guards and two ends. Jerry Didier, one of the guards, was named to the All-Gulf State Conference second team. On the other side of the ledger, however, the end, tackle and center spots seem fairly well manned.

Octave Bernard, Raceland, and Ferrell Yarbrough, provide the Demons with a pair of top rated tackles, with John Odom, Homer, and Jerry Guidry, Raceland, backing them up. Yarbrough, at 225, is the lightest of the tackle quartet.

At end, the Demons have Jackie Smith, Kentwood, who the NSC coaches ranked as All-GSC material last year. Other lettermen slated for front line action are Johnny Norman, Coushatta; Kenneth Hood, Homer; and Roy Gentry, Natchitoches.

In addition to Fowler, other moves to bolster the guard posts were Gerald Yarbrough, Coushatta, from center; and Robert Martin, Mangham, from fullback. Letterman Dickie Mason of Kilgore, Tex., will be back. Seven freshmen and sophomore candidates will be battling for contention at the guard spot.

Center seems adequately fortified with lettermen Jerry Wren, Kilgore, Tex., and Peter Verrett, Raceland, sharing pivot duties and Allen Plummer, Mansfield, in reserve.

The Demon schedule is highlighted by a game in Little Rock October 28 with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, champions of the Southwest Conference in 1960 and Cotton Bowl participant, certainly one of the nation's toughest. The two teams met twice, in 1946 and 1947. Scared silly by an upstart Demon team in a 21-4 win, the Porkers came back to annihilate the Natchitoches eleven the next year with a 64-0 avalanche, restricting Demon movements to a minus 2 yards total offense.

Opening September 16 in the traditional State Fair Stadium tilt with Stephen F. Austin at Shreveport in the battle for the "wooden Indian," the Demons go into a 10-game card. Probably easier to beat than to pronounce, Mexico Instituto Politecnico Nacional provides the opposition in the home opener September 23.

The Demons continue one of the state's longest grid rivalries September 30 when they meet arch foe Louisiana College for the 47th time at Pineville.

First GSC foe the Demons face is Northeast, second home battle set for October 7. Newcomer to the schedule is the University of Corpus Christi. The Tarpons swim in October 14 to Demon Stadium.

Springhill Is Arlington Go Winner By 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Spring Hill Farm's Tudorich, a 13-1 shot, sped to a four-length victory Saturday to win the $58,400 Arlington Handicap at Arlington Park.

The 4-year-old brown colt broke in front as the horses came down the stretch to defeat favored Oink in the 1 3-16-mile race on the turf.

Oink, owned by Jacnot Stable and ridden by Johnny Sellers, was favored by the crowd of 26,077 but could do no better than second.

Jockey Sandino Hernandez kept Tudorich within range and never too far behind. Midway in the stretch Tudorich broke out into the lead. Although Oink closed fast he was unable to catch the winner. Oink finished two lengths ahead of Kerr Stables Prince Blessed.

Tudorich earned $35,900, more than his entire previous winnings of $28,233. The winner was timed in 1:57 4-5.

Oink was handicapped with top weight of 126 pounds, giving six to 22 pounds to the opposition. He just couldn't find room when he reached the top of the stretch. Sellers took him out in the stretch but Tudorich had too big a lead to overcome.

Tudorich paid $29.40, $12.60 and $6.80. Oink paid $3.80 and $2.60 and Prince Blessed paid $3.40.

Wildcat Gridder Out Of Uniform For Entire Year

Coach Milford Andrews said that the injury was not sustained in in practice.

Emfinger was resting at a teammate's home between the 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. practice sessions when he received a blow on the back in a playful scuffle which broke a transverse process.

He was the most aggressive player on the team, and was a standout on both offense and defense in every game.

RED SHIRTS, FROSH MUST PRODUCE

Rowan Is Leaning Heavily On Rookie Talent This Fall

Rookies, like children are supposed to be seen and not heard but Northeast grid fans should be hearing a lot from a promising crop of non-lettermen performers who'll be in action for the Indians this fall.

With several shallow spots to fill — especially quarterback — Northeast grid mentor Jack Rowan is banking on newcomers and red shirts to back up his 18-man lettermen corps. Northeast lost 17 letter winners from the 1960 team and Rowan's rookies loom large in his rebuilding plans.

Rowan's No. 1 concern is the quarterback post where only Don Wattigny (175) returns. Mundy Breazeale (180), a Mississippi product who was a red shirt last fall, is expected to spell Wattigny most of the time. An all-league performer in Mississippi's tough Choctaw Conference while in high school, Breazeale has all the equipment to make a capable college field general.

Two talented newcomers, freshman Ronnie Myrick of Oak Grove and Johnny Garrett of Jonesboro, are expected to also be in the quarterback scramble come September. Myrick has impressive prep credentials. He was one of the top class A passers in the state at Oak Grove last year and made the all-state second team. Garrett was a fine prep passer at Jonesboro - Hodge in 1958 and has also had experience at halfback, which indicates he knows what to do with the ball when he isn't throwing it.

Experience - wise, the halfback posts are the strongest on the Northeast squad with five lettermen returning. But Ken Newton (175) is a fellow who should muscle his way into action in a hurry. An all-state halfback and one of Louisiana's leading scorers in 1959 at Delhi, Newton is one of the team's fastest men and a prime long-distance threat.

Bill McClung (170), former Bossier ace, was red shirted last fall but should be ready for action this year as should Gordon Salsman (185), rated a strong contender for the left half starting spot. A service returnee, Salsman participated in Northeast's 1959 spring drills. Among the better freshmen prospects are two Byrd standouts, Johnny Nolan (190) and Dean Mann (180). Nolan is a fine defensive performer and Mann is an excellent runner.

Red shirt Roy Goodwin (195) turned in fine spring work at fullback and is being counted on to back up Willie Ragan (175) and Devone Payne (190). Ronnie Graham (190), a workhorse at Ruston last year, will be available. He's considered a fine prospect, especially as a linebacker. Another good linebacker is red shirt R. F. Wilson, former Neville star.

Bo Dick Smith (186), the ex-Bernice fullback, did a fine job at his new position, end, during spring drills and should see varsity action. A service returnee, Bruce Soignier (200), is another end candidate and a strong one. A Houma boy, he has a younger brother, tackle Jeery, on the Tribe squad.

Freshman flank prospects are Billy Cornett (175), a Ouachita product, Bob Lampard (195) of New Orleans, Wendell Drost (190) of Sulpher and Tallulah's Charlie Grace (180). Lampard may replace John Kelly as the Tribe punter and Cornett was impressive in spring practice. Drost and Grace are considered good bets for future stardom.

Tony Allen (215), Jerry Ferguson (213), Pat Percey (208) and Kirby Desormeaux (215) are red shirt tackles who should see action this fall. Allen is from Atlanta, Ga., Percey's from Monroe while Ferguson and Desormeaux are New Iberia products. Richard Branch, big (240) and fast, could be the tackle find of the lot if he lives up to his high school record. The 21-year-old married man received all-America mention as a prep star at El Dorado, Ark., in 1959.

Two hefty frosh (both 235), Bill Burns of Shreveport's Byrd and Jerry Soignier of Houma, are highly regarded by the Tribe staff. Both were all-district performers last year.

At guard, Leon Martin, former Bastrop standout, lacks weight (he's 175) but nothing else. He was a red shirt last year. The Richard twins, Jimmy and Dennis, should give Tribe foes double trouble in a year or so. Both 205, the twins played high school ball at De La Salle of New Orleans last year.

Newellton's Joe McClain (190), an all-state tackle in high school, is one of the better freshmen guards. The other frosh guards, all rated excellent prospects, are Charles Beach (210) of Byrd, big Donald Borne (240) of Kraemer and O. J. Louviere (215) of LaGrange High.

The top center candidates are lettermen Billy Foster (230), an ex-guard, and Bob Tatum (215), a tackle in 1960, but red shirt Thomas Harvey (215) was impressive in spring work and freshman Tommy Beaube (210), a fullback at Ouachita last fall, is considered a comer. Harvey was a prep standout at Behrman High in New Orleans.

MUNDY BREAZEALE, 180-pound quarterback from Mississippi, will be called on to support regular Don Wattigny this fall. Breazeale, who red shirted last season is said to have the all talent needed to make a capable college signal caller. Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

Shoemaker Is Race Winner At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker, one of the world's top jockeys, celebrated his 30th birthday Saturday by riding Divine Comedy, the 3-2 favorite, to victory in the 58th running of the $50,000 Saratoga Handicap.

A crowd of 23,543 saw the Llangollen Farm colt chalk up his first stakes victory of the year under 123 pounds. He won by a length from High Tide Stable's fast-closing Whodunit, winner of the Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park last month.

C. V. Whitney's Tompion, the second choice, was a tiring third, after forcing the pace, and finished another length away.

Springhill Is Arlington Go Winner By 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Spring Hill Farm's Tudorich, a 13-1 shot, sped to a four-length victory Saturday to win the $58,400 Arlington Handicap at Arlington Park.

The 4-year-old brown colt broke in front as the horses came down the stretch to defeat favored Oink in the 1 3-16-mile race on the turf.

Oink, owned by Jacnot Stable and ridden by Johnny Sellers, was favored by the crowd of 26,077 but could do no better than second.

Jockey Sandino Hernandez kept Tudorich within range and never too far behind. Midway in the stretch Tudorich broke out into the lead. Although Oink closed fast he was unable to catch the winner. Oink finished two lengths ahead of Kerr Stables Prince Blessed.

Tudorich earned $35,900, more than his entire previous winnings of $28,233. The winner was timed in 1:57 4-5.

Oink was handicapped with top weight of 126 pounds, giving six to 22 pounds to the opposition. He just couldn't find room when he reached the top of the stretch. Sellers took him out in the stretch but Tudorich had too big a lead to overcome.

Tudorich paid $29.40, $12.60 and $6.80. Oink paid $3.80 and $2.60 and Prince Blessed paid $3.40.

Wildcat Gridder Out Of Uniform For Entire Year

Coach Milford Andrews said that the injury was not sustained in in practice.

Emfinger was resting at a teammate's home between the 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. practice sessions when he received a blow on the back in a playful scuffle which broke a transverse process.

He was the most aggressive player on the team, and was a standout on both offense and defense in every game.

RED SHIRTS, FROSH MUST PRODUCE

Rookies, like children are supposed to be seen and not heard but Northeast grid fans should be hearing a lot from a promising crop of non-lettermen performers who'll be in action for the Indians this fall.

With several shallow spots to fill — especially quarterback — North east grid mentor Jack Rowan is banking on newcomers and red shirts to back up his 18-man lettermen corps. Northeast lost 17 letter winners from the 1960 team and Rowan's rookies loom large in his rebuilding plans.

Rowan's No. 1 concern is the quarterback post where only Don Wattigny (175) returns. Mundy Breazeale (180), a Mississippi product who was a red shirt last fall, is expected to spell Wattigny most of the time. An all-league performer in Mississippi's tough Choctaw Conference while in high school, Breazeale has all the equipment to make a capable college field general.

Two talented newcomers, freshman Ronnie Myrick of Oak Grove and Johnny Garrett of Jonesboro, are expected to also be in the quarterback scramble come September. Myrick has impressive prep credentials. He was one of the top class A passers in the state at Oak Grove last year and made the all-state second team. Garrett was a fine prep passer at Jonesboro - Hodge in 1958 and has also had experience at halfback, which indicates he knows what to do with the ball when he isn't throwing it.

Experience - wise, the halfback posts are the strongest on the Northeast squad with five lettermen returning. But Ken Newton (175) is a fellow who should muscle his way into action in a hurry. An all-state halfback and one of Louisiana's leading scorers in 1959 at Delhi, Newton is one of the team's fastest men and a prime long-distance threat.

Bill McClung (170), former Bossier ace, was red shirted last fall but should be ready for action this year as should Gordon Salsman (185), rated a strong contender for the left half starting spot. A service returnee, Salsman participated in Northeast's 1959 spring drills. Among the better freshmen prospects are two Byrd standouts, Johnny Nolan (190) and Dean Mann (180). Nolan is a fine defensive performer and Mann is an excellent runner.

Red shirt Roy Goodwin (195) turned in fine spring work at fullback and is being counted on to back up Willie Ragan (175) and Devone Payne (190). Ronnie Graham (190), a workhorse at Ruston last year, will be available. He's considered a fine prospect, especially as a linebacker. Another good linebacker is red shirt R. F. Wilson, former Neville star.

Bo Dick Smith (186), the ex-Bernice fullback, did a fine job at his new position, end, during spring drills and should see varsity action. A service returnee, Bruce Soignier (200), is another end candidate and a strong one. A Houma boy, he has a younger brother, tackle Jeery, on the Tribe squad.

Freshman flank prospects are Billy Cornett (175), a Ouachita product, Bob Lampard (195) of New Orleans, Wendell Drost (190) of Sulpher and Tallulah's Charlie Grace (180). Lampard may replace John Kelly as the Tribe punter and Cornett was impressive in spring practice. Drost and Grace are considered good bets for future stardom.

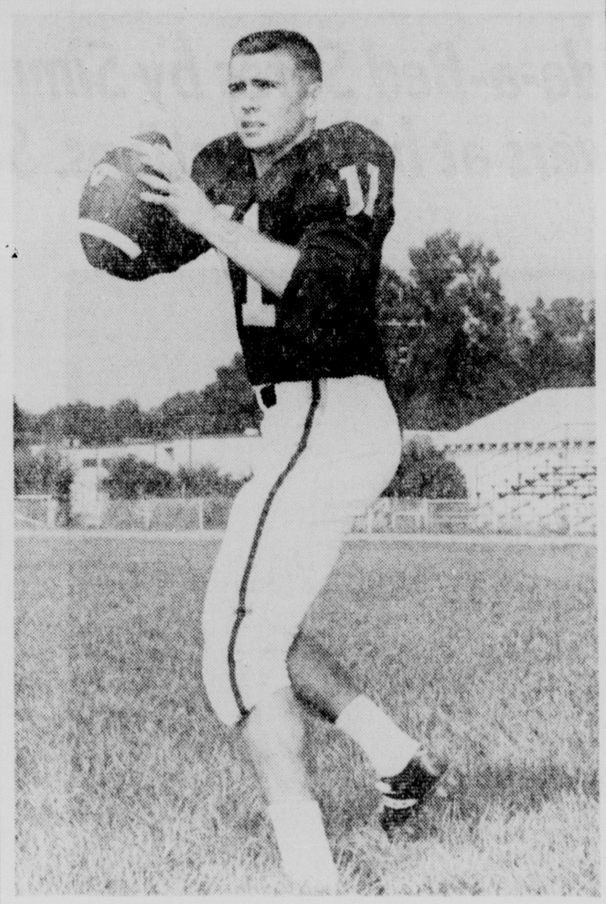

Tony Allen (215), Jerry Ferguson (213), Pat Percey (208) and Kirby Desormeaux (215) are red shirt tackles who should see action this fall. Allen is from Atlanta, Ga., Percey's from Monroe while Ferguson and Desormeaux are New Iberia products. Richard Branch, big (240) and fast, could be the tackle find of the lot if he lives up to his high school record. The 21-year-old married man received all-America mention as a prep star at El Dorado, Ark., in 1959.

Two hefty frosh (both 235), Bill Burns of Shreveport's Byrd and Jerry Soignier of Houma, are highly regarded by the Tribe staff. Both were all-district performers last year.

At guard, Leon Martin, former Bastrop standout, lacks weight (he's 175) but nothing else. He was a red shirt last year. The Richard twins, Jimmy and Dennis, should give Tribe foes double trouble in a year or so. Both 205, the twins played high school ball at De La Salle of New Orleans last year.

Newellton's Joe McClain (190), an all-state tackle in high school, is one of the better freshmen guards. The other frosh guards, all rated excellent prospects, are Charles Beach (210) of Byrd, big Donald Borne (240) of Kraemer and O. J. Louviere (215) of LaGrange High.

The top center candidates are lettermen Billy Foster (230), an ex-guard, and Bob Tatum (215), a tackle in 1960, but red shirt Thomas Harvey (215) was impressive in spring work and freshman Tommy Beaube (210), a fullback at Ouachita last fall, is considered a comer. Harvey was a prep standout at Behrman High in New Orleans.

MUNDY BREAZEALE, 180-pound quarterback from Mississippi, will be called on to support regular Don Wattigny this fall. Breazeale, who red shirted last season is said to have the all talent needed to make a capable college signal caller. Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

Shoemaker Is Race Winner At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker, one of the world's top jockeys, celebrated his 30th birthday Saturday by riding Divine Comedy, the 3-2 favorite, to victory in the 58th running of the $50,000 Saratoga Handicap.

A crowd of 23,543 saw the Llangollen Farm colt chalk up his first stakes victory of the year under 123 pounds. He won by a length from High Tide Stable's fast-closing Whodunit, winner of the Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park last month.

C. V. Whitney's Tompion, the second choice, was a tiring third, after forcing the pace, and finished another length away.

Vibrant Colors Revealed In Fall Corduroy

A fabric that is a perennial favorite with American women — Corduroy — has taken on a new fashion significance for the 1961 fall season. Vibrant colors, luxurious textures and elegant styling are spotlighted in corduroy styles for town, campus and suburbia.

One of the designers featuring corduroy for fall has created an extensive group of coordinates called "Villager Cords." Colors in the group are clear, dazling tones of teal, persimmon, gold, plum, vanilla (a stunning new neutral) and black. The fabric is rich tenwale cotton corduroy.

The eased silhouette is emphasized in villager cord styles. Elegant, lined jackets that fall straight from the shoulder to the waist or hips combine with flared or slim skirts for town wear. Free and easy jack shirts and jerkins top culottes, skirts, Bermuda shorts and glovefit bachelor pants for campus and suburban wear. As dramatic coordinates, Baguette Jacquard wool sweaters in multicolor weaves are shown. Or, if you prefer, you can team the Villager Cord coordinates with orlon sweaters and dacron - cotton shirtmates in matching tones. Colorful Cottons Ablaze In Home

Cotton's reputation for durability, comfort, ease of care, and versatility often overshadows one of its biggest attractions as a home furnishings fabric — color. Cotton's affinity for fast dyes makes it the ideal fiber for richness, naturalness, brightness, and variety of color.

This quality is expecially important in the fall. As the solid greens of trees and grass turn into multihued browns, golds, and oranges, homemakers begin to plan changes of drapes, slip covers, bedspreads, and other items to make the colors inside their homes as beautifully burnished as those nature is sporting.

Cotton makes it possible for the homemaker to achieve a complete metamorphosis in her furnishings. Cotton's fall colors run the width of the autumnal spectrum, and the selection of fabrics — from luxurious quilted types to newly colorful ticking — has never been greater.

Vibrant Colors Revealed In Fall Corduroy

A fabric that is a perennial favorite with American women — Corduroy — has taken on a new fashion significance for the 1961 fall season. Vibrant colors, luxurious textures and elegant styling are spotlighted in corduroy styles for town, campus and suburbia.

One of the designers featuring corduroy for fall has created an extensive group of coordinates called "Villager Cords." Colors in the group are clear, dazling tones of teal, persimmon, gold, plum, vanilla (a stunning new neutral) and black. The fabric is rich tenwale cotton corduroy.

The eased silhouette is emphasized in villager cord styles. Elegant, lined jackets that fall straight from the shoulder to the waist or hips combine with flared or slim skirts for town wear. Free and easy jack shirts and jerkins top culottes, skirts, Bermuda shorts and glovefit bachelor pants for campus and suburban wear. As dramatic coordinates, Baguette Jacquard wool sweaters in multicolor weaves are shown. Or, if you prefer, you can team the Villager Cord coordinates with orlon sweaters and dacron - cotton shirtmates in matching tones. Casual Air Seen In Fashion For Back-To-School

Back-to-school sportswear and coats for next fall have left the city far behind and are altogether casual and countrified. Dresses and dress-up coats are casual, too, but in a more sophisticated vein. Here the influence is definitely Paris couture and first lady fashion.

This is the broad picture of this years back-to-school fashions as reported by the editors of Woment's Wear Daily. Of course, they point out, traditional styles are still with us, but it's the understated number with off-hand elegance that will make big news for fall, 1961. The new shaping, a happy amalgam of Paris and American couture, is the best thing that has ever happened to little girls. It enhances the figure contour but never confines it. Mobility is the keynote.

Dresses, for instance, take easy bodices and low-flare or low pleated skirts; coats (aside from the suburban variety) are demi-fit or subtly flared, even in litthe fluid line with crop or long loose tops, swing skirts and low-waist slightly flared jumpers that give an aura of motion even on the hanger.

Color—the brighter the better—sparkles in coats, dresses and sportswear. Magenta was the front-runner at earliest stages, but as the season shaped up, magenta turned to vivid purple-pink and stayed there. Clear, bright blue and green, and rust-to-gold tones are the other big three that turn up everywhere.

MR. AND MRS. GUY ALBERT LUNO JR.

Veronica Wilds, Mr. Luno Exchange Wedding Vows

Nuptial Mass solemnized Thursday, August 10 in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church united in marriage Miss Veronica Wilds, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ernest Wilds Jr., of Monroe, and Guy Albert Luno Jr., son of Mrs. Guy Albert Luno Sr., and the late Mr. Luno of Winnsboro.

The Reverend George Martinez officiated at the double ring ceremony at 10 a.m. before a large assemblage of guests who received Missals for the Day of Marriage, inscribed with names of the bridal couple.

Cathedral candles on the main altar were lighted by Charles Wilds III, brother of the bride and William Frank McStravick, serving as altar boys. On either end of the altar were arrangements of Killian daisies and white gladioli in brass urns with similar arrangements of the flowers in smaller urns placed on the altar of the Blessed Mother and the altar of Saint Joseph. The couple knelt for the holy sacrament on a white satin prie dieu.

Bobby Wilson, organist, presented a concert of nuptial music and accompanied John Howard Pierpont, who sang Ave Maria and On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk peau de soie, with brief-sleeved bodice of re-embroidered French Calais lace designed on princess lines, extending to a point in front and back below the waistline. A Sabrina neckline was embellished in tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins and the bouffant skirt featured appliques of the re-embroidered Calais lace. Two roses centered the bustle effect in back which swept into a chapel train. Her veil of French silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and she wore mitts of matching peau de soie, and carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis. Her only adornment was an heirloom drop pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Carol Cole and bridesmaid was Miss Charlotte Luno, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical short gowns of white silk organza, styled with scoop necklines and brief sleeves. White velvet streamers encircled their waists and fell to the hemlines. Their headdresses were circlets of English ivy and they wore white satin shoes and short white kid gloves and carried sprays of ivy with Killian daisies.

William Oxley Humphreys of Baton Rouge, served his cousin as best man. Ushers were Bunnie McKoin Cummins, Richard William Burgoyne, Edward Simonton Harper III, Henry Morgan Thomas, Charles Howard Hatfield of Winnsboro and Harold K. Quinn of Shreveport.

Mrs. Wilds wore for her daughter's wedding a bone colored dress with fitted lace bodice and full skirt of cotton chiffon. She wore a coif fashioned of chiffon leaves with a circular veil and her shoes, bag and gloves were of matching bone. Her corsage was a pale green cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Luno chose a shell pink sheath of imported silk brocade, with matching shoes, bag and petite hat. She wore elbow length white kid gloves and her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Focal point in the foyer where Mrs. Winnie Cole and Mrs. Henry Guerriero greeted guests was a large gold epergne filled with a white arrangement of stock tuberoses and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Jamar Adcock welcomed guests at the entrance into the ballroom. Seated at the bride's book table were Mrs. George Guerriero and Mrs. A. M. Guerriero. The table was graced with a memory candle in a milk glass compote encircled with English ivy.

Classic urns of white gladioli and magnolia buds formed a background for the receiving line. A circular table covered with white net over white satin, garlanded with fern and tuberoses held the tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a replica of the bride's bouquet. Presiding at the cake were Mrs. James Perabo, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Thomas Charles Dansby. Centering a serving table, overlaid with an Italian cutwork cloth was a large silver epergne arranged with white stock chrysanthemums and tuberoses with branched candelabra on either side holding white tapers. Kitchen Dust Drop

A new variation of an old idea is to install a "dust drop" in your kitchen floor. This consists eof a hinged panel along t baseboard which will swing open from the top when pressure is applied — and swing closed again by its own weight. When cleaning the floor, simply brush the dirt around to the opening and push it through! The operation is even easier when floors are finished with smooth - surfaced materials like ceramic tile to which dirt won't cling. A chute or duct will guide the dirt from your dust drop to a receptacle in the basement.

Convienence Corner

Even the smallest kitchen should have a corner set aside for the home "office." A small shelf that will hold a telephone and note pad is the only basic requirement. A ceramic tile surface will give this tiny but all - important kitchen headquarters a fitting flare of color and make it the easiest spot in the house to clean — aside from areas in your home already surfaced with real tile.

They wore identical short gowns of white silk organza, styled with scoop necklines and brief sleeves. White velvet streamers encircled their waists and fell to the hemlines. Their headdresses were circlets of English ivy and they wore white satin shoes and short white kid gloves and carried sprays of ivy with Killian daisies.

Focal point in the foyer where Mrs. Winnie Cole and Mrs. Henry Guerriero greeted guests was a large gold epergne filled with a white arrangement of stock tuberoses and chrysanthemums. Presiding at the cake were Mrs. James Perabo, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Thomas Charles Dansby. Convienence Corner

Even the smallest kitchen should have a corner set aside for the home "office." A small shelf that will hold a telephone and note pad is the only basic requirement. A ceramic tile surface will give this tiny but all - important kitchen headquarters a fitting flare of color and make it the easiest spot in the house to clean — aside from areas in your home already surfaced with real tile.

Kitchen Dust Drop

A new variation of an old idea is to install a "dust drop" in your kitchen floor. This consists eof a hinged panel along t baseboard which will swing open from the top when pressure is applied — and swing closed again by its own weight. When cleaning the floor, simply brush the dirt around to the opening and push it through! The operation is even easier when floors are finished with smooth - surfaced materials like ceramic tile to which dirt won't cling. A chute or duct will guide the dirt from your dust drop to a receptacle in the basement.

An enthusiastic group of nearly three hundred enjoyed the Las Vegas party at Bayou DeSiard country club last Saturday night. A tall cut-out figure of a cowboy and a "Welcome to Las Vegas" sign decorated the entrance of the club. Inside, walls were covered with large playing cards, roulette wheels, poker hands.

As members and guests arrived, they received boxes of chips valued at several hundred dollars, with which they played black jack, roulette, poker, or craps at tables set up in the young people's lounge.

In the ballroom a standing buffet of tiny hot tamales, ham, corned beef, cheeses, and turkey with assorted breads for sandwiches, and dips was served. Centering the buffet was a large brass container, embossed with playing cards, holding a mass arrangement of greenery, accented with poker hands and a figure of a dealer.

Prizes were awarded during the evening. BERT ROOT and JOE MARX were winners of door prizes. "Big winners' for the evening, who also received prizes were HAYDN CUTLER and SALLIE GAINNIE.

Members of the crowd were dressed for Las Vegas: some in shorts and pedal pushers; some in elegant cocktail dresses; and a scattering of cowboys and dance hall girls. Best group prize was given to three couples dressed to represent characters in "Gunsmoke." In the party were the HERBERT LANDS, JR., the D. F. BURKHALTERS, and the W. E. VANDERBRINKS. (The last named, guests of the Burkhalters, were here for a week en route from Topeka, Kansas, to their new home in Hawaii.) ... BETTY B. and JACK TOM JACKSON won the couple's prize. Betty B's black taffeta dress was caught up with a bright red rose over a black and white striped petticoat. Jack Tom wore a suit of race-track plaid with a red vest; his hair carefully parted in the middle and slicked to each side.

Among the out of towners noted at the party were BETTY and JOHN HUBER of Lake Charles; the DAVID SNYDERS of Bastrop; MARTHA and CURTIS PARKER of Shreveport; MICKEY and FRED PALMER of New Orleans; ELIZABETH and TOBY TROWBRIDGE of Jackson, Mississippi.

Guests of the J. B. GAINNIES at the party and for the weekend were his brother and sister-in-law, LONNIE and MARIAN GAINNIE of Shreveport. These visitors and the Trowbridges were guests of honor at a milk punch party Sunday morning at the A. T. VAN VECKHOVENS. Ann invited old friends of the visitors to stop in for a visit and what with the rain catching them, there was time for a lengthy chat.

The LOUIS MASURS, JR., also had out of town guests for the Las Vegas party. Esther's brother, sister, and brother-in-law from New Orleans were here: the HERBERT PAIGES and LOUIS DARTON. The three, with the Paige's daughter DONNA SUE, were here about ten days, left Monday.

The high school set has enjoyed a round of festivities this week complimenting SUZANNE RENDER of Dallas, guest of the JOHN MULLENS. On Tuesday NELL FAUCETT invited a group for a trip to Bernstein park, and miniature golf, followed by ice cream sodas. Wednesday, Marge Mullens was hostess for luncheon at home. An arrangement of fruit centered the table where six guests were seated. On the menu were a frozen fruit salad, chicken salad, pickled peaches, hot rolls — with cookie shells filled with ice cream and hot fudge sauce for dessert.

A conversational hour on Thursday morning complimented Suzanne, with CHARLOTTIE DENT and VIRGINIA HARGROVE, hostesses. Masses of greenery decorated Charlottie's new family room, and stood on the wide brick hearth. Zinnias in bright summer colors centered the table where lemonade and nibbling food were served to fifteen guests. On Friday night, [illegible] honored Suzanne at a patio supper. Four couples attended.

Charlottie and Nell were hostesses again on Friday night, when they entertained at an old-fashioned ice cream social honoring the J. D. WINKS, our visitors from Italy. They served ice cream and a choice of chocolate or butterscotch sauce, with cake, sugar cookies and Brownies. All homemade, of course. Thirty-five guests were offered these pleasant alternatives . . After a visit of several weeks, Fay and J. D. are due to leave a week from today for Milan.

Here with the CLIFTON [illegible] ANN and HALL PEYTON, who arrived Friday from Dallas, Texas. They will be here until Wednesday, when they leave for Providence, Rhode Island, where they will be living for the next several years.

Out of town guests expected to arrive Wednesday are ELIZABETH PRINCE BENNETT of Silver Springs, Maryland national president of Children of the American Revolution; and MRS. JAMES HENRY SUMMERVILLE of Charlotte, North Carolina, the group's senior national president. They will be guests of honor at a coffee planned by Lt. Joseph Bowmar chapter for this coming Thursday morning, August 24, from ten until twelve-thirty. Members of the local chapter, their mothers, and DAR members from the area are invited to the affair in the home of SUZONNE KELLOGG, 1401 Park avenue.

The W. S. BUCKLEYS JR., had as their guests their son ALBERT, his wife MARGUERITE, and three children, AL, DONALD, and MELINDA, of Roanoke, Virginia. Marguerite was honored at a small morning party last Friday, during their week's visit. Pink carnations and althea decorated the table where a choice of coffee [illegible] drinks was served to about nine guests.

Here this weekend from Houston, Texas are AILEEN and HARRY GORDON, guests of the HARRY SILVERSTEINS. They have been entertained at several parties, including a dinner hosted by BERTHA MARIE and MILTON GORN Friday night, and a party last night given by Harry and Alice.

Thursday was departure day for MARY PEARL JARRELL, who is en route to Hawaii on a three weeks trip. Mary Pearl went first to Houston, where she joined her aunts MRS. J. F. WEDGEWORTH of Ruston, and MRS. JOHN DOWNS of Houston. They will spend four days in San Francisco before sailing on the Lurline. On the way back, they plan to stop in Disneyland.

In New York for two weeks are ARMANDINE RENAUD and IRENE QUINN WAKLEY. They were accompanied by TERRI GOLSON and GLENN GOLSON, JR., who will also visit relatives in New Jersey.

A welcome - home party for JAN ADCOCK was the luncheon given by CLAIRE BROWN in her home last Friday. The twelve guests, all of whom graduated from high school this year, enjoyed comparing notes on their various summer activities. Jan's pictures, made on her trip to Europe this summer, arrived that day in time to be seen at the party. Red roses were used on the buffet table, and trailing ivy on individual tables where the girls were seated.

Of poems that tell a sad story, this one has quite the gayest little meter of all. "Robinson Crusoe's Story" by Charles Edward Carryl:

The night was thick and hazy
When the Piccadilly Daisy
Carried down the crew and captain in the sea:
And I think the water drowned 'em
For they never, never found 'em
And I know they didn't come ashore with me.
Oh! 'twas very sad and lonely
When I found myself the only
Population on this cultivated shore
But I've made a little tavern
In a rocky little cavern
And I sit and watch for people at the door.
I spent no time in looking
For a girl to do my cooking
As I'm quite a clever hand at making stews
But I had that fellow Friday
Just to keep the tavern tidy
And to put a Sunday polish on my shoes."

Bloused Bodice Appears Strong In Fall Fashion

Two - parts by day — long and slender by night: This summarizes the prevailing silhouette trend in dresses for fall. Strong — and getting stronger — is the bloused bodice. It makes some of the newest, most attractive daytime dresses: it lends grace and flow to the covered evening models. This is the fall - winter fashion picture as outlined by the fashion editors of Women's Wear Daily.

Capes are seen as rippling little capelets or enveloping evening dresses in stately floor -length mantles. Some of the costume components look like capes, though they may be jackets or coats with stubby sleeves.

The two - part dress affirms the overblouse look, real or simulated. It's often banded or rimmed in grosgrain, contrasting fabric and newest of all — fur — to bring out the line. The glittering flowing evening metallics achieve elegance quietly in the covered, overblouse silhouette.

The flare is here, no doubt about it. It doesn't swoosh doorway - wide; it's under control; it's moderated.

Watch the line lengthen from shoulder to hip, say the Women's Wear Daily editors. The belt is often placed lower, the bodice descends past the natural waistline to the hipbone — especially when it blouses.

Make-Up Keyed To Orange Tones

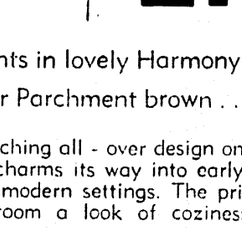

Once again orange is one of the most important fashion colors for the season. Redheads, as well as blondes, brunettes and brownettes will be able to wear this excitingly fresh color in all of its tints and shades if they choose the correct colors of foundation make-up and lipstick.

Do not choose a foundation make-up with yellow tones or you may look jaundiced in orange, beauty authorities say. Instead, wear a shade that contains a small amount of rose, such as a beige-rose tone. This will give a look of warmth to your complexion. In selecting orange lipsticks, try the pastel shades of candy orange and brandy orange. These pastel lipsticks are especially complementary and also bring out the full beauty of sun-tanned complexions.

An arrangement of fruit centered the table where six guests were seated. On the menu were a frozen fruit salad, chicken salad, pickled peaches, hot rolls — with cookie shells filled with ice cream and hot fudge sauce for dessert.

A conversational hour on Thursday morning complimented Suzanne, with CHARLOTTIE DENT and VIRGINIA HARGROVE, hostesses. Masses of greenery decorated Charlottie's new family room, and stood on the wide brick hearth. Zinnias in bright summer colors centered the table where lemonade and nibbling food were served to fifteen guests. On Friday night, ANN [illegible] honored Suzanne at a patio supper. Four couples attended.

Charlottie and Nell were hostesses again on Friday night, when they entertained at an old-fashioned ice cream social honoring the J. D. WINKS, our visitors from Italy. They served ice cream and a choice of chocolate or butterscotch sauce, with cake, sugar cookies and Brownies. All homemade, of course. Thirty-five guests were offered these pleasant alternatives. After a visit of several weeks, Fay and J. D. are due to leave a week from today for Milan.

Here with the CLIFTON [illegible]NS are ANN and HALL PEYTON, who arrived Friday from Dallas, Texas. They will be here until Wednesday, when they leave for Providence, Rhode Island, where they will be living for the next several years.

Out of town guests expected to arrive Wednesday are ELIZABETH PRINCE BENNETT of Silver Springs, Maryland national president of Children of the American Revolution; and MRS. JAMES HENRY SUMMERVILLE of Charlotte, North Carolina, the group's senior national president. They will be guests of honor at a coffee planned by Lt. Joseph Bowmar chapter for this coming Thursday morning, August 24, from ten until twelve-thirty. Members of the local chapter, their mothers, and DAR members from the area are invited to the affair in the home of SUZONNE KELLOGG, 1401 Park avenue.

The W. S. BUCKLEYS JR., had as their guests their son ALBERT, his wife MARGUERITE, and three children, AL, DONALD, and MELINDA, of Roanoke, Virginia. Marguerite was honored at a small morning party last Friday, during their week's visit. Pink carnations and althea decorated the table where a choice of coffee or other drinks was served to about nine guests.

Here this weekend from Houston, Texas are AILEEN and HARRY GORDON, guests of the HARRY SILVERSTEINS. They have been entertained at several parties, including a dinner hosted by BERTHA MARIE and MILTON GORN Friday night, and a party last night given by Harry and Alice.

Thursday was departure day for MARY PEARL JARRELL, who is en route to Hawaii on a three weeks trip. Mary Pearl went first to Houston, where she joined her aunts MRS. J. F. WEDGEWORTH of Ruston, and MRS. JOHN DOWNS of Houston. They will spend four days in San Francisco before sailing on the Lurline. On the way back, they plan to stop in Disneyland.

In New York for two weeks are ARMANDINE RENAUD and IRENE QUINN WAKLEY. They were accompanied by TERRI GOLSON and GLENN GOLSON, JR., who will also visit relatives in New Jersey.

A welcome - home party for JAN ADCOCK was the luncheon given by CLAIRE BROWN in her home last Friday. The twelve guests, all of whom graduated from high school this year, enjoyed comparing notes on their various summer activities. Jan's pictures, made on her trip to Europe this summer, arrived that day in time to be seen at the party. Red roses were used on the buffet table, and trailing ivy on individual tables where the girls were seated.

Of poems that tell a sad story, this one has quite the gayest little meter of all. "Robinson Crusoe's Story" by Charles Edward Carryl:

The night was thick and hazy
When the Piccadilly Daisy
Carried down the crew and captain in the sea:
And I think the water drowned 'em
For they never, never found 'em
And I know they didn't come ashore with me.
Oh! 'twas very sad and lonely
When I found myself the only
Population on this cultivated shore
But I've made a little tavern
In a rocky little cavern
And I sit and watch for people at the door.
I spent no time in looking
For a girl to do my cooking
As I'm quite a clever hand at making stews
But I had that fellow Friday
Just to keep the tavern tidy

Bloused Bodice Appears Strong In Fall Fashion

Two - parts by day — long and slender by night: This summarizes the prevailing silhouette trend in dresses for fall. Strong — and getting stronger — is the bloused bodice. It makes some of the newest, most attractive daytime dresses: it lends grace and flow to the covered evening models. This is the fall - winter fashion picture as outlined by the fashion editors of Women's Wear Daily.

Capes are seen as rippling little capelets or enveloping evening dresses in stately floor -length mantles. Some of the costume components look like capes, though they may be jackets or coats with stubby sleeves.

The two - part dress affirms the overblouse look, real or simulated. It's often banded or rimmed in grosgrain, contrasting fabric and newest of all — fur — to bring out the line. The glittering flowing evening metallics achieve elegance quietly in the covered, overblouse silhouette.

The flare is here, no doubt about it. It doesn't swoosh doorway - wide; it's under control; it's moderated.

Watch the line lengthen from shoulder to hip, say the Women's Wear Daily editors. The belt is often placed lower, the bodice descends past the natural waistline to the hipbone — especially when it blouses.

Make-Up Keyed To Orange Tones

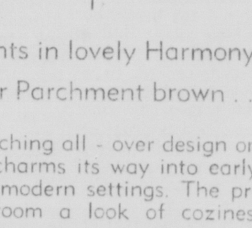

Once again orange is one of the most important fashion colors for the season. Redheads, as well as blondes, brunettes and brownettes will be able to wear this excitingly fresh color in all of its tints and shades if they choose the correct colors of foundation make-up and lipstick.

Do not choose a foundation make-up with yellow tones or you may look jaundiced in orange, beauty authorities say. Instead, wear a shade that contains a small amount of rose, such as a beige-rose tone. This will give a look of warmth to your complexion. In selecting orange lipsticks, try the pastel shades of candy orange and brandy orange. These pastel lipsticks are especially complementary and also bring out the full beauty of sun-tanned complexions.

Problems On Decorating Are Answered

Q: My den is painted white and, with several windows, seems too bright. I have a large abstract painting over the fireplace, colors in this are blues, greens, pinks, purple and yellows. Rug is modern hooked one, design is blocks in colors taken from the painting. What color would you advise for studio couch cover and three chairs? What color should I paint an end table?

A: With the vivid colors employed in rug and painting, you should stick to beiges and greys elsewhere to allow the painting and rug to dominate. Cover the couch in a smoke grey corduroy or tweed. Chairs can be lighter shades, oatmeal or pear grey. For pillows on the sofa use muted shade of one of the colors in the painting, blue or green. Paint table black, bookshelf to match or in a pale beige.

Q: My mahogany dining set is beginning to look rather faded and scuffed. I would like to paint all or part of it to make it look fresher. Walls in the dining room are pale blue, woodwork is white. Set consists of table, sideboard and four cane back chairs.

A: Paint chairs and sideboard but leave your table in the natural wood finish. Refurbish the table with light sanding, a new coat of varnish and good furniture polish. Paint the sideboard a bright, clear periwinkle blue. Chairs could match this with seats covered in a fresh blue and white gingham check or a pale mauve shantung if the room is formal.

Q: My daughter and I have auburn hair and would like to use colors which are flattering to this shade. I have pale grey - green walls, rose beige carpet. What color draperies, sofa and chairs?

A: Printed draperies in white with fern or floral pattern in deep green would have a fresh look, perfect for your room and coloring. Sofa might repeat soft green of walls or for a dramatic look, white. Mass pillows on your sofa in many colors: purple, mauve, claret, copper, bronze green and aqua. Pick up copper or bronze green in deep claret or aqual. Lamps and accessories in white or brass.

Q: Linoleum floor in our kitchen in light beige with streaks of white, pink, yellow and aqua. I want to paint cabinets and woodwork pale yellow. What color wallpaper, counter tops and curtains will make the kitchen look bright?

Candle Tree Is Blooming

By MILDRED SWIFT

The candle trees are beginning to bloom which makes you real happy because you planted yours. The blossoms are magnificent on the tree or as cut flowers. These will bloom until frost.

GARDEN JOBS

Conifers are being attacked by the bagworm. The larvae is the stage of the worm that is so ravenous. This larvae cuts the twigs and makes a bag. He rolls up in the brown, inch long bag and these hang down from the branches. The foliage, as a result, looks ragged and dead.

Spray with 20 per cent toxaphene or with 4½ ounces of lead arsenate in one gallon of water. I haven't found the insecticide does any good to the worm after it encases itself in its twig-like home. Just pick these, put them in a paper bag and burn. Put on gloves to do the job.

The lovely pineapple ginger lily is blooming, now. This is our closest claim to an orchid. It's the color of orchids, easily grown, multipies rapidly. Bulbs planted in the spring bloom for you that same year in August.

DEAD TWIGS

Many dead twigs in your trees is a danger signal. Dead branches near the end mean the tree is starving. This is not the time to fertilize but make a note to do that next January.

At this time of year houses seem dark, especially if there are lower limbs on trees. Pruning these limbs will not only make the house brighter but will encourage better growth of grass under the trees.

However, when you have old trees in your yard, you have a network of roots. These roots sap food and water and often grass will not grow there at all—even St. Augustine—a shade grass. There are such spots in our garden where we have spaded the soil, incorporated good humus and planted a complete sod. In a few weeks the grass just wasted away.

Which reminds me the chinch bug is busy again, the most satisfactory home treatment is BHC-DDT. This can be purchased at the seed and feed stores and some nurseries. Complete coverage of the yard is recommended if you're going to get complete control.

Keep dead and diseased wood prunned from shrubs and trees.

CUTTINGS

Many geranium plants have grown to a good size now. You can make cuttings from them without hurting the plant. Geranium stems store up moisture. In fact there is so much that it's best to take your cutting one day, place in a dry place for about a day, then set it out. If you do that it's less likely to rot.

Plant watsonia bulbs now if you can beg or borrow some from another gardener. They are smallish gladiolies-like blooms and they have a very long growing season.

Get beds ready for dividing and transplanting spring blooming perennials like shasta daisies, sweet william and others. Just as soon as the weather gets cool is the time to divide those, and I'll remind you then. Just get the beds ready now.

ARDISIA

Valued for their attractive evergreen foliage and brilliant orange-red berries, ardisia shrubs are easy to propagate from cuttings of half-ripened wood. May and June are the best months to make such cuttings. Propagating this plant by cuttings produces stronger plants of more rapid growth than does seed proagation.

An ardisia cutting develops into a plant that begins to berry within two years. This shrub reseeds itself when berries drop to the ground and germinate. Use tip growth about six to nine inches long for rooting. Remove lower leaves.

Plant the cutting on a slant in a cutting box or cold frame. A good rooting medium consists of equal parts of well-sifted peat moss, sharp sand and good soil. Keep shaded until the cutting roots.

The ardisia grows in total shade and attains a height of two feet, two points in it's favor. We need more small plants and more shade loving ones. You'll remember a number of ardisia plants in Bellingrath Gardens thriving in deep shade.

The leaves are glossy, scalloped or crenulated on the edge, dark green on top, lighter green unproduced in spring are followed by drooping clusters of pea-sized berries which change from green to orange-red in fall and remain on the shrub for several months.

GAY

Gay colors spark most summer fashions, from smart sweaters and evening clothes to beach togs and even eyeglasses. Not just sun glasses either. Colorful frames in becoming shapes are much in demand by the girl or woman who has to wear eyeglasses most of the time.

Until a few years ago some women worried more about getting a blond neutral color that went with everything, than they did about looking for the color and frame-shape that was most flattering. All this has changed, however. Today stylists have made women aware that eyeglass frames have a fashion accent and can do as much for proportioning the facial features as the right makeup and hair style.

COLORED FRAMES

Nowadays you'll find there are colored frames to suit every hair shade, costume and personality. For instance, brunettes, may find their beauty heightened by red, amber, or constrasting blond frames.

Blonds, usually prefer light blue according to the stylists. They do like pink and gray, too. For those who like contrasts, there are midnight blues and ornamental eyeglass frames in any of the various shades of green, gold and bronze, plus the copper tones and black.

There is a wide range of colored frames in becoming colors for silver-haired women. The choice includes pastels, slim line blacks and soft reds. Those elegantly trimmed with silver ornamentation play up the unique highlights of silver hair.

The eyeglass stylists advise you to pay as much attention to shape as to color when selecting your frames. There's a wide choice now for oval, square, round and diamond shaped faces.

Syria Plans St. Simeon Celebration

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's department of tourism is planning a celebration for St. Simeon the Stylite, who perched 27 years atop a pillar in the desert.

Ruins of a classic Christian church now surround the base of the saints column, 20 miles from Aleppo in the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic.

"We should attract 10,000 tourists," said Dr. Yussof Samara, head of the department. "When Simeon was alive, thousands of pilgrims came on foot from as far as France and India.

"Simeon is an undisputed saint, and the church is exquisite—the worlds best example of early Christian architecture.'

The bearded, emaciated hermit who spent his childhood summers buried to his neck in a garden or manacled to a rock, died preaching from his pillar in the year 459 A.D.

The government earlier began arrangements for his 1500th anniversary, Samara said, but canceled them because of complications and possible differences between the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches.

"But Simeon died six centuries before the church was divided," said the director. "Now we'll try again to commemorate him."

Historians say Simeon was a shepherd who entered a monastery at 13, after crouching at the gate without food for five days to gain admittance.

Seeking further solitude, he built a tiny cell on a pillar and moved into it. Crowds came to marvel and pray, and Simeon eventually moved to a towering column 66 feet high.

Churches and rest houses grew around the base, a community of pillar-sitting disciples sprang up.

Officials of the Roman Empire consulted him on affairs of state, shouting questions from below or sending up communiques in a basket.

When he died at 68, his body was lowered from the pillar and carried to Antioch in an immense procession through the sands. The church patriarch, the Roman master of the Eastern Empire and 6,000 plumed warriors followed his casket.

Rival Producers Readying Plays On P. T. Barnum

NEW YORK (AP) — Rival producers are aiming two musicals based on the life of Phineas T. Barnum for Broadway this season.

Alexander H. Cohen several months ago announced his intention of depicting the deeds of the renowned showman. The other sponsors are Stephen Slane and Ida Martucci.

At the moment both projects carry the same title, "Barnum," with the Slane - Martucci venture adding an exclamation point.

Newton Named To Key Role In 'High Fidelity'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Broadway newcomer, John Newton, has been picked to protray a theatrical producer in "High Fidelity," a scheduled October arrival on the White Way.

Producer Lynn Loesser selected him on the recommendation of Jack Ragotzy, who is to direct the comedy. Ragtozy operates a summer theater at Augusta, Mich., and was impressed by the actor's interpretation of Franklin D. Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello."

Ladies Gain At Club In Golf Display

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Since prehistoric times men have been showing off their prowess with clubs. Now that they're somewhat civilized they're doing it on the golf course — and women, who cowered in caves in the old days, are swinging right along with them.

Alex O'Laughlin, who has taught at least a thousand women in the 10 years he's been a pro golfer, says they're easier to teach than men.

"They grasp the fundamentals faster," he says.

Also in their favor:

"They have respect for 150-yard tee shots straight down the fairway. Men always try to blast long long drives, and may or may not end up hooking out of bounds.

"Furthermore, most women are better putters."

No faults at all, eh?

ADMITS

O'Laughlin, a short, pink-faced young Irishman with sun-whitened hair and brows, admits he's noticed a few since he's been in structing at a Lake Tennanah resort in upstate New York during the summer and in Westchester County, N.Y., in winter.

For one thing, women are always telling him how their husbands or relatives said they should do it.

"No husband should teach his wife to play golf any more than he should teach her how to drive a car," O'Laughlin says firmly.

And then there is that dubious foursome:

Fairway Femme Fatale: She believes in tee for two, shows up geared for conquest in either bikini or tight pants, high heels and dangling earrings.

(O'Laughlin recommends sturdy shoes, bermuda shorts or culottes, loose blouse for easy arm movement.)

Chick In The Rough . . . She's always out there in no-man's-land looking for a lost ball, inevitably her favorite, that she simply won't go off and leave.

Green Gauge Prune . . . Like a confused pedestrian she always stops on the green. The putting over, she calls the girls for a huddle, scorecard rendering, congratulations all around, rule book consultation and discussion of how far to the next tee. Meanwhile, the players behind are quietly gnawing their club shafts.

DERVISH

The Divot Dervish . . . Always in motion, she is especially adept at sudden movements just as someone else tees off. And she always knows a rib-tickler to recite on the putting green.

Actually, says O'Laughlin, most women are more thoughtful than men on the links. They're often too concerned about what others are thinking of their game.

"You can't think of one thing and do another. It's better to think about nothing. That's when you get the best shots."

Although he believes golf is a great cupid — "you just get a couple set up on a course together, that's all you need" — it hasn't promoted a match for him.

At 23 he says, not very wistfully:

"I haven't met anybody who thinks like I do. Besides, I have no home life the way I work; I guess I'm married to my job.

"Anyway, I'd never catch up with my sister and brother: she has 7 children so far, and he has 13."

Think how many Walker Cup teams he could make out of that.

Fall-Out Shelter Advice Given In Church Planning

He said an attack might occur during worship services. Also, he said, churches frequently are used as hospital centers in disaster areas.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Baskets Are Used To Contain Flowers

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

The Garden Center show last week was inspired by the use of baskets as containers for flower arrangements.

Three garden clubs were represented by individual members, Mrs. Max Kulcke, Monroe Garden Club; Mrs. K. R. Young, Welcome Garden Club, and Mrs. H. F. Shepard and Mrs. John Tolar from College Heights Garden Club of Monroe.

It is interesting to know that the basket has been used for flowers almost as long ago as civilization it's self. The remains of ancient cultures provide us with ample proof.

In the book "A History of Flower Arrangement," by Julia S. Berrall, we are told that the world famous Roman Mosaic, "The Basket of Flowers," can now be seen in the Vatican Museum in Rome. This was found near Tivolim at Hadrian's Villa, and is said to date from the beginning of the second century A.D. The basket in the mosaic holds roses, Roman hycinthus, a double anemone, Tulips red Carnations and a blue Morning Glory. The basket motif recurs throughout the history of art, from this early period to the Victorian.

CLEAR GLASS

Mrs. Max Kulcke chose a clear glass basket container for her triangle arrangement of exotic Ginger Lilies. Ordinarially ginger lilies would not be suitably used in a basket, but, because of the fine texture of the glass basket this was permissable. For the over - all line Mrs. Kulcke used the branches of the crabapple - with clusters of the small purple-into - rosey red apples attached.

This line was strengthened by the placement of ginger lily foliage - thus forming a background for the five ginger lilies placed within the line. Lavender Liarope was used as fileler throughout the design. A definite void near the right center of the design revealed the lovely glass handle of the basket. Very lovely for the summer buffett.

Mrs. K. R. Young chose a very unusual folk craft egg basket of natural straw for her container. This was brought to her by a friend from the mountains of Tennessee. Dried brown dock and small dark brown cattails were used to form the mass triangular line of the arrangement. For a filler she used dried lacy cedar. The main center of interest was achieved by the grouping of three lovely bright orange into green gourds. This arrangement would add quite a lot to the patio supper table.

ARRANGEMENTS

Mrs. H. F. Shepard made two lovely and colorful basket arrangements. For her first she chose a large oval - shaped fruit basket with a handle. The overall mass diagonal line was created by the placement of varigated euonymus. This being a free - standing design, on one side she used the large yellow Marigolds massed within the line. The focal interest was achieved by placing one large Goose - necked Squash low into the design. The opposite side of the arrangement was filled in with red - orange Hybrid zennias.

Two pomegranates were placed to form the center of interest at the base of the design. Yellow - into orange lantana was used as an over - all filler in the arrangement. This would be a lovely arrangement for the outside Patio.

For her second design Mrs. Shepard chose a lovely magenta-into - gray green colored ceremic basket. She used the cerese colored Princess Feather celosia to form the diagonal line in the container. Five small lavender dahlias were placed in a diagonal row against a background made by the placement of one large red castor bean leaf. Chicken - gizzard coleus was used as a filler. To the back of the design she used rose - pink zennias - making this a free - standing design suitable for the large coffee table.

Zennias were used as an overall flower for this massed design - starting with the small light yellow at the top, blending down into larger orange and finally a very large orange - red zennia for the main interest point.

The back of this arrangement was finished in a similar mass of orange red zennias, thus enabling this to be used as a free - standing design - perhaps on the den table.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fall Blooms Time Near

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

By the middle of August, the September gardening magazines are telling us of the wonders of fall blooming bulbs.

Colchicums, fall crocuses and even the formerly rare sternbergias are now becoming plentiful in the market. Dime stores will display them shortly. You can even find the big pink Hall's amaryllis that bloomed back in July advertised. These, however, are cold storage bulbs, and many of them will not bloom unless they have been carefully handled and you set them out immediately because, although they may have a bloom inside, they may dry up. Be sure to soak these bulbs overnight before you plant them.

SET

Set colchicums and fall crocuses in the ground with two or three inches of soil over the tops of the corms. Where there are ten or 12 inches of good soil, crocuses may be set as deep as six inches to get the corms out of the way.

They will eventually adjust themselves to the level they like and stay there. Both the amount of moisture and the ground temperature seem to effect crocuses in their choice of a permanent level.

In planting fall blooming bulbs, be sure to take into consideration the fact that the yellow sternbergias and the crocuses have evergreen foliage from October till May, while the colchicum leaves do not even begin to appear until late winter. Crocus foliage is fine like tufts of grass. Sternbergias have leaves nearly like those of red spider - lilies, but the spot where you plant colchicums will be bare all winter and will then be dominated by the huge colchicum foliage till April.

Almost any day, now, may see the first lavender or violet blossoms of colchicums popping out of the ground. As we have remarked before in the column, colchicums go well with all the lavender, purple or even magenta flowers of August and September. Phlox, the big Sedum spectabile, violet or purple zinnias or petunias — to all of these, colchicums add a fresh touch.

The yellow sternbergias, of course, go well with the lavenders and violets, too. Sternbergias will not bloom until the second week in September just at the time when the colchicums make their final burst of bloom.

Those who have taken the trouble to get the bulb catalouges of the California and Oregion dealers will probably have the little red miniature amaryllises in their gardens in the last week of August.

We know, now, that this genus of bulbs — now called rhodophiala — is very closely akin to our native zephranthes. Both of these genera of bulbs can pop up and flower in three days after a good rain.

Some Suffer An Allergy To Garden Plants

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Some of the beautiful plants in your garden can irritate you or make you sick. Some are quite dangerous, especially if you are allergic to their poison.

They won't bother you if you handle them, but keep these out of your mouth:

Burning bush, the leaves; castor beans, seed; cyclamen, tuber; dumb cane ,any part; elephant's ear, any part; four o'clock, root, seed; foxglove, leaves; iris, stem; ivy, leaves; jimson weed, any part; lily-of-the-valley, any part; mock orange, fruit; mountain laurel, any part; narcissus, bulb; oleander, leaves; pimpernel, any part; rhododendron, any part; spider lily, bulb; sweet pea, stem; tulip, bulb.

If you are an outdoor cook, you may give your trees heartburn. You could cause irreparable damage to your landscaping by singeing. And in your garden:

Don't spray weed killer close to trees. The root systems may draw poison up to the leaves. The vapors also may affect the leaves. Don't drain chlorinated water from your swimming pool into areas where you have trees and shrubs.

Don't hang shooting targets on tree trunks. The bark will be injured. Don't girdle or strangle your trees by tying rope or wire for swings or hammocks to tree branches. Don't leave identification tags on newly planted nursery stock. These, too, may choke tender growth.

Our Organic Gardening friend offers this tip to set up a picket line to keep ants out of your home. Determine where the ants gain entry and squeeze lemon juice into the hole. Put slices of the peel around the hole. For some reason (known only to the ants) the insects will steer clear of the area.

If you have lots of backyard room, your landscaping might well include a nut tree. Specimens that will satisfy sight and palate include English walnut and hickory. They will do best in more northerly areas but you will have to pamper them more than conventional maple, elm, apple and the like.

Tree expert Martin L. Davey Jr. explains that nut trees have less fibrous root systems and thus require a higher temperature for transplanting. Spring and early summer are the best times to transplant. For the first few years water, feed and mulch generously to assure vigorous growth.

Planting sites should be considered carefully. Confine them to backyard areas away from sidewalks, driveways and streets. Fallen fruit can become a nuisance in the fall.

Some Plants May Be Cut

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, are interested in making cuttings of plants like hollies, abelias, photenias, pyracanthas, and euonymus, this is the time.

Place the cuttings in a sheltered place outdoors or you may use a coldframe. Set the cuttings in a firmly packed mixture of peat moss and sand, or in a bed made by spreading a two-inch layer of sharp sand over a bed of a mixture of topsoil, peat moss and sand and packing it firmly.

The cuttings must be shaded from direct sun until they are rooted. At regular intervals water thoroughly.

Bulbs to plant now include madonna lilies, lycons, oxalis, Easter lilies and calla lilies. Remember cala lilies need rich soil and partial shade.

Both the bearded and Louisiana iris may be planted this month.

CARPETS

Dirt and dust are the two worst enemies of your carpet and rugs. The carpet sweeper is a handy tool and is especially good for frequent light pickups. A thorough vacuuming should be done once or twice a week, depending upon the amount of traffic in your home. Every carpet and rug is the victim of spots or stains from time to time.

However, most of these accidents of spilling and dropping can be taken care of with little trouble. The dangers of spots and stains can be minimized if you follow these three rules. Act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on a carpet. Remove the spot and stains before they dry. Have necessary cleaning supplies always at hand. Try to identify what caused the spot and remove it by following directions.

There are three cleaning materials which should be kept on hand at all times for quick spot cleaning. These cleaning materials are a mild detergent, white vinegar, and dry cleaning fluid. A mixture of one teaspoonful of mild detergent, one teaspoonful of white vinegar and a quart of warm water will serve to neutralize any alkaline materials. A dry cleaning fluid is used for removing spots such as grease and oil stains. Cleaning solvents are good for your rugs. They may be harmful to you. Be sure to read the manufacturers instructions as to how to use them.

COLLEGE RAINWEAR

A lovely collection of rainwear awaits the college group this fall. Designed for all weather round the calendar wear, these coats range from the sport type to the late day styles, corduroys, poplins and suedes take the lead for daytime wear, while velveteen, and tapestry star for evening.

WOMEN'S WEAR

King Cotton has taken on some new looks in women's wear for this fall. Cotton corduroy, a fall and winter favorite has risen to great fashion heights and is featured by high style designers of sportswear, coats and dresses. The influence of knitted fashions has been carried into wide wale woven corduroys, designed to give the appearance of a knitted cable stitch. Wales of corduroy range from the wide 5 rib to extremely narrow 21 rib lightweights.

Smart for two piece fall suits, dresses, and jackets is black cloque pique in a herringbone pattern.

SCHOOL COTTONS

Favorites for the school crowd are prints in Scandinavian designs florals, modern geometric, and pleasant motifs with the look of Early American samplers. Color and texture are combined in emphatic checkerboard woven, and stripes have top rating for dresses.

In silhouette, children's fashions follow adult lines with loose but closer to the body shapes, flared skirts beneath long torsos and a relaxed two - piece look for many day and dress up designs. These have grown up tailoring with Paris inspired closings, deep inverted side pleats and lowered gently shaped waistlines.

High fashion coloring is used generously this season, with colors ranging from harvest tones of ginger and copper, gem like emeralds and plum to paprika reds and brilliant turquoise. These are seen in solids or combinations for a vast collection of plaids, gingham checks and prints.

Missionary Claims Many Healing Frauds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Lutheran medical missionary, Dr. Kristofer Hagen, says that "practically 100 per cent of the so-called 'cures' claimed by faith healers or shrines" either involve non - organic illnesses or dishonest "cures."

"Medical history," he writes, "is full of supposedly 'cured' appendicitis cases that 'needed no operations' and later died, of supposed 'cured' cancer patients who went right on and died." Excerpts of his book, "Faith and Health" were carried by "The Lutheran," a church weekly here.

Special Roles For Clergymen During Summer

The six-week program is designed to give pastors and theological students clinical experience in pastoral care of the sick and injured. Participants work beside members of the healing professions, do actual orderly work and attend seminars.

Four Volumes Present Study About Religion

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — A four - volume study, "Religion in American Life," written by 22 scholars, has been published by Princeton University Press. Its editors conclude: "Religion has both powerfully and pervasively affected the complex development of American culture."

Candle Tree Is Blooming

By MILDRED SWIFT

The candle trees are beginning to bloom which makes you real happy because you planted yours. The blossoms are magnificent on the tree or as cut flowers. These will bloom until frost.

Conifers are being attacked by the bagworm. The larvae is the stage of the worm that is so ravenous. This larvae cuts the twigs and makes a bag. He rolls up in the brown, inch long bag and these hang down from the branches. The foliage, as a result, looks ragged and dead.

Spray with 20 per cent toxaphene or with 4½ ounces of lead arsenate in one gallon of water. I haven't found the insecticide does any good to the worm after it encases itself in its twig-like home. Just pick these, put them in a paper bag and burn. Put on gloves to do the job.

The lovely pineapple ginger lily is blooming, now. This is our closest claim to an orchid. It's the color of orchids, easily grown, multipies rapidly. Bulbs planted in the spring bloom for you that same year in August.

ARDISIA

Valued for their attractive evergreen foliage and brilliant orange-red berries, ardisia shrubs are easy to propagate from cuttings of half-ripened wood. May and June are the best months to make such cuttings. Propagating this plant by cuttings produces stronger plants of more rapid growth than does seed proagation.

An ardisia cutting develops into a plant that begins to berry within two years. This shrub reseeds itself when berries drop to the ground and germinate. Use tip growth about six to nine inches long for rooting. Remove lower leaves.

Plant the cutting on a slant in a cutting box or cold frame. A good rooting medium consists of equal parts of well-sifted peat moss, sharp sand and good soil. Keep shaded until the cutting roots.

The ardisia grows in total shade and attains a height of two feet, two points in it's favor. We need more small plants and more shade loving ones. You'll remember a number of ardisia plants in Bellingrath Gardens thriving in deep shade.

The leaves are glossy, scalloped or crenulated on the edge, dark green on top, lighter green .unproduced in spring are followed by drooping clusters of pea-sized berries which change from green to orange-red in fall and remain on the shrub for several months.

GAY

Gay colors spark most summer fashions, from smart sweaters and evening clothes to beach togs and even eyeglasses. Not just sun glasses either. Colorful frames in becoming shapes are much in demand by the girl or woman who has to wear eyeglasses most of the time.

Until a few years ago some women worried more about getting a blond neutral color that went with everything, than they did about looking for the color and frame-shape that was most flattering. All this has changed, however. Today stylists have made women aware that eyeglass frames have a fashion accent and can do as much for proportioning the facial features as the right makeup and hair style.

COLORED FRAMES

Nowadays you'll find there are colored frames to suit every hair shade, costume and personality. For instance, brunettes, may find their beauty heightened by red, amber, or constrasting blond frames.

Blonds, usually prefer light blue according to the stylists. They do like pink and gray, too. For those who like contrasts, there are midnight blues and ornamental eyeglass frames in any of the various shades of green, gold and bronze, plus the copper tones and black.

There is a wide range of colored frames in becoming colors for silver-haired women. The choice includes pastels, slim line blacks and soft reds. Those elegantly trimmed with silver ornamentation play up the unique highlights of silver hair.

The eyeglass stylists advise you to pay as much attention to shape as to color when selecting your frames. There's a wide choice now for oval, square, round and diamond shaped faces.

Syria Plans St. Simeon Celebration

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's department of tourism is planning a celebration for St. Simeon the Stylite, who perched 27 years atop a pillar in the desert.

Ruins of a classic Christian church now surround the base of the saints column, 20 miles from Aleppo in the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic.

"We should attract 10,000 tourists," said Dr. Yussof Samara, head of the department. "When Simeon was alive, thousands of pilgrims came on foot from as far as France and India.

"Simeon is an undisputed saint, and the church is exquisite—the worlds best example of early Christian architecture.'

The bearded, emaciated hermit who spent his childhood summers buried to his neck in a garden or manacled to a rock, died preaching from his pillar in the year 459 A.D.

The government earlier began arrangements for his 1500th anniversary, Samara said, but canceled them because of complications and possible differences between the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches.

"But Simeon died six centuries before the church was divided," said the director. "Now we'll try again to commemorate him."

Historians say Simeon was a shepherd who entered a monastery at 13, after crouching at the gate without food for five days to gain admittance.

Seeking further solitude, he built a tiny cell on a pillar and moved into it. Crowds came to marvel and pray, and Simeon eventually moved to a towering column 66 feet high.

Churches and rest houses grew around the base, a community of pillar-sitting disciples sprang up.

When he died at 68, his body was lowered from the pillar and carried to Antioch in an immense procession through the sands. The church patriarch, the Roman master of the Eastern Empire and 6,000 plumed warriors followed his casket.

Rival Producers Readying Plays On P. T. Barnum

NEW YORK (AP) — Rival producers are aiming two musicals based on the life of Phineas T. Barnum for Broadway this season.

Alexander H. Cohen several months ago announced his intention of depicting the deeds of the renowned showman. The other sponsors are Stephen Slane and Ida Martucci.

At the moment both projects carry the same title, "Barnum," with the Slane - Martucci venture adding an exclamation point.

Newton Named To Key Role In 'High Fidelity'

NEW YORK (AP) — A Broadway newcomer, John Newton, has been picked to protray a theatrical producer in "High Fidelity," a scheduled October arrival on the White Way.

Producer Lynn Loesser selected him on the recommendation of Jack Ragotzy, who is to direct the comedy. Ragtozy operates a summer theater at Augusta, Mich., and was impressed by the actor's interpretation of Franklin D. Roosevelt in "Sunrise at Campobello."

Ladies Gain At Club In Golf Display

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Since prehistoric times men have been showing off their prowess with clubs. Now that they're somewhat civilized they're doing it on the golf course — and women, who cowered in caves in the old days, are swinging right along with them.

Alex O'Laughlin, who has taught at least a thousand women in the 10 years he's been a pro golfer, says they're easier to teach than men.

"They grasp the fundamentals faster," he says.

Also in their favor:

"They have respect for 150-yard tee shots straight down the fairway. Men always try to blast long long drives, and may or may not end up hooking out of bounds.

ADMITS

O'Laughlin, a short, pink-faced young Irishman with sun-whitened hair and brows, admits he's noticed a few since he's been in structing at a Lake Tennanah resort in upstate New York during the summer and in Westchester County, N.Y., in winter.

For one thing, women are always telling him how their husbands or relatives said they should do it.

"No husband should teach his wife to play golf any more than he should teach her how to drive a car," O'Laughlin says firmly.

And then there is that dubious foursome:

Fairway Femme Fatale: She believes in tee for two, shows up geared for conquest in either bikini or tight pants, high heels and dangling earrings.

(O'Laughlin recommends sturdy shoes, bermuda shorts or culottes, loose blouse for easy arm movement.)

Chick In The Rough . . . She's always out there in no-man's-land looking for a lost ball, inevitably her favorite, that she simply won't go off and leave.

Green Gauge Prune . . . Like a confused pedestrian she always stops on the green. The putting over, she calls the girls for a huddle, scorecard rendering, congratulations all around, rule book consultation and discussion of how far to the next tee. Meanwhile, the players behind are quietly gnawing their club shafts.

DERVISH

The Divot Dervish . . . Always in motion, she is especially adept at sudden movements just as someone else tees off. And she always knows a rib-tickler to recite on the putting green.

"You can't think of one thing and do another. It's better to think about nothing. That's when you get the best shots."

Although he believes golf is a great cupid — "you just get a couple set up on a course together, that's all you need" — it hasn't promoted a match for him.

At 28 he says, not very wistfully:

"I haven't met anybody who thinks like I do. Besides, I have no home life the way I work; I guess I'm married to my job.

"Anyway, I'd never catch up with my sister and brother: she has 7 children so far, and he has 13."

Fall-Out Shelter Advice Given In Church Planning

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Congregations planning to build new churches are advised by Paul M. Johnson, Southern Baptist architectural supervisor, to include in the plans a radioactive fall-out shelter.

He said an attack might occur during worship services. Also, he said, churches frequently are used as hospital centers in disaster areas.

Prohibition Era Agents Figure In New Musical

NEW YORK (AP) — The Prohibition Era's famous team of enforcement agents, Isadore Einstein and Moe Smith, are the central figures of a musical show headed for 1962 Broadway debut.

The pair were noted for their infinity of disguises and comic antics in the interests of law enforcement. The book for the show has been written by James Lipton with music by Sol Berkowitz.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Baskets Are Used To Contain Flowers

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

The Garden Center show last week was inspired by the use of baskets as containers for flower arrangements.

Three garden clubs were represented by individual members, Mrs. Max Kulcke, Monroe Garden Club; Mrs. K. R. Young, Welcome Garden Club, and Mrs. H. F. Shepard and Mrs. John Tolar from College Heights Garden Club of Monroe.

It is interesting to know that the basket has been used for flowers almost as long ago as civilization it's self. The remains of ancient cultures provide us with ample proof.

In the book "A History of Flower Arrangement," by Julia S. Berrall, we are told that the world famous Roman Mosaic, "The Basket of Flowers," can now be seen in the Vatican Museum in Rome. This was found near Tivolim at Hadrian's Villa, and is said to date from the beginning of the second century A.D. The basket in the mosaic holds roses, Roman hycinthus, a double anemone, Tulips red Carnations and a blue Morning Glory. The basket motif recurs throughout the history of art, from this early period to the Victorian.

CLEAR GLASS

Mrs. Max Kulcke chose a clear glass basket container for her triangle arrangement of exotic Ginger Lilies. Ordinarially ginger lilies would not be suitably used in a basket, but, because of the fine texture of the glass basket this was permissable. For the over - all line Mrs. Kulcke used the branches of the crabapple - with clusters of the small purple-into - rosey red apples attached.

This line was strengthened by the placement of ginger lily foliage - thus forming a background for the five ginger lilies placed within the line. Lavender Liarope was used as fileler throughout the design. A definite void near the right center of the design revealed the lovely glass handle of the basket. Very lovely for the summer buffett.

Mrs. K. R. Young chose a very unusual folk craft egg basket of natural straw for her container. This was brought to her by a friend from the mountains of Tennessee. Dried brown dock and small dark brown cattails were used to form the mass triangular line of the arrangement. For a filler she used dried lacy cedar. The main center of interest was achieved by the grouping of three lovely bright orange into green gourds. This arrangement would add quite a lot to the patio supper table.

ARRANGEMENTS

Mrs. H. F. Shepard made two lovely and colorful basket arrangements. For her first she chose a large oval - shaped fruit basket with a handle. The overall mass diagonal line was created by the placement of varigated euonymus. This being a free - standing design, on one side she used the large yellow Marigolds massed within the line. The focal interest was achieved by placing one large Goose - necked Squash low into the design. The opposite side of the arrangement was filled in with red - orange Hybrid zennias.

Two pomegranates were placed to form the center of interest at the base of the design. Yellow - into orange lantana was used as an over - all filler in the arrangement. This would be a lovely arrangement for the outside Patio.

For her second design Mrs. Shepard chose a lovely magenta - into - gray green colored ceremic basket. She used the cerese colored Princess Feather celosia to form the diagonal line in the container. Five small lavender dahlias were placed in a diagonal row against a background made by the placement of one large red castor bean leaf. Chicken - gizzard coleus was used as a filler. To the back of the design she used rose - pink zennias - making this a free - standing design suitable for the large coffee table.

Zennias were used as an overall flower for this massed design - starting with the small light yellow at the top, blending down into larger orange and finally a very large orange - red zennia for the main interest point.

The back of this arrangement was finished in a similar mass of orange red zennias, thus enabling this to be used as a free - standing design - perhaps on the den table.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fall Blooms Time Near

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

By the middle of August, the September gardening magazines are telling us of the wonders of fall blooming bulbs.

Colchicums, fall crocuses and even the formerly rare sternbergias are now becoming plentiful in the market. Dime stores will display them shortly. You can even find the big pink Hall's amaryllis that bloomed back in July advertised. These, however, are cold storage bulbs, and many of them will not bloom unless they have been carefully handled and you set them out immediately because, although they may have a bloom inside, they may dry up. Be sure to soak these bulbs overnight before you plant them.

SET

Set colchicums and fall crocuses in the ground with two or three inches of soil over the tops of the corms. Where there are ten or 12 inches of good soil, crocuses may be set as deep as six inches to get the corms out of the way.

They will eventually adjust themselves to the level they like and stay there. Both the amount of moisture and the ground temperature seem to effect crocuses in their choice of a permanent level.

In planting fall blooming bulbs, be sure to take into consideration the fact that the yellow sternbergias and the crocuses have evergreen foliage from October till May, while the colchicum leaves do not even begin to appear until late winter. Crocus foliage is fine like tufts of grass. Sternbergias have leaves nearly like those of red spider - lilies, but the spot where you plant colchicums will be bare all winter and will then be dominated by the huge colchicum foliage till April.

Almost any day, now, may see the first lavender or violet blossoms of colchicums popping out of the ground. As we have remarked before in the column, colchicums go well with all the lavender, purple or even magenta flowers of August and September. Phlox, the big Sedum spectabile, violet or purple zinnias or petunias — to all of these, colchicums add a fresh touch.

The yellow sternbergias, of course, go well with the lavenders and violets, too. Sternbergias will not bloom until the second week in September just at the time when the colchicums make their final burst of bloom.

Those who have taken the trouble to get the bulb catalouges of the California and Oregion dealers will probably have the little red miniature amaryllises in their gardens in the last week of August.

We know, now, that this genus of bulbs — now called rhodophiala — is very closely akin to our native zephranthes. Both of these genera of bulbs can pop up and flower in three days after a good rain.

Some Suffer An Allergy To Garden Plants

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Some of the beautiful plants in your garden can irritate you or make you sick. Some are quite dangerous, especially if you are allergic to their poison.

They won't bother you if you handle them, but keep these out of your mouth:

Burning bush, the leaves; castor beans, seed; cyclamen, tuber; dumb cane ,any part; elephant's ear, any part; four o'clock, root, seed; foxglove, leaves; iris, stem; ivy, leaves; jimson weed, any part; lily-of-the-valley, any part; mock orange, fruit; mountain laurel, any part; narcissus, bulb; oleander, leaves; pimpernel, any part; rhododendron, any part; spider lily, bulb; sweet pea, stem; tulip, bulb.

If you are an outdoor cook, you may give your trees heartburn. You could cause irreparable damage to your landscaping by singeing. And in your garden:

Don't spray weed killer close to trees. The root systems may draw poison up to the leaves. The vapors also may affect the leaves. Don't drain chlorinated water from your swimming pool into areas where you have trees and shrubs.

Don't hang shooting targets on tree trunks. The bark will be injured. Don't girdle or strangle your trees by tying rope or wire for swings or hammocks to tree branches. Don't leave identification tags on newly planted nursery stock. These, too, may choke tender growth.

Our Organic Gardening friend offers this tip to set up a picket line to keep ants out of your home. Determine where the ants gain entry and squeeze lemon juice into the hole. Put slices of the peel around the hole. For some reason (known only to the ants) the insects will steer clear of the area.

If you have lots of backyard room, your landscaping might well include a nut tree. Specimens that will satisfy sight and palate include English walnut and hickory. They will do best in more northerly areas but you will have to pamper them more than conventional maple, elm, apple and the like.

Tree expert Martin L. Davey Jr. explains that nut trees have less fibrous root systems and thus require a higher temperature for transplanting. Spring and early summer are the best times to transplant. For the first few years water, feed and mulch generously to assure vigorous growth.

Planting sites should be considered carefully. Confine them to backyard areas away from sidewalks, driveways and streets. Fallen fruit can become a nuisance in the fall.

Some Plants May Be Cut

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, are interested in making cuttings of plants like hollies, abelias, photenias, pyracanthas, and euonymus, this is the time.

Place the cuttings in a sheltered place outdoors or you may use a coldframe. Set the cuttings in a firmly packed mixture of peat moss and sand, or in a bed made by spreading a two-inch layer of sharp sand over a bed of a mixture of topsoil, peat moss and sand and packing it firmly.

The cuttings must be shaded from direct sun until they are rooted. At regular intervals water thoroughly.

Bulbs to plant now include madonna lilies, lycons, oxalis, Easter lilies and calla lilies. Remember cala lilies need rich soil and partial shade.

Both the bearded and Louisiana iris may be planted this month.

CARPETS

Dirt and dust are the two worst enemies of your carpet and rugs. The carpet sweeper is a handy tool and is especially good for frequent light pickups. A thorough vacuuming should be done once or twice a week, depending upon the amount of traffic in your home. Every carpet and rug is the victim of spots or stains from time to time.

However, most of these accidents of spilling and dropping can be taken care of with little trouble. The dangers of spots and stains can be minimized if you follow these three rules. Act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on a carpet. Remove the spot and stains before they dry. Have necessary cleaning supplies always at hand. Try to identify what caused the spot and remove it by following directions.

There are three cleaning materials which should be kept on hand at all times for quick spot cleaning. These cleaning materials are a mild detergent, white vinegar, and dry cleaning fluid. A mixture of one teaspoonful of mild detergent, one teaspoonful of white vinegar and a quart of warm water will serve to neutralize any alkaline materials. A dry cleaning fluid is used for removing spots such as grease and oil stains. Cleaning solvents are good for your rugs. They may be harmful to you. Be sure to read the manufacturers instructions as to how to use them.

COLLEGE RAINWEAR

A lovely collection of rainwear awaits the college group this fall. Designed for all weather round the calendar wear, these coats range from the sport type to the late day styles, corduroys, poplins and suedes take the lead for daytime wear, while velveteen, and tapestry star for evening.

WOMEN'S WEAR

King Cotton has taken on some new looks in women's wear for this fall. Cotton corduroy, a fall and winter favorite has risen to great fashion heights and is featured by high style designers of sportswear, coats and dresses. The influence of knitted fashions has been carried into wide wale woven corduroys, designed to give the appearance of a knitted cable stitch. Wales of corduroy range from the wide 5 rib to extremely narrow 21 rib lightweights.

Smart for two piece fall suits, dresses, and jackets is black cloque pique in a herringbone pattern.

SCHOOL COTTONS

Favorites for the school crowd are prints in Scandinavian designs florals, modern geometric, and pleasant motifs with the look of Early American samplers. Color and texture are combined in emphatic checkerboard woven, and stripes have top rating for dresses.

In silhouette, children's fashions follow adult lines with loose but closer to the body shapes, flared skirts beneath long torsos and a relaxed two - piece look for many day and dress up designs. These have grown up tailoring with Paris inspired closings, deep inverted side pleats and lowered gently shaped waistlines.

High fashion coloring is used generously this season, with colors ranging from harvest tones of ginger and copper, gem like emeralds and plum to paprika reds and brilliant turquoise. These are seen in solids or combinations for a vast collection of plaids, gingham checks and prints.

Missionary Claims Many Healing Frauds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Lutheran medical missionary, Dr. Kristofer Hagen, says that "practically 100 per cent of the so-called 'cures' claimed by faith healers or shrines" either involve non - organic illnesses or dishonest "cures."

"Medical history," he writes, "is full of supposedly 'cured' appendicitis cases that 'needed no operations' and later died, of supposed 'cured' cancer patients who went right on and died." Excerpts of his book, "Faith and Health" were carried by "The Lutheran," a church weekly here.

Special Roles For Clergymen During Summer

The six-week program is designed to give pastors and theological students clinical experience in pastoral care of the sick and injured. Participants work beside members of the healing professions, do actual orderly work and attend seminars.

Four Volumes Present Study About Religion

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — A four - volume study, "Religion in American Life," written by 22 scholars, has been published by Princeton University Press. Its editors conclude: "Religion has both powerfully and pervasively affected the complex development of American culture."

MRS. ROBERT RAY RAINER

Rainer-Weir Nuptials Read In All Blue Setting

An all blue motif prevailed for the wedding of Miss Katherine Sue Weir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Weir, West Monroe, and Robert Ray Rainer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rainer, of Sarepta, which was solemnized at 8 p.m. Saturday, August 19, in the First Methodist church of West Monroe.

Rev. Don Wineinger performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli and blue flocked spruce against a background of southern smilax and blue lighted tapers. Candles were lighted by Gary Paul Sherrard and Jon Marshall Downs, cousins of the bride.

A concert of traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. John W. Clark, organist and McGuire Methodist Church choir with Eugene Smith, director. Selections included O Perfect Love and The Lord's Prayer, sung by the choir and a solo, Whither Thou Goest, by Mr. Smith.

Wearing a gown of ice blue silk orgaza over taffeta, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The gown was fashioned with scalloped neckline, long sleeves which formed lily points over her hands and fitted bodice which came to a point in back, from which pleats from the floor length skirt extended into a chapel train. A queen's crown of iridescent jewels held in place her ice blue fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and tuberoses.

Attendants for the bride were also gowned in shades of blue. Miss Gladys Halsell, maid of honor, wore a dress of French blue crystal taffeta, in street length, styled similar to the bride's gown. Complementing her ensemble were a veiled pillbox hat, matching shoes and white gloves. Her bouquet was a nosegay of blue tinted chrysanthemums, encircled by twinkle net puffs, accented by satin loops and silver leaves. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Stan McEacharn Jr., Mrs. Gerald Arrant, Mrs. Tommy Powell, Miss Janet Sharp, cousin of the bride and Miss Diana Cobb, wore dresses styled identical to the honor attendant's, in powder blue, with matching accessories and bouquets.

Miss Jan Scalia, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl and was dressed in a french blue replica of the other attendants' gowns with a miniature nosegay.

Mr. Rainer attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Joe Rainer, brother of the bridegroom; Harold Weir, brother of the bride; Mack Hunt, Gerald Dyson, James May and Ronnie Youngblood. Raymond Scalia, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Weir chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of pale gray silk shantung with matching shoes and bag and dusty rose hat and gloves. Her corsage of tuberoses was tinted to harmonize with her dress. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of rose silk shantung with matching accessories and a corsage of chrysanthemums and tuberoses.

A reception followed in the First National Bank Reception room, where Miss Margaret Hunter acted as hostess. Central decor for the bride's table, covered with floor length net over white satin cloth, was a tiered arrangement of blue chrysanthemums and white roses. The guest book table was graced with a small arrangement centered with a bridal candle. Serving were Mrs. W. B. Killgore, Mrs. Marion McGowen, and Mrs. L. B. McLeod. Mrs. Sidney Swink presided at the guest book and tea girls were Miss Beverly Halsell, Miss Sherry Sharp and Miss Marie Jeanne Swann. Rice bags were distributed by Misses Stephanie Sherrard and Glenda Ann Crawford.

When the couple left for a wedding trip through the Ozarks, the bride was wearing a bone shantung suit dress with matching accessories and turquoise hat and gloves. Her corsage was of turquoise tinted chrysanthemums. The couple will establish a home in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. Rainer is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Northwestern State College in Natchitoches, where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Mr. Rainer graduated from Sarepta High School and Louisiana Tech and is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stan McEacharn of Delhi; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherrard, Gary Paul and Stephanie Sherrard of Arcadia; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nolan, Mrs. R. C. Rainer, grandmother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Killgore and Benjie, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rainer, Mrs. H. T. Crawford, Glenda Ann and Harry; Mr. and Mrs. Marion McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mills, Mrs. Earl Jones, Miss Marie Jeanne Swann, all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Terry King of San Marcos, Texas; Mr and Mrs. O. C. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Powell of Vivian; Mrs. Don Rucker of Belcher; Mrs. T. V. McKinney, grandmother of the groom, Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Earthquake Hits Japan, Five Killed

TOKYO (AP) — A powerful earthquake struck central Japan Saturday, setting off landslides, cutting off roads and disrupting railroad service. Police listed 5 persons killed, 30 injured and 4 missing.

It was centered in a lightly populated area near Fukui. Property damage was feared heavy.

The quake registered a 7.2 reading of a possible 10 on the Richter Scale, equaling that of a disastrous 1948 quake which killed 3,769 persons.

The dead included four construction workers who were buried by a landslide and one man who was hit by falling rock. Seven school children were injured when tossed into a river after the embankment gave way.

The quake jolted many areas, including Shikoku Island, far south, and even was felt in Tokyo, 175 miles away.

Hardest hit areas were Fukui, Gifu and Ishikawa Prefectures on the Japan seaboard, where most of the casualties were reported.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan was visiting in one area where the quake was felt, Osaka-Kyoto.

BRITISH TO AID ARABS

LONDON (AP)—British firms have agreed to aid the United Arab Republic in setting up plants to make a new soft drink from the locust bean. A spokesman said President Nasser suggested the idea for the drink, to be called Sidrob.

Graham Says Evangelism Is Effective

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Mass evangelism has many deficits. It is not the ideal—but it has proved historically effective."

The Rev. William Franklin (Billy) Graham, D. D., was discussing with reporters the worldwide evangelism he has conducted for 13 years.

He has been in 115 such campaigns, preaching before some 30 million people and recording nearly 900,000 "decisions for Christ," or converts.

Sunday afternoon the Billy Graham evangelistic team will begin a month-long Greater Philadelphia crusade at Convention Hall. It will be his 35th major preaching mission in this country.

The auditorium seats about 14,000. Graham hopes it will be filled to overflowing. If the hall cannot accommodate the crowds, tentative plans call for a move to the 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium, site of the Army-Navy football game.

In Graham's most recent crusade, at Minneapolis — headquarters of his nondenominational organization — he preached outdoors to more than 40,000 persons nightly and set a record for a week-long campaign.

"In the open air," he said, "we have found that we get a greater number of unchurched people. I don't know the reason. Maybe they don't want to be hemmed in."

The unchurched are a primary target—those who have no church background; those who have their names on the rolls but remain passive.

Graham, 42, said he feels there is need for a spiritual awakening in Philadelphia and that its results could have a great impact on the entire world.

He will preach at Sunday afternoon and weekday evening services. Others in his group will go out to the people—street corners, department stores, factories.

FROM ASTRONOMERS

Needle Band Plan Drawing Protests

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A U.S. plan to put a band of radio 'needles' around the earth is drawing increasingly sharp protests from world astronomers.

The U.S. project, already approved by President Kennedy, calls for testing the idea of putting a band of hundreds of millions of tiny copper needles around the earth. Radio messages could be bounced between earth and the needle band for jam-proof, reliable communications.

Committees of American scientists have okayed the test. They hold it would not interfere with astronomy and that the needles, only 75 pounds in all, will fall slowly toward earth from the pressure of sunlight and vanish within two to three years, if the band is put into orbit correctly.

At least two vehemently worded resolutions of protest have been submitted for possible action next week by the International Astronomical Union representing 33 countries.

Some of the most famous astronomers are highly critical or doubtful, including Fred Hoyle of Cambridge, Hermann Bondi of London and B. W. Christiansen of Australia. Some Americans have joined the growing ranks of protests, too, and Belgian astronomers have submitted a resolution in opposition to the band.

The IAWs commission on radio astronomy, which includes American members, voted unanimously against the project. It said the needles might not fall to earth and could interfere seriously with the study of radio signals from space.

"If we could be reassured the band would not be permanent, it would be all right," said Dr. Bondi. He said the band would probably not interfere with radio astronomy now but could be a problem later when far more sensitive equipment is developed.

The needles, reflecting sunlight, could brighten the sky. Dr. Hoyle said this might endanger photographic studies of planets by high flying balloons and telescopic studies of distant galaxies.

Dr. C. L. Seeger of Stanford University said he had been told the needle band was wanted mainly for military reasons, as, for instance, providing reliable means for recalling nuclear bombers if they had been dispatched by error.

Numerous astronomers said that while the first test might not cause problems, they saw no reason for it unless permanent bands were planned for communication if they seemed feasible.

Soviet astronomers have not joined in the debate.

The experiment was proposed about two years ago by the Lincoln Laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The space science board said the belt of 350 million needles or reflective dipoles—each ¾ - inch long and one thousandth of an inch wide—would from a belt 5 miles wide and 25 miles thick. There would be 21 of them in each quarter of a cubic mile and in time they would spread even more thinly.

LeMay Says Missiles Not Sub For Men

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff and veteran bomber man, said Saturday he's confident "the missile is never going to replace the man."

In a speech prepared for delivery to a convention of Jewish war veterans, the man who directed the Strategic Air Command for years set forth his reasons:

Machines really aren't very bright. Electronic computors are "helpless without man's brain to observe, think, discriminate and make unrehearsed decisions for them."

Very good and accurate missiles are being built and each generation promises to be even better and more relaible. But they always will have limitations, compared with manned aircraft.

"First of all, you can only use a missile in a war," LeMay said. "Before you push the button, you're in peace. The moment you push it, you're at war. With a manned system you can do many things. Make a show of force, for example. It's pretty difficult to show the flag with weapons that are buried or submerged."

"Another advantage of the manned weapon is that if something malfunctions in flight, you can return and repair it on the ground. If something malfunctions in a missile's flight, you've lost an expensive piece of hardware," he said.

"Then there's the problem of reliability. It costs a lot of money to fire a missile. You must fire some to train your crews. But common sense and budget limitations naturally prevent you from firing too many. So you don't get a chance to build up experience with a missile to the extent that you do with a manned weapon," he continued.

Manned aircraft and missiles complement each other, one does not replace the other, LeMay said.

Adenauer Loses Plane Ride Bid

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer asked for a ride on Vice President Lyndon B. Johnsons plane to Berlin Saturday and was politely turned down, informed sources said.

Adenauer was advised that such a ride with the vice president could be interpreted as U.S. interference in the campaign for West Germanys Sept. 17 elections, the sources added.

The chancellor now plans to fly to Berlin next week. He has been criticized in some quarters for delaying his visit to the crisis-torn city.

New United Congo Plan Agreed Upon

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula declared Saturday that he and Antoine Gizenga had agreed on a united Congo and would bring Moise Tshombe's Katanga Province back into the fold by force, if necessary.

Adoula, who returned Friday night from a three-day visit in Gizenga's Stanleyville stronghold, said Gizenga was ill but would come to Leopoldville shortly and assume his new post as deputy premier in the new government.

"I intend to use all means—and by that I mean force, if necessary—to prevent secession," Adoula said in a reference to Katanga. The mineral-rich territory declared its own independence two weeks after the Congo became independent.

The premier told a news conference his accord with Gizenga called for a continuation of the policies of the late premier, Patrice Lumumba. He said the Lumumbist policy was to foster a united, neutral Congo.

Gizenga has acknowledged Adoula's regime as the legal government of the Congo. He advised Soviet, Red Chinese and neutral diplomats in Stanleyville to transfer to Leopoldville. Their countries had recognized Gizenga as Lumumba's political heir and the legal premier of the Congo.

Adoula extended a conditional invitation to the Stanleyville diplomatic colony to move to Leopoldville. "We will welcome diplomatic representatives from any nation which will respect our sovereignty and not mix in our internal affairs," he said. "We intend to follow a policy of strict nonalignment between East and West."

He said he had told the diplomats in Stanleyville they must decide whether to present their credentials to the Leopoldville government. The apparent alternate would be for them to leave the Congo.

Hike In School Funds Asked By Alabama Group

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama Education Association has appealed to the governor and the Legislature to increase appropriations to schools to relieve the "serious crisis in school and college financing."

The board of trustees sent the request to the governor and Legislature Friday as a $137 million education appropriation bill went on the House calendar. The amount approved by the Ways and Means Committee was more than $50 million short of the budget requested by school officials.

Increase appropriations to provide for growth and expansion in the public schools over the past two years.

Earthquake Hits Japan, Five Killed

TOKYO (AP) — A powerful earthquake struck central Japan Saturday, setting off landslides, cutting off roads and disrupting railroad service. Police listed 5 persons killed, 30 injured and 4 missing.

It was centered in a lightly populated area near Fukui. Property damage was feared heavy.

The quake registered a 7.2 reading of a possible 10 on the Richter Scale, equaling that of a disastrous 1948 quake which killed 3,769 persons.

The dead included four construction workers who were buried by a landslide and one man who was hit by falling rock. Seven school children were injured when tossed into a river after the embankment gave way.

A 200-yard lenth of railroad rails was twisted in Fukui Prefecture and signals were disrupted.

The quake jolted many areas, including Shikoku Island, far south, and even was felt in Tokyo, 175 miles away.

Hardest hit areas were Fukui, Gifu and Ishikawa Prefectures on the Japan seaboard, where most of the casualties were reported.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan was visiting in one area where the quake was felt, Osaka-Kyoto.

BRITISH TO AID ARABS

LONDON (AP)—British firms have agreed to aid the United Arab Republic in setting up plants to make a new soft drink from the locust bean. A spokesman said President Nasser suggested the idea for the drink, to be called Sidrob.

Graham Says Evangelism Is Effective

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Mass evangelism has many deficits. It is not the ideal—but it has proved historically effective."

The Rev. William Franklin (Billy) Graham, D. D., was discussing with reporters the worldwide evangelism he has conducted for 13 years.

He has been in 115 such campaigns, preaching before some 30 million people and recording nearly 900,000 "decisions for Christ," or converts.

Sunday afternoon the Billy Graham evangelistic team will begin a month-long Greater Philadelphia crusade at Convention Hall. It will be his 35th major preaching mission in this country.

The auditorium seats about 14,000. Graham hopes it will be filled to overflowing. If the hall cannot accommodate the crowds, tentative plans call for a move to the 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium, site of the Army-Navy football game.

In Graham's most recent crusade, at Minneapolis — headquarters of his nondenominational organization — he preached outdoors to more than 40,000 persons nightly and set a record for a week-long campaign.

"In the open air," he said, "we have found that we get a greater number of unchurched people. I don't know the reason. Maybe they don't want to be hemmed in."

The unchurched are a primary target—those who have no church background; those who have their names on the rolls but remain passive.

Graham, 42, said he feels there is need for a spiritual awakening in Philadelphia and that its results could have a great impact on the entire world.

He will preach at Sunday afternoon and weekday evening services. Others in his group will go out to the people—street corners, department stores, factories.

FROM ASTRONOMERS

Needle Band Plan Drawing Protests

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A U.S. plan to put a band of radio 'needles' around the earth is drawing increasingly sharp protests from world astronomers.

They express fear the man-made halo could dim astronomers views through telescopes and interfere with their radio instruments. One objected it might "befoul space."

The U.S. project, already approved by President Kennedy, calls for testing the idea of putting a band of hundreds of millions of tiny copper needles around the earth. Radio messages could be bounced between earth and the needle band for jam-proof, reliable communications.

Committees of American scientists have okayed the test. They hold it would not interfere with astronomy and that the needles, only 75 pounds in all, will fall slowly toward earth from the pressure of sunlight and vanish within two to three years, if the band is put into orbit correctly.

At least two vehemently worded resolutions of protest have been submitted for possible action next week by the International Astronomical Union representing 33 countries.

Some of the most famous astronomers are highly critical or doubtful, including Fred Hoyle of Cambridge, Hermann Bondi of London and B. W. Christiansen of Australia. Some Americans have joined the growing ranks of protests, too, and Belgian astronomers have submitted a resolution in opposition to the band.

The IAWs commission on radio astronomy, which includes American members, voted unanimously against the project. It said the needles might not fall to earth and could interfere seriously with the study of radio signals from space.

"If we could be reassured the band would not be permanent, it would be all right," said Dr. Bondi. He said the band would probably not interfere with radio astronomy now but could be a problem later when far more sensitive equipment is developed.

The needles, reflecting sunlight, could brighten the sky. Dr. Hoyle said this might endanger photographic studies of planets by high flying balloons and telescopic studies of distant galaxies.

Dr. C. L. Seeger of Stanford University said he had been told the needle band was wanted mainly for military reasons, as, for instance, providing reliable means for recalling nuclear bombers if they had been dispatched by error.

Numerous astronomers said that while the first test might not cause problems, they saw no reason for it unless permanent bands were planned for communication if they seemed feasible.

Said one young Palomar, Calif., astronomer: "It's like getting in a car with a drunken driver. Once in, you're in for the ride."

Soviet astronomers have not joined in the debate.

The experiment was proposed about two years ago by the Lincoln Laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The space science board said the belt of 350 million needles or reflective dipoles—each ¾ - inch long and one thousandth of an inch wide—would from a belt 5 miles wide and 25 miles thick. There would be 21 of them in each quarter of a cubic mile and in time they would spread even more thinly.

LeMay Says Missiles Not Sub For Men

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff and veteran bomber man, said Saturday he's confident "the missile is never going to replace the man."

In a speech prepared for delivery to a convention of Jewish war veterans, the man who directed the Strategic Air Command for years set forth his reasons:

Machines really aren't very bright. Electronic computors are "helpless without man's brain to observe, think, discriminate and make unrehearsed decisions for them."

Very good and accurate missiles are being built and each generation promises to be even better and more relaible. But they always will have limitations, compared with manned aircraft.

"First of all, you can only use a missile in a war," LeMay said. "Before you push the button, you're in peace. The moment you push it, you're at war. With a manned system you can do many things. Make a show of force, for example. It's pretty difficult to show the flag with weapons that are buried or submerged."

"Another advantage of the manned weapon is that if something malfunctions in flight, you can return and repair it on the ground. If something malfunctions in a missile's flight, you've lost an expensive piece of hardware," he said.

"Then there's the problem of reliability. It costs a lot of money to fire a missile. You must fire some to train your crews. But common sense and budget limitations naturally prevent you from firing too many. So you don't get a chance to build up experience with a missile to the extent that you do with a manned weapon," he continued.

Manned aircraft and missiles complement each other, one does not replace the other, LeMay said.

Adenauer Loses Plane Ride Bid

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer asked for a ride on Vice President Lyndon B. Johnsons plane to Berlin Saturday and was politely turned down, informed sources said.

Adenauer was advised that such a ride with the vice president could be interpreted as U.S. interference in the campaign for West Germanys Sept. 17 elections, the sources added.

The chancellor now plans to fly to Berlin next week. He has been criticized in some quarters for delaying his visit to the crisis-torn city.

New United Congo Plan Agreed Upon

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula declared Saturday that he and Antoine Gizenga had agreed on a united Congo and would bring Moise Tshombe's Katanga Province back into the fold by force, if necessary.

Adoula, who returned Friday night from a three-day visit in Gizenga's Stanleyville stronghold, said Gizenga was ill but would come to Leopoldville shortly and assume his new post as deputy premier in the new government.

"I intend to use all means—and by that I mean force, if necessary—to prevent secession," Adoula said in a reference to Katanga. The mineral-rich territory declared its own independence two weeks after the Congo became independent.

The premier told a news conference his accord with Gizenga called for a continuation of the policies of the late premier, Patrice Lumumba. He said the Lumumbist policy was to foster a united, neutral Congo.

Adoula minimized differences with Lumumba that split the Congo into stormy chaos following the birth of the African nation in June, 1960.

Gizenga has acknowledged Adoula's regime as the legal government of the Congo. He advised Soviet, Red Chinese and neutral diplomats in Stanleyville to transfer to Leopoldville. Their countries had recognized Gizenga as Lumumba's political heir and the legal premier of the Congo.

Adoula extended a conditional invitation to the Stanleyville diplomatic colony to move to Leopoldville. "We will welcome diplomatic representatives from any nation which will respect our sovereignty and not mix in our internal affairs," he said. "We intend to follow a policy of strict nonalignment between East and West."

He said he had told the diplomats in Stanleyville they must decide whether to present their credentials to the Leopoldville government. The apparent alternate would be for them to leave the Congo.

Hike In School Funds Asked By Alabama Group

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama Education Association has appealed to the governor and the Legislature to increase appropriations to schools to relieve the "serious crisis in school and college financing."

The board of trustees sent the request to the governor and Legislature Friday as a $137 million education appropriation bill went on the House calendar. The amount approved by the Ways and Means Committee was more than $50 million short of the budget requested by school officials.

The AEA appeal asked "prompt and firm" action during the remaining six legislative days to:

Increase appropriations to provide for growth and expansion in the public schools over the past two years.

Foreign Aid Compromise To Be Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday he hopes a Senate-House compromise on President Kennedy's foreign aid program will retain at least a three years program of Treasury financing.

At the same time, Mansfield predicted in an interview that both the Senate and House would agree Monday to seek a compromise in sharply differing multibillion foreign aid authorizations they passed Friday.

The Senate version, passed by a 66-24 margin, provided an $8-billion five-year program of Treasury borrowing for a long-range development loan program. Kennedy regards this long-range authority as vital to his whole program.

The House version limited lending to a $1.2-billion authorization for a single year despite an appeal of the President. Treasury borrowing would be barred entirely with the money to be provided by congressional appropriation.

The Democratic House leadership made no serious effort to reverse a vote of last Wednesday that cut out the long-term Treasury borrowing features of the administration bill. Apparently they decided against a bitter floor fight and in favor of relying on reaching an acceptable compromise in conference.

NATIONAL POLL

Teeners Say Fight To Maintain Berlin

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Three out of four teen - agers just interviewed in a national poll have told us that they think Berlin is worth fighting for.

In a sampling of 395 young people, 79 per cent said Berlin is worth going to war over; 19 per cent said it isn't and two per cent had no opinion. The number of boys answering yes was somewhat higher than among the girls.

Typical of the majority reaction was the assertion that the West could not yield any further to Russia even if it means war.

"There is no question about it," said Carol Oksol, 17, of Sioux Falls, S. C. "If we lose Berlin, we lose Europe and our self-respect."

Charles Manchester, 18, Dayton, O., said: "We have to stop Russia sometime and this is as good as any."

Most of the teen - agers evidently feel, however, that the Berlin crisis will not result in war. Fifty-nine per cent believe Russia is bluffing. Thrty-six per cent think Russia isn't bluffing and five per cent had no opinion.

"Russia could no more afford a nuclear war than the U. S.," said Kathy Gemmell, 18, State College, Pa.

Nearly three quarters of those we talked to agreed that President Kennedy has been firm enough in dealing with Khrushchev over Berlin. Only 17 per cent disagreed and 11 had no opinion.

"Kennedy is as firm as one could be with such a madman," said Dorris Beck, 18, of New York.

The teen-agers were more evenly divided on this question:

If there is a war, do you think it will be an atomic war or a conventional war?

Robert Fields, 13, of New York, thought it would be a war fought by conventional methods for another reason:

"Because I'm sure the Russians won't want to commit suicide with atomic war, but with conventional war they have a chance to take over the world and live."

Black Bayou Boat Mishap Fatal To Man

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Catahoula Parish Sheriff's Department Saturday reported that Clifton Greer, 42, of Sulphur, drowned, and his companion was hospitalized when their boat capsized on Black Bayou Friday night.

J. M. Hewett, of Mangham, was taken to St. Francis Hospital in Monroe, where he was suffering from shock and cuts on the leg and head.

The body of Greer, a refinery worker, was recovered about 11:30 Friday night.

The two men were returning to their camp at "The Rocks" on Lake Louie, when their outboard boat struck a tree and capsized about 7:30 p.m.

Coroner Dr. Charlie Passman ruled the death accidental. Both men had the regulation life preservers in their boat.

Hewett walked into the camp about 9 o'clock and the sheriff's department was notified.

Also at the scene, in addition to the Catahoula Sheriff's Department, was a rescue team from Natchez, Concordia sheriff's authorities and Pat Barron of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

The body was taken to Young's Funeral Home at Ferriday, and later transferred to Hixson Brothers Funeral Home at Lake Charles.

Crossett Sets Up 3-Diploma School Plan

CROSSETT (Special)—A three-diploma program has been set up by the Crossett School Board.

Following several weeks study, board members voted to start giving graduation diplomas in three categories with the class of 1961.

The three categories will be academic, general and vocational.

A course of study has been outlined for each category, according to M. H. Russell, superintendent of schools. Same requirements for graduation will be in effect as in the past.

Under the new setup only students who are eligible for diplomas will be given them.

Any student who has not completed the required 16 hours credit will not be allowed to participate in graduation exercises. New policy will go into effect with the class of 1962, the board decided.

Reason for change to multiple diploma program is to encourage students in individual fields.

Under the new arrangement it is felt more students can gain honors because they will be competing in fields of their own interest.

JONESVILLE (Special) —Three 30 - minute television programs have been purchased with KALB-TV by the proponents of the location of the proposed locks and dams south of Jonesville.

Brown will also appear on a TV broadcast on Thursday from 9:30 to 10 p.m. Opposing Brown on this program which will be presented by the station will be E. R. McDonald, president of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, which has been waging a fight against the south location.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Young's Funeral Home Chapel in Ferriday with Rev. Robert Tatum officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery in Monroe, with Masonic graveside rites.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Effie Chambers, Lake St. John; four sisters, Mrs. Georgia Williams, Mrs. Russ Brown, both of Monroe; Mrs. G. E. Steadman, Franklin; Mrs. J. O. Walters, Martin, Miss.

Pallbeares will be Gordon Wiggins, Bob Chennault, L. A. Wimberly, R. C. Tatum, Bob Roberts, C. T. Evans and Dr. Killian.

Myth
Taxes on Business don't cost the Customer anything
Truth
Only people pay taxes. The business simply becomes a tax collector for government. The cost is usually "passed on" to the wage-earner in the form of higher prices.

I'M GOING TO BED EARLY FOR A CHANGE

I'M MAKING UP THE SOFA FOR ALEXANDER

COOKIE'S GIRL FRIENDS ARE HAVING THEIR SLUMBER PARTY HERE TONIGHT

I HOPE THEY DON'T GIGGLE ALL NIGHT

RING

NOW, WHO COULD THAT BE?

IT ISN'T ALEXANDER.. HE'S GOT HIS KEY

TOOTSIE AND I HAD A SCRAP AND SHE LOCKED ME OUT OF THE HOUSE

WHY CAN'T YOU FIGHT IN THE DAYTIME?

WOODLEY'S ON THE SOFA--I FIXED THE SLEEPING BAG FOR ALEXANDER

HE'S GOT HIS NERVE

RING

CORA'S AWAY AND IT'S TOO LONELY RATTLING AROUND THAT BIG HOUSE BY MYSELF

AGE BEFORE BEAUTY

MAYBE WE OUGHT TO SLEEP AT MY HOUSE -- YOU'RE PRETTY CROWDED HERE

BUT WE ALREADY TOLD THE GUYS TO PICK US UP HERE ON THEIR WAY TO THE LAKE

RING

THIS IS GETTING UTTERLY RIDICULOUS

SK-N N-N N-N

YOU CAN SLEEP WITH ME, TOOTSIE -- I'LL SEND DAGWOOD DOWNSTAIRS

I WAS SCARED OVER THERE ALL BY MYSELF

SK-N

IT'S A POPULATION EXPLOSION

ON FAILURE OF WITNESSES TO IDENTIFY HIM, "SPREADY" SPENSIVE, THE EX-CON, IS RELEASED ON A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS, TO THE UTTER DISMAY OF TRACY AND THE POLICE.

YOU LADY LAWYERS ARE OKAY, MONA.

'KEW.

POLIC

"SPREADY" SERVED TIME FOR JEWEL ROBBERY—AND UNQUESTIONABLY WAS INVOLVED IN THE ROBBERY KILLING OF LAST WEEK.

BUT WITNESSES ARE AFRAID! THEY FEAR TO MAKE AN IDENTIFICATION. THEY'RE ABSOLUTELY SCARED.

WHAT CAN WE DO?

THAT'S ONE OF OUR BIG PROBLEMS OF TODAY. HOW CAN THE POLICE GET RESULTS WHEN A WITNESS IS AFRAID TO TESTIFY?

"SPREADY" SPENSIVE HAD 2 PARTNERS WHEN HE WAS SENT UP IN '59, DIDN'T HE, SAM?" ASKS TRACY.

'KEW.

THAT'S RIGHT. ONE WAS MURDERED WHILE OUT ON BOND. THE OTHER IS SERVING TIME IN LEAVENWORTH.

HEY, BOYS!

I ASKED FOR A DETAILED PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION OF THAT PARTNER OF "SPREADY'S" WHO'S IN LEAVENWORTH AND LOOK WHAT I GOT.

THE "DUKE," HE WAS KNOWN AS—DUKE KEENE.

NOTICE ANYTHING ON THAT REPORT?

YEAH—A SCAR!

A SCAR EXACTLY LIKE "SPREADY'S"!

Birth mark

anchor tattoo

scar

compound fracture injury

Cb 8020

THOSE LIES "SPREADY" TOLD US ABOUT HAVING FAT CUT OUT!

AND HE WOULDN'T LET US X-RAY HIM.

CHESTER GOULD

YEAH— HM? WHAT ARE YOU DOING?

JUST OBSERVING HOW A KEY IS ATTRACTED BY A MAGNET.

I KNOW, MR. AUGUST! IT SOUNDS FUNNY! EVERYONE LAUGHS AT ME WHEN I SAY I WANT TO GROW UP TO BE LIKE THE BISHOP!

IT'S ONE OF THE LONGEST AND HARDEST ROADS OF ALL, TO GAIN HIS UNDERSTANDING! MAYBE, FRANCIS, AT THE START, I CAN HELP YOU A LITTLE!

ER··· IF··· IF YOU COULD ONLY GET ME A JOB!

LOOK, MY BOY! OVER THERE IS THE CHURCH, AND BESIDE IT THE BISHOP'S HOME, AND NEXT THERE IS HIS SCHOOL··· THE FINEST IN THIS CITY!

I SAW THE BISHOP A WEEK AGO, NOT TEN FEET AWAY IN A CROWD. HE SMILED AT ME!

YOU'LL BE CLOSER THAN THAT TO HIM! YOU'LL LIVE IN HIS HOUSE, YOU'LL GO TO HIS SCHOOL!

HE NEEDS A YOUNG MAN TO RUN ERRANDS, TO TEND HIS YARD, TO ANSWER HIS PHONE, TO KEEP HIS LIBRARY IN ORDER, TO READ HIS BOOKS; A YOUNG MAN HE CAN TALK WITH, AND EACH LEARN FROM THE OTHER!

HOW COULD HE LEARN ANYTHING FROM A YOUNG PUNK LIKE ME?

A WISE MAN NEVER CEASES TO LEARN, MY BOY! SO, YOU'LL GO TO HIS SCHOOL. LATIN, GREEK, HISTORY, THE HUMANITIES! YOU'LL BE NO "PUNK" FOR LONG!

HM·M! THERE'S A SPECIAL FUND FOR SPECIAL LADS LIKE YOU! ALL YOUR EXPENSES WILL BE PAID!

THE BISHOP KNOWS OF YOU. GO THERE NOW! AND FRANCIS! WHATEVER YOU DO, HOWEVER YOU FARE, KNOW THAT I, BIG AUGUST, WILL NEVER LOSE MY FAITH IN YOU!
